"whenever any convict shall hereafter be sentenced to death the death penalty shall be inflicted within the wall or yard of the penitentiary of the district in which such convict shall have been sentenced Any judge in sentencing any convict to death shall sentence such convict in accordance herewith and not otherwise"

and inserting in lieu thereof the words

"every person his aiders abettors and counsellors hereafter convicted of the crime of murder of the first degree shall be sentenced to suffer death in the manner herein provided and not otherwise Such punishment in every case must be inflicted by causing to pass through the body of the convict a current of electricity of intensity sufficient to cause death and the application of such current must be continued until such convict is dead The said punishment shall be inflicted within the walls or yard of the Allegheny or Philadelphia county prisons as hereinafter provided for by the Superintendent Deputy Superintedent or jailer thereof or by such person as the Superintendent or jailer shall designate"

also in section two, line one, by striking out the words

"No person except the following shall witness any such execution the warden of the penitentiary where such execution shall take place a qualified physician six reputable citizens selected by such warden one minister of the gospel when requested and selected by the convict such immediate relatives of the convict as may be requested by such convict and such officers of said penitentiary as may be selected by said warden"

and inserting in lieu thereof the words

"Whenever any person shall have been convicted and sentenced to death the clerk of the court where such conviction shall have taken place shall transmit to the Governor of the Commonwealth a full and complete transcript of the record of such trial and conviction within thirty days after sentence or in the event of an appeal within twenty days after the final disposal of the cause upon such appeal"

Also in section three by striking out the words

"After any such execution the warden of the proper penitentiary shall certify in writing under oath or affirmation to the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the county wherein such convict had been sentenced to death that such convict was duly executed within the walls or yard of such penitentiary in the manner prescribed by law and at the time designated in the death warrant of the Governor Such certificate shall be filed in the office of the clerk of such court and a copy thereof published in one newspaper in the county wherein such convict has been sentenced"

and inserting in lieu thereof the words

"After the receipt of the said record the Governor of the Commonwealth shall issue his warrant directed to the superintendent or jailer of such prison as he may designate commanding such superintendent or jailer to cause such convict to be executed in such prison within the week to be named in said warrant and in the manner prescribed by law"

also in section four by striking out the words

"The respective wardens of the Eastern and Western Penitentiaries shall immediately after the passage of this act cause to be constructed and placed in such penitentiary such apparatus and appliances as may be suitabe and sufficient to execute condemned criminals in the manner required by law" also in section eleven, line twelve, by striking out the word "section" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "sections."

On the question,

Will the Senate concur in the same?

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, if I understand these amendments correctly they practically change the entire tenor of the bill as it was passed in the Senate and I raise the question whether a bill can be passed in that way that changes the entire bill by amendment. It changes the title and changes the method of procedure as to the punishment. I do not think, Mr. President, that under the rules a bill of that kind can be passed.

The PRESIDENT. The chair informs the Senator from Berks that that is not a question to be disposed of by the Chair.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, I move that the Senate non-concur in the amendment as it changes the entire bill. The bill passed here was a bill for hanging and this bill is a bill for electrocution and in the prisons instead of the penitentiaries, if I understand correctly, in the Allegheny and Philadelphia County prisons, and I do not believe a bill of that kind is necessary at the present time.

Mr. WILBERT. Mr. President, I would like to ask for a little information. Am I to understand that if convicted they are to be electrocuted in the jails of Philadelphia and Allegheny County?

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, the amendments change the bill entirely. The bill as passed in the Senate was a bill to have the executions in the Eastern and Western Penitentiaries, and the amendments change it to the jails in Philadelphia and Allegheny counties.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate concur in the amendments?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Baldwin	Judson	Sproul	Washers
Clark	Knapp	Tustin	Wertz
Huffman	McIlhenny

NAYS—35.

Adams	Heacock	Manbeck	Shields
Alexander	Herbst	Martin	Snyder
Buckman	Homsher	McConnell	Sones
Cooper	Hunter	McNichol	Vare
DeWitt	Jarrett	McNichols	Weingartner
Endsley	Jones	Miller	Wilbert
Gerberich	Keyser	Morgan	Wolf
Hall	Kline	Nulty	Crow
Hays	Kurtz	Powell	Pres. pro tem.

Less than a majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the negative.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING THE APPOINTMENT OF A COMMISSION TO INVESTIGATE ANY CHARGES THAT HAVE HERETOFORE OR MAY HEREAFTER BE MADE BETWEEN LEGISLATIVE SESSIONS AGAINST JUDGES OR OTHER PERSONS HOLDING A CIVIL OFFICE.

Mr. CATLIN offered the following resolution:

Whereas, from time to time there have been in the public press of the State grave charges of misconduct on the part of certain Judges and other persons holding civil offices in this Commonwealth; and

Whereas, it is of paramount importance to this Commonwealth and said Judges and officers that their integrity be retained and a high standard of ethics sought; and

Whereas, there are no laws upon the statute books authorizing the investigation of any charges that may be made during the interim between legislative sessions against any of said Judges and officers, the sole power of investigation and impeachment under the Constitution being vested with the Legislature; and

Whereas, it is of great importance to the residents of the State and such accused Judges and officials that all charges be investigated at the time they are made so as to set at rest the accusations aforesaid; therefore

Be It Resolved, That the President pro tempore of the Senate be and he is hereby authorized to appoint five Senators four representing the majority party and one representing the minority party which shall constitute a commission, whose duty it shall be to investigate any charges that have heretofore or may hereafter be made, between legislative sessions against any Judges or other persons holding a civil office in this Commonwealth, of any immoral or dishonest conduct or who have in any way violated their oaths of office. The Chairman of said commission shall be designated by the President pro tempore of the Senate and all subpoenas issued by said commission shall be signed by him and served by the Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate. Said commission shall have full power to administer oaths and to compel the attendance of witnesses the production of books, documents, records and papers as in its judgment will assist in the performance of its duties. Each member of said commission before entering upon his duties shall take and subscribe to the oath prescribed by the Constitution of the Commonwealth for the faithful performance of his duties. The commission shall hold such hearings, which shall be public, at such times and places as it may deem proper, and shall at all its hearings be represented by the Attorney General of this Commonwealth or his duly accredited representative. The accused may appear by counsel and may through the commission have such witnesses, papers, books and documents produced as he shall deem necessary to establish his innocence. The members of said commission shall serve without compensation, but shall be allowed their actual necessary expenses. It shall also have the right to employ such officers and employes as may be needed to enable it to properly perform its duties and the expenditures therefor shall be limited to the amount provided for in the general appropriation bill. Said commission shall make a full and true report in writing of its investigations, together with such recommendations and suggestions as it may deem necessary, to the General Assembly of Pennsylvania at its first session in the year one thousand nine hundred and thirteen.

Mr. CATLIN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to suspend Rule 39 in order to consider the resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The resolution was twice read, considered and agreed to.

EXECUTIVE SESSION.

BILL OVER IN ORDER.

Mr. WOLF. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 757 (House No. 405), on third reading, entitled:

An act to regulate the temperature of milk and cream intended to be shipped sold or offered for sale be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary Special.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I object.

Mr. HEACOCK. Mr. President, I hope this motion will not prevail. I know that the farmers throughout the State are in favor of this bill as it is now and I am sure that it is not for the best interests of the milk men to have it tied up and that is what is proposed to be done with it.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, I think the Senator from Delaware was about to be heard and we would like to hear from him. I do not think a caucus should take place on the floor of the Senate. I think the Senator from Delaware should give his opinions.

Mr. WOLF. Mr. President, I ask that this bill go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 759 (House No. 600), as follows:

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House is requested.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 763 (House No. 663), on third reading, entitled:

An act entitled an act supplementary to an act for the government of cities of the second class approved the seventh day of March Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and one be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General for the purpose of amendment.

Mr. JARRETT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I object. This bill ame out of the Committee on Judiciary Special and I would ke to ask the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Powell, his pur ose for recommitting it to the Committee on Judiciary eneral.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. owell, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POWELL. Mr. President, certainly. The purpose of ecommitting this bill to the Committee on Judiciary Gen ral is for the purpose of correcting two or three typo raphical errors.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I would like to ask why ; is necessary to recommit to the Committee on Judiciary eneral?

Mr. POWELL. Mr. President, this bill came from the ommittee on Judiciary Special and when it was in that ommittee it was beautifully emasculated. My purpose in ecommitting it to the Committee on Judiciary General is o put it in the hands of its friends.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I would like to know ho emasculated the bill, if the gentleman was not one of ne sub-committee who were concerned in the emasculating f the bill.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. President, I take great pleasure in aying I was and it was done on the floor of the Senate, here all things of that kind should be done.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I move to amend the otion by substituting the words "Judiciary Special" for ne words "Judiciary General."

Mr. SHIELDS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. owell, accept the amendment?

Mr. POWELL. Mr. President, I will not.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. POWELL and Ir. McNICHOLS and were as follows, viz:

Less than a majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the negative.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 775 (House No. 608), as follows:

An act to regulate the doing of business in this Commonwealth by foreign corporations the registration thereof and service of process thereon and providing punishment and penalties for the violation of its provisions and repealing previous legislation on the subject

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the term "foreign corporation" as used in this act shall mean every corporation which has been established organized or chartered under laws other than those of the Commonwealth

Section 2 Every such foreign corporation before doing any business in this Commonwealth shall appoint in writing the Secretary of the Commonwealth and his successor in office to be its true and lawful attorney and authorized agent upon whom all lawful processes in any action or proceeding against it may be served and service of process on the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall be of the same legal force and validity as if served on it and the authority for such service of process shall continue in force so long as any liability remains outstanding against it in the Commonwealth The power of attorney shall be executed with the seal of the corporation and signed by the president and secretary thereof and shall contain a statement showing the title and purpose of said corporation the location of its principal place of business in the Commonwealth and the post office address within the Commonwealth to which the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall send by mail any process against it served on him which address said corporation may change from time to time as it may find occasion by filing a certificate under its corporate seal with the Secretary of the Commonwealth setting forth such change of address Upon the payment of a fee of ten dollars for the use of the Commonwealth the said power of attorney and statement shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth and copies certified by him shall be sufficient evidence thereof Service of such process shall be made by the sheriff of Dauphin county by leaving two copies of the process and a fee of two dollars in the hands or at the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth and he shall make due return of his service of said process to the court magistrate or justice of the peace issuing the same Such process may be issued by any court or magistrate or justice of the peace having jurisdiction of the subject matter in controversy in any county of the Commonwealth in which said corporation shall have its principal place of business or in such county in which the right of action arose. Upon the filing of the said power of attorney with the Secretary of the Commonwealth it shall be his duty to certify forthwith to the Auditor General the corporate name of the corporation filing the same and the location of its principal place of business in the Commonwealth as set forth in said power of attorney.

Section 3 When legal process against any such corporation has been served upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth he shall immediately send by mail postage prepaid one copy of such process directed to the corporation at the post office address designated by it as hereinbefore provided The fee of two dollars paid by the plaintiff to the Secretary of the Commonwealth at the time of the service shall be taxed in his costs if he prevails in the suit The Secretary of the Commonwealth shall keep a record of the day and hour of the service of such process on him and a certified copy of such record shall be sufficient evidence thereof

Section 4 Any person or persons agent officer or employee of any such foreign corporation who shall transact any business within this Commonwealth for any such foreign corporation without the provisions of this act being complied with shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment not exceeding thirty days and by a fine not exceeding one thousand dollars or either at the discretion of the court trying the same Provided That the failure of any such corporation to file the power of attorney and statement aforesaid with the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall not impair or affect the validity of any contract with such corporation and actions or proceedings at law or in equity may be instituted and maintained on any such contract but no such action shall be instituted or recovery had by any such corporation on any such contract either expressed or implied in any of the courts of this Commonwealth or before any justice of the peace or magistrate thereof until such corporation complies with the provisions of this act And Provided further Before any such corporation can institute any action in any of the courts of this Commonwealth or before any justice of the peace or magistrate thereof in any of said courts or before any justice of the peace or magistrate of this Commonwealth on any causes of action arising prior to the filing of the power of attorney and statement provided for in section two of this act it shall pay to the Secretary of the Commonwealth for the use of the Commonwealth a license fee or fine of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250.00) Provided however that this act shall not extend or be construed to give validity to any contracts entered into by corporations prior to the passage of this act nor to give to foreign corporations any right to enforce such contracts if such right did not exist at the time such contracts were entered into

Section 5 The act entitled "An Act to prohibit foreign corporations from doing business in Pennsylvania without having known places of business and authorized agents" approved the twenty-second day of April one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four (Pamphlet Laws one hundred and eight) be and the same is hereby repealed and all other acts of Assembly inconsistent with the provisions hereof or supplied hereby are also hereby repealed Provided however That the license fee or fine of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250.00) prescribed in the fourth section of this act shall not be required of or imposed upon any foreign corporation now duly registered under said act approved the twenty-second day of April one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four hereby repealed if such foreign corporation shall file the power of attorney and statement provided for in section two of this act in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth within one year after the date of the approval hereof nor shall the repeal of said act be construed as in any wise affecting the existing rights or liabilities of any foreign corporation now duly registered thereunder And provided further that this act shall not be construed to apply to foreign insurance companies but the doing of business in this Commonwealth by such companies shall be regulated by existing laws

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. WOLF. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend the bill as follows: By striking out in Section four, line ten thereof, the word "Commonwealth" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "Commonwealth;" also in the same section, line twenty-three, by striking out the words "in any of said courts or before;" also by striking out in line twenty-four of the same section the words "any justice of the peace or magistrate of this Commonwealth;" also by inserting in line twenty-nine of the same section after the word "Provided" the word "further;" also in line thirty by inserting after the word "contracts" the following words: "other than contracts of bailment, contracts of pledges and contracts between depositors and persons or corporations engaged in the business of receiving deposits of money subject to check;" also by inserting after the word "contracts" in line thirty-three the following: "other than contracts of bailment, contracts of pledge and contracts between depositors and persons or corporations engaged in the business of receiving deposits of money subject to check;" also by inserting in line thirty-four after the word "into" the following words: "but actions or proceedings at law or in equity may be instituted and maintained and recovery may be had in any pending action on contracts of bailment, contracts of pledge and contracts between depositors and persons or corporations engaged in the business of receiving deposits of money subject to check although said contract may have been entered into prior to the passage of this act."

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The amendments were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 791 (House No. 448), entitled:

An act authorizing and empowering the Board of Commissioners of Public Gronuds and Buildings to rent offices and rooms outside of the Capital building when necessary for the accommodation of any department or commission of the State government

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, with the magnificent capitol here, I would like to know what reason there is why there is not room enough in this capitol to house all the State officials. I would like to have an explanation of this bill before vote for it. I shall vote no unless I have a reasonable explanation why there is not enough room in the State Capito here for all the State officials.

Mr. FOX. Mr. President, there is not room enough in thi capitol building to house all of the bureaus. The State Fis Department is downtown now and within the next few year this building will be filled to overflowing. I had a tal with the Superintendent of Public Grounds and Building and I know that to be a fact. That is the reason this bi has been introduced, so as to make room for the growin departments. During this whole session there is a roo in this building for the Judiciary Special Committee, yet has been occupied otherwise and that committee has no been able to get into it. We have been compelled to si almost continuously in the Senate Caucus room when it wa not occupied by some one else. It is a fact that this build ing to-day is filled and within the next year or two as d partments grow, as grow they must, this building will b overcrowded.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, I suppose that is one o the big reasons why the capitol park extension bill wa voted for by the Senator from Dauphin. No doubt we wi have to build in this direction. No doubt one of the be arguments he can use in the House now is to go over the and tell them there is not room enough in this building t house all these departments and that the capitol park e tension bill should pass the House.

Mr. FOX. Mr. President, I have made my argument u on that question before this body. I have made that arg ment anticipating what the future of this Commonwealt will be. The great trouble is we have not been anticipatin our developments and if the Constitution is amended an we will build the roads that we now contemplate that d partment alone will necessitate a great force and room mu be made for that department. That is just one of the fe things that is coming. It may not come in the next fi years but in the next twenty-five years certainly you wi have to have other buildings than this.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the prov sions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Section 16 This act shall take effect at once and the members of said council immediately upon their appointment shall organize by the election of one of their number as president who shall serve until the first Monday of January in the year one thousand nine hundred and twelve

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, these gentlemen from Pittsburg have certainly led us a merry dance this session and for ten years, since they passed the first Ripper bill ten years ago when I was a member of this Senate. I wish to ask a few questions about this bill of the gentleman who offered the amendments.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Adams, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. President, certainly.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, is this a bill that the gentlemen from Allegheny county have agreed on among themselves?

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. President, I will not say that Allegheny county has agreed, because a part of Allegheny has refused. A majority have agreed.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, does it provide for a small council of nine members?

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. President, it provides for a council in the City of Pittsburg of nine, in the City of Scranton of five.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, does it provide for the election of these members at the next election?

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. President, it provides for the appointment by the Governor of the councilmen until December, 1911, and the election of the councilmen at the November election, 1911, to serve for terms of four or six years.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, has the Senator from the other city involved in the bill agreed to this bill?

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. President, that is for him to say.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Lackawanna permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McNICHOLS. Mr. President, certainly.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, has the Senator from Lackawanna agreed to the bill?

Mr. McNICHOLS. Mr. President, I had no knowledge of the bill before it was read here. I knew nothing about it.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, that involves all the questions that should be answered.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. POWELL and Mr. JUDSON and were as follows, viz.:

YEAS—27.

Adams	Hall	Kurtz	Tustin
Baldwin	Homsher	Manbeck	Vare
Catlin	Hunter	McConnell	Wertz
Cooper	Jarrett	McNichol	Wilbert
DeWitt	Jones	Shields	Wolf
Endsley	Keyser	Snyder	Crow
Fox	Kline	Sproul	Pres. pro tem

Hays	Judson	Miller	Powell
Heacock	McNichols	Nulty

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair calls the Senator from Delaware, Mr. Sproul, to the chair.

Mr. SPROUL in the chair.

The CHAIRMAN. The committee of the whole having before it for consideration Senate Bill No. 763 (House No. 663), entitled:

An act entitled an act supplementary to an act for the government of cities of the second class approved the seventh day of March Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and one

The amendments will be inserted according to the instructions of the Senate.

The President pro tempore (Mr. W. E. CROW) in the chair.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, as chairman of the committee of the whole, I report back to the Senate, Senate Bill No. 763 (House No. 663), as amended according to instructions of the Senate.

On the question.

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

RECONSIDERATION OF SENATE BILL NO. 767.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 767 (House No. 560), entitled:

An act authorizing the ascertainment award levy assessment and collection of the costs damages and expenses of municipal improvements including the opening widening straightening extending grading paving macadamizing curbing or otherwise improving of roads streets lanes alleys or parts completed or in course of completion and also the cost damages and expense of the construction of any sewer or drain completed or now in process of completion providing for the ascertainment levy and collection of damages and benefits therefor from property peculiarly benefited where under existing laws or ordinances private property could not be assessed for such benefits a lien upon the property upon which they are assessed and authorizing the completion of such improvements now in progress was defeated on final passage on May 18th.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. POWELL. Mr. President, I voted no.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. President, I voted no.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. POWELL. Mr. President, I move to reconsider the vote by which this bill passed third reading.

Mr. WILBERT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. POWELL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend the bill as follows:

By inserting in section 1 line 4 after the word "heretofore" the words "since the first day of July Anno Domini nineteen hundred and nine;" also in section 10 line 17 by striking out the words "five years" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "eighteen months"

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The amendments were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

COMMITTEE DISCHARGED FROM CONSIDERATION OF HOUSE BILL NO. 353.

Mr. NULTY. Mr. President, I move that the Judiciary Special Committee be relieved from further consideration of House Bill No. 353, entitled:

An act to promote the safety of travelers and employes upon railroads by compelling common carriers by railroad to properly man their trains and that the bill be placed upon the calendar of the Senate and be read the first time to-night.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair informs the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Nulty, that he will have to obtain unanimous consent.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, I object.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair hears objections.

Mr. FOX. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Fox, will state his point of order.

Mr. FOX. Mr. President, I call for the reference to the rules of the Senate why this motion is not in order at this time. My point of order is that the motion is in order.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, if the Senator from Philadelphia will move to suspend the rules I should think he was in order, but an ordinary motion is not in order. A motion to suspend the rules is in order at any time.

Mr. FOX. Mr. President, I call for a decision on my point of order. My point of order is that the motion is in order. If it is not, I would like to know the authority for the rule for a ruling to the contrary.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair decides the point of order is well taken. Is there a second to the motion.

Mr. WEINGARTNER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. NULTY. Mr. President, I call for a yea and nay vote.

Mr. JARRETT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, I desire to ask the Chair for information. Does this require a two-thirds vote?

The PRESIDENT. The Chair informs the Senator from Berks, Mr. Herbst, that all that is required is a majority of the Senators voting.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator will state his point of order.

Mr. ADAMS. My point of order is that the vote having already been announced by the President pro tempore, a yea and nay vote could not be called for.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair withdrew its decision. The point of order is not well taken.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, will you kindly state the motion before voting?

The PRESIDENT. The question before the Senate is whether or not the Committee on Judiciary Special shall be discharged from further consideration of the "Full Crew" bill, and that the same be placed upon the calendar and read the first time to-night.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. NULTY and Mr. WEINGARTNER and were as follows, viz:

Adams	Hays,	Kurtz	Salus
Alexander,	Heacock,	Martin	Shields
Baldwin,	Herbst,	McConnell	Snyder
Buckman,	Huffman,	McIlhenny	Sones

Fox,	Knapp	Powell	Wertz
Hall,			Wilbert

NAYS—3.

Homsher,	Keyser,	Wolf

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. WOLF. Mr. President, I desire to know how I am recorded.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair informs the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Wolf, that he is recorded as voting nay.

Mr. WOLF. Mr. President, that is absolutely right. I desire to say to the Senators that as long as I am returned here, if again I shall so be, that I will always vote no to discharge any committee, I do not care what the bill may be its merits or its demerits.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. McNICHOL, from the Committee on Judiciary Special, reported as committed Senate Bill No. 1243, entitled

An act declaring all employes of public service and utility companies associations or persons engaged in business in the Commonwealth for the purposes of this act to be public servants and providing for the adjustment and settlement of disputes and differences between such employes and their employers resulting in strikes or lockouts by boards of arbitration and creating and regulating such boards

Definitions

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That for the purpose of this act the terms and definitions contained therein shall be as follows

Mine In this act the term "mine" includes the shafts slopes drifts or incline planes connected with excavations penetrating coal stratum or strata which excavations are ventilated by one general air current or divisions thereof and connected by one general system of mine railroads over which coal may be delivered to one or more points outside the mine when such is operated by one operator

Excavations and Workings The term "excavations and workings" includes all the excavated portions of a mine those abandoned as well as the places actually being worked also all underground workings and shafts tunnels and other ways and openings and all such shafts slopes tunnels and other openings in the course of being sunk or driven together with all roads appliances machinery and material connected with the same below the surface

Shaft The term "shaft" means a vertical opening through the strata that is or may be used for the purpose of ventilation or drainage or for hoisting men or material or both in connection with the mining of coal

Slope The term "slope" means an incline or opening used for the same purpose as a shaft

Operator The term "operator" means any firm corporation or individual operating any coal mine or any part thereof

Superintendent The term "superintendent" means the person who shall have on behalf of the operator immediate supervision of one or more mines

Mine Foreman The term "mine foreman" means the person whom the operator or superintendent shall place in charge of the inside workings of the mine and of the persons employed therein

Inspector The term "inspector" means the person commissioned by the Governor to have supervision of mines as hereinafter prescribed

Bituminous Mines The term "bituminous mines" shall include all coal mines in the State not now included in the anthracite boundaries and whenever the term "mine" appears in this act it shall be construed to mean "bituminous coal mine"

Approved Safety Lamp The term "approved safety lamp" shall mean any bonneted safety lamp approved by the Department of Mines

ARTICLE II

Maps and Plans

Section 1 The operator or the superintendent of any bituminous coal mine shall make or cause to be made by a competent mining engineer or surveyor an accurate map of the mine on a scale of not less than two hundred feet to the inch which may shall show as follows

First All the openings excavations shafts slopes drifts tunnels planes main entries cross entries and rooms and the name or number of each

Second An accurate delineation of the boundary lines between said mine and all adjoining mines or coal lands and the relation and proximity of the workings of said mine to all adjoining mines or coal lands and if requested by the inspector the blue print in the office at the mines shall show by arrows the direction of the air currents in said mine each split to show in different color in pencil

Third The elevation above or below mean tide at Sandy Hook of the top and bottom of each shaft and slope of all drifts tunnels planes and of the faces of entries as found at each semi-annual survey and in rooms and entries adjacent to boundary lines between such mine and any adjoining mine or mines at points not more than three hundred feet apart also the number of last survey station and the date of such survey on the entries as they are represented on the map the location of streams rivers lakes dams or any other bodies of water on the surface with their elevations accurately and plainly marked the location and elevation of any body of water dammed in the mine or held back in any portion of the mine giving the true area of said body of water unless inaccessible before the passage of this act the location of all bore holes penetrating the coal strata and the location of all oil and gas wells and oil and gas pipe lines Provided however for the purpose of this paragraph the owner or owners of the oil and gas wells and the oil and gas pipe lines shall furnish at his their or its own expense to the operator of the mine on which said wells are located or lines are constructed a survey showing the location thereof within sixty days after the passage of this act or within a like time after the construction or location of wells and pipe lines hereafter made

Section 2 When the workings of a mine are within three hundred feet of the boundary lines between such mine and any adjoining mine or mines application shall be made by the operator or the superintendent to the inspector for information as to the proximity of the workings of such adjoining mine or mines and if the workings of such adjoining mine or mines are at their nearest point within three hundred feet of such boundary line the inspector shall so notify the said operator or the said superintendent who shall have such portion of the workings of said adjoining mine or mines surveyed and shown on the map of the mine first mentioned For the purpose of making only the survey herein required the engineer or surveyor of any mine shall have the right of entry into any adjoining mine on the written authority of the inspector

Section 3 A true copy of said map shall be kept in the mine office at the mine for the use of the mine officials and the inspector and for the inspection (in the presence of the superintendent or the mine foreman) of any person working in said mine whenever said person shall fear that any working place is becoming dangerous by reason of its proximity to other workings that may contain dangerous accumulations of water or noxious gases

Section 4 At least once every six months the operator or the superintendent of every mine shall cause to be shown accurately on the original map of said mine and on the copy of the map in the mine office all the excavations made therein during the time that has elapsed since such excavations were last shown thereon

The operator or the superintendent at the request of the inspector in writing shall order that any portion of any mine shall be surveyed and entered on the original map when in the opinion of the inspector such portion of the mine is approaching accumulations of water or noxious gases And whenever any of the workings or excavations of any mine shall be driven to their destination it shall be the duty of the operator or the superintendent to cause the mining engineer or surveyor to check up all his previous work and notes of said mine so that he can certify that the said map shows correctly all the excavations made therein as he is required to do by section six of this article

Section 5 The operator or the superintendent of every mine shall furnish the inspector of the district with a true and correct copy of the aforesaid original map of said mine on tracing cloth and at the end of every six months thereafter the inspector shall return said copy to the operator or the superintendent who shall place or cause to be placed thereon all the extensions made and all portions of the mine worked out or abandoned during the preceding six months as provided for in section four of this article and shall forward the map to the inspector within thirty days from the time of receiving it Provided that in lieu of the map on tracing cloth as aforesaid the operator or the superintendent shall have the privilege of furnishing every six months a blue print showing the complete workings of the mine to date When more than one seam of coal is being worked in any mine the inspector shall be provided with a separate copy of the original map on tracing cloth or a blue print of the complete workings of each seam as provided for in this article The copies of the maps of the several mines as hereinbefore required to be furnished to the inspector shall remain in the care of the inspector of the district in which said mines are situated as official records pertaining strictly to the office of said inspector to be transferred by him to his successor in office and in no case shall any copy thereof be made or any information therefrom be given to any person without the consent of the operator except as provided for in section two of this article

Section 6 Whenever a mine is worked out or abandoned the operator or the superintendent shall within sixty days thereafter extend the inspector's map to show clearly all the worked-out or abandoned territory with all property and boundary lines and elevations as required in section one of this article

The owner or the operator of the abandoned mine shall also within sixty days after its abandonment send to the Department of Mines a tracing of said complete original map which shall be kept in the Department as a public document The mining engineer or surveyor shall certify that said tracing is a true and correct copy of the original map of said mine and that the original map is a true complete and correct map and survey of all the excavations made in said abandoned mine

Section 7 If the inspector shall have reason to believe that any map of any mine furnished to him in pursuance of the provisions of this article is inaccurate or imperfect he is hereby authorized to have made a survey and a new map of said mine The cost of said survey and map shall be recoverable from the operator as other debts are recoverable by law Provided however that if the map claimed by the inspector to be inaccurate or imperfect shall be found sufficiently accurate to serve the purpose for which it is intended then the Commonwealth shall be liable for the expense incurred in making said survey and map which expense shall be paid by the State Treasurer upon warrant of the Auditor General issued upon the presentation of voucher approved by the Chief of the Department of Mines

ARTICLE III

Duties of Mine Superintendent Mine Supplies

Section 1 It shall be the duty of every superintendent on behalf and at the expense of the operator to keep on hand at each mine at all times a sufficient quantity of all materials and supplies required to preserve the health and safety of the employes as ordered by the mine foreman and required by this a If for any reason the superintendent cannot procure the nec sary materials or supplies as aforesaid he shall at once not the mine foreman whose duty it shall be to withdraw the m from the mine or portion of mine until such materials or su plies are received

The superintendent shall at least once every week read exa ine carefully and countersign all reports entered in the mi record book by the mine foreman and if he finds on such exa mination that the law is being violated in any particular he sh order the mine foreman to stop said violation forthwith a shall see that his order is complied with

Section 2 The superintendent shall not obstruct the m foreman or other officials in the fulfillment of any of th duties as required by this act but he shall direct that the m foreman and all the other employes under him comply with law in all its provisions especially when his attention is cal by the inspector to any violation of the law. At any m where a superintendent is not employed the duties that herein prescribed for the superintendent shall devolve upon mine foreman in addition to his regular duties

Section 3 The superintendent of every mine shall provide sufficient number of danger signals upon request of the m foreman which the mine foreman or the assistant mine foreman shall distribute in the mine at places convenient for the of the fire bosses in the fulfillment of their duties Danger s nals in all mines shall be uniform and of a design approved the Chief of the Department of Mines All danger signals sh be kept in good condition and no defective signal shall allowed to remain in any mine

Section 4 The superintendent shall keep on hand at the m a supply of the printed rules and notices and record books quired by this act which shall be furnished through the inspec of the district on request of the superintendent in writing superintendent shall see that said rules and notices and rec books are delivered to the proper persons at the mine and t they are properly cared for and he shall also see that the r and notices are posted in conspicuous places at or near entrance to the mine and kept in such condition that t will always be legible

Section 5 The superintendent shall not permit the mining coal within fifty feet of any abandoned mine containing a d gerous accumulation of water until said danger has been moved by driving a passageway to tap and drain off said wa as provided for in this act Provided that the thickness of barrier pillars shall be greater and shall be in proportion one foot of pillar thickness to each one and one-quarter fee water-head if in the judgment of the engineer of the prop and that of the district inspector it is necessary for the sa of the persons working in the mine

Section 6 The superintendent shall provide a safety catch other safety device to be placed on the rear end of the car of full trips that are being hoisted up slopes and he s also provide suitable signals to be placed on the rear end the rear car of all trips hauled in the mines by locomotive any kind

Section 7 If the mine foreman the assistant mine foreman the fire boss neglects his duties or incapacitates himself drunkenness or is incapacitated by any other cause for proper performance of his duties and information thereof s be brought to the knowledge of the superintendent it s be the duty of the superintendent to make a thorough vestigation of the case and if he finds evidence to sus the charge he shall inform the inspector who shall inf the court of common pleas of the county or a judge the by petition and said court or judge when the court is no session shall issue a citation in the name of the Commonwe to the said mine foreman assistant mine foreman or fire to appear at not less than five days' notice upon a day before said court or a judge thereof at which time the c shall proceed to inquire into and investigate the allegations the court finds the allegations to be true it shall notify the partment of Mines of such finding and instruct said Depart to withdraw the certificate of said delinquent Provided ever that he shall have the right to appear before the Ex ining Board and be re-examined and if he can satisfy the B that he has reformed and passes a satisfactory examinatio shall be given another certificate of qualification When court orders the certificate of a mine foreman an assis mine foreman or a fire boss to be withdrawn the inspector notify the operators of the district of the fact

Section 8 The operator or the superintendent of every shall within thirty days thereafter send to the inspector no of the following occurrences

First When a mine has been abandoned or the wor thereof discontinued

Second When any work has commenced for the purpos opening a new mine

Third When the working of a mine is resumed afte abandonment or a discontinuance for a period exceeding months

Fourth When any change occurs in the name of a mine the name of the operator of a mine under the provision this act

Mine Foreman and His Duties

Section 1 In order to secure efficient management and p ventilation of the mines to promote the health and safet the persons employed therein and to protect and preserve property connected therewith the operator or the superinte shall employ a competent and practical mine foreman for mine where ten or more persons are employed The mine man shall have full charge of all the inside workings a the persons employed therein in order that all the provi of this act so far as they relate to his duties shall be com with and the regulations prescribed for each class of wor under his charge carried out in the strictest manner po if the mine is generating explosive gas in quantities suffi to be detected by an approved safety lamp the mine fore must possess a first grade foreman's certificate If the mine is non-gaseous the mine foreman must possess either a first grade foreman's certificate or a second grade mine foreman's certificate

When the mine workings become so extensive that the mine foreman is unable personally to carry out the requirements of this act pertaining to his duties he shall have the right to employ a sufficient number of competent persons to act as his assistants who shall act under his instructions in carrying out the provisions of this act If the mine is generating explosive gas in quantities sufficient to be detected by an aprpoved safety lamp the mine foreman's assistants must possess first grade assistant mine foreman's certificates

In case of the necessary temporary absence of the mine foreman he may deputize his work for the time being to his assistant who shall perform all the duties of the mine foreman

Section 2 The mine foreman shall devote the whole of his time to his duties in the mine when the mine is in operation and shall keep a careful watch over the ventilating apparatus the ventilation airways traveling ways timbering and drainage and shall see that all stoppings along airways are properly built as provided for in section five of article nine of this act

He shall also see that proper cut-throughs are made in the pillars of all rooms and of all entries in accordance with section three of article nine of this act and that they are closed when necessary so that the ventilating current can be conducted in sufficient quantity through the last cut-through to the face of each room and entry by means of check doors He shall not permit any room or entry to be turned in advance of the ventilating current or in advance of the last cut-through in the entry excepting room necks which may with the consent of the inspector be turned by entrymen driving entries

Section 3 The mine foreman or his assistant shall at least once every week measure the air current at or near the main inlet and outlet airway and also in the last cut-through in the last room and in the entry beyond the last room turned in each entry and make a record of said measurements as provided for in section eighteen of this article Said measurements shall be taken on days when the men are at work and for making said measurements an anemometer shall be provided and kept in good condition by the superintendent of the mine

Section 4 In case of accident to a ventilating fan or its machinery whereby the ventilation of the mine would be seriously interrupted the mine foreman shall order the men to withdraw immediately from the mine and he shall not allow them to return to their work until the ventilation has been restored and the mine has been thoroughly examined by him or by an assistant mine foreman or fire boss and reported safe

Section 5 The mine foreman shall notiy the superintendent in writing whenever in his opinion the mine is becoming dangerous through the lack of ample ventilation at the face of entries rooms and other portions of the mine caused by the undue length of entries and airways or from any other cause resulting in the accumulation of gas or coal dust or both in various portions of the mine The superintendent shall then notify the inspector of the report of the mine foreman requesting him to come and make a personal examination and if he finds it is becoming dangerous he shall at once direct the superintendent to proceed to have it put in safe condition and if necessary have an additional opening of ample dimensions sunk from the surface to the interior which opening can be used as an outlet or inlet for the air and also as an escapeway in case of necessity

In all mines generating explosive gas in quantities sufficient to be detected by an approved safety lamp the mine foreman shall see that when the permanent station of the fire boss is located a mile or more from the entrance to the mine all abandoned finished or unfinished workings in the intervening distance between the permanent station and the entrance to the mine are completly shut off from the main intake or mainway headings of the mine by stoppings of masonry concrete or some other incombustible material of sufficient thickness to keep the explosive or noxious gases from coming in contact with the intake air or with the persons employed therein

Section 6 The mine foreman shall direct and see that every working place is properly secured by props or timbers and shall see that no person is directed or permitted to work in an unsafe place unless it be for the purpose of making it safe He shall also see that the workmen are provided with sufficient props cap pieces and timbers of suitable size which shall be delivered at the working faces or as near thereto as they can be conveyed in mine cars when requested by the workmen in accordance with section seven of this article. He shall also see that props are cut square at both ends and as near as practicable to the proper length required or designated for the places where they are to be used

Section 7 Every workman in need of props cap pieces and timbers shall notify the mine foreman or the assistant mine foreman (or any other person delegated by the mine foreman) the fact at least one day in advance giving the number size and length of props cap pieces and timbers required In case of emergency the timber may be ordered immediately upon the discovery of danger If for any reason the necessary timbers cannot be supplied when required the mine foreman or assistant mine foreman shall instruct the workmen to vacate the place until the timber needed is supplied

The place and manner of leaving the orders for props cap pieces and timbers shall be designated and specified in the rules of the mine

Section 8 The mine foreman shall see that on all animal and mechanical hauling roads holes for shelter shall be cut into the strata not less than two and one-half feet deep and four feet wide and level with the road at least every thirty yards and kept whitewashed and clear of obstruction except in entries from which rooms are driven at regular intervals not exceeding ninety feet provided that the entrance to each room be kept clear of obstruction for a distance of three feet On the main hauling roads on which hauling is done by machinery shelter holes shall be cut into the strata not less than two and one-half feet deep and at least four feet wide and level with the road and not more than fifteen yards apart and said shelter holes shall be kept whitewashed and clear of obstruction except in entries from which rooms are opened at regular intervals not exceeding forty-five feet Provided That the entrance to such room be kept clear of obstruction for a distance of three feet All shelter holes shall be made on the same side of the entry All entries driven after the passage of this act shall have a clear space of two and one-half feet from the side of the car to the rib which shall be made and continued throughout on one side of the entry if in the judgment of the inspector the condition of the roof will permit and shall be kept clear of obstruction

No person except officials or repairmen shall be permitted to travel on slopes gravity or incline planes while the cars thereon are in motion

Section 9 The mine foreman shall direct that the coal is properly mined before it is blasted "Properly mined" shall mean that the coal shall be undercut center-cut top-cut or sheared by pick or machine and in any case the undercutting shall be as deep as the holes are laid In mines generating explosive gas in quantities sufficient to be detected by an approved safety lamp when the coal seam is five feet six inches or more in thickness "properly mined shall mean that in all entries less than ten feet wide wherein the coal is undercut it shall also be sheared on one side as deep as the undercutting before any holes are charged and fired or the coal shall be blasted in sections by placing the first holes near the center of the coal seam He shall also direct that the miner set sprags as often as necessary at a distance not exceeding seven feet apart under the breast of undermined or center-mined coal for safety. The mine foreman shall direct at what hours blasting shall be done in the mine and a notice of the time shall be posted at a conspicuous place at the mine and a copy of the notice shall be kept on file at the mine office Provided however that in districts in which it has been the common practice to blast coal from the solid said practice or method may be continued notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein contained

In such portions of a dry and dusty mine where explosive gas is being generated in quantities sufficient to be detected by an approved safety lamp the mine foreman shall direct and see that the rooms and entries are moistened by water or other efficient means as often as necessary to keep the dust in damp condition and he shall direct and see that the dust is loaded and taken out of the mine as often as necessary

The mine foreman shall direct and see that as the miners advance in their excavation all dangerous and doubtful pieces of coal slate and rock overhead are taken down or at once carefully secured against falling on the workmen Any workman who neglects to carry out or disobeys the instructions of the mine foreman or his assistant in regard to securing his working place shall be suspended or discharged by the mine foreman and if such negligence or disobedience results in serious injury or loss of life to any person the mine foreman shall give the name of said workman to the inspector for prosecution in accordance with section two article twenty-six of this act

Section 10 The mine foreman shall give prompt attention to the removal of all dangers reportd to him by his ossistants the fire boss or by any other person working in the mine and in case it is impracticable to remove the danger at once he shall notify every person whose safety is menaced thereby to remain away from the portion where the dangerous conditions exist He or his assistant shall once each week travel and examine all the air courses and roads and all the openings that give access to old workings or falls and make a record of the condition of all places where danger has been found with ink in the book provided for that purpose

In all mines the mine foreman shall employ a sufficient number of assistants to insure a visit to each working place either by himself or by his assistants once each day while the employes are at work and in addition thereto shall give special care oversight and attention to the men drawing pillars particularly when falls are thereby being made. The mine foreman or the assistant mine foreman under intructions from the mine foreman shall dire ctthat the holes for blasting be properly placed and shall designate the angle and depth of holes which shall not be deeper than the undercutting center-cutting top-cutting or shearing and the maximum quantity of explosives required for each hole and the method of charging and tamping instructions shall be given the men by the mine foreman assistant mine foreman or fire boss or other authorized person as to when where and how timber shall be placed so as to avoid accidents from falls and also in a general way how to mine coal with safety to themselves and others

At the end of each shift each assistant mine foreman shall make a report in a book provided for that purpose giving the general condition as to safety of the working places visited by him and shall make a note of any unusual occurrence observed by him during the day The mine foreman shall read carefully the daily report of each assistant mine foreman and shall sign the reports with ink not later than the day following

Section 11 The mine foreman shall see that every mine generating explosive gas is kept free of standing gas in all working places and roadways Any accumulating of explosive gas or noxious gases in the worked-outor abandoned portioins of any mine shall be removed as soon as possible after its discovery if it is practicable to remove it No person who may be endangered by the presence of said explosive gas or noxious gases shall be allowed in that portion of the mine until said gases have been removed The mine foreman shall direct and see that all dangerous places and the entrance or entrances to workd-out and abandoned places in all mines are properly fenced off across the openings so that no person can enter and that danger signals are posted upon said fencing to warn persons of the existing danger

Section 12 In any mine where it has been found impracticable to remove explosive gas from the inaccessible top of a fall it shall be the duty of the mine foreman to make this fact known at once in writing to the superintendent who shall immediately report the same to the inspector requesting him to make a prompt personal investigation If the superintendent and the inspector are unable to devise means to have said explosive gas removed within a reasonable time the inspector shall direct that a bore hole or bore holes not less than six inches in diameter be drilled from the surface to a high point on said fall in order to give the gas an opening to escape to the surface

Section 13 In every mine generating explosive gas in quantities sufficient to be detected by an approved safety lamp where coal dust is being carried in the air currents in quantities indicating danger the mine foreman shall see that no person is employed to work in the mine until he has given satisfactory proof that he can do the work allotted to him without endangering the lives of his co-employes unless said person is put to work with an experienced miner whose duty it shall be to instruct such inexperienced person how to safely and properly perform its work

Section 14 In such portions of a mine where explosive gas is being generated in quantities sufficient to be detected by an improved safety lamp and in which locked safety lamps are used the mine foreman shall employ a sufficient number of competent persons who are able to speak the English language to act as shot firers whose duty shall be to charge tamp and fire all holes properly placed by the miners and to refuse to charge any holes not properly placed No holes shall be fired by any person other than a shot firer They shall use none but incombustible material for tamping which the mine foreman shall see is provided for them at convenient places inside the mine. Under no condition shall the shot firer use coal dust or any other combustible material for tamping All such holes shall be fired by an electric apparatus and no person other than the shot firer shall connect the wires of or operate said Apparatus Each shot firer shall keep a record of and report to the mine foreman every hole that he has refused to charge every blown out shot and every hole that has misfired It shall be the duty of shot firers and miners who are permitted by this act to fire their own shots to visit and examine the places where the shots have been fired before leaving the mine to see that there is no fire or any other danger existing

In all mines in which coal is blasted from the solid all holes shall be fired when all the workmen are out of the mine except the shot firers and other persons delegated by the mine foreman to safeguard property

No shot firer or any other person shall fire a shot in any working place and in any mine if his safety lamp can detect explosive gas at the roof In gaseous dusty mines in which locked safety lamps are used he shall fire no holes unless the entries and rooms which are dry and dusty are so thoroughly wetted as to prevent the existence of any dry dust for a distance of not less than eighty feet from the hole to be fired Provided however That in all mines wherein the coal is being blasted from the solid the mine foreman shall direct and see that the provisions of this section are fully complied with

Section 15 When operations are temporarily suspended in a mine the superintendent and the mine foreman shall see that danger signals are placed across the mine entrances which signals shall be sufficient warning for persons not to enter the mine If the circulation of air through the mine be stopped each entrance to said mine shall be fenced off in such a manner as will ordinarily prevent persons from entering said mine and a danger signal shall be displayed upon said fence at each entrance The mine foreman shall see that all danger signals used in the mine are in good condition and if any become defective he shall notify the superintendent

Section 16 The mine foreman shall see that the water is drained out of the working places before the men enter and that the working places are kept as free from water as practicable during working hours

Section 17 In any working place that is being driven within supposedly dangerous proximity to an abandoned mine or portion of an abondoned mine suspected of containing explosive gas or that may contain a dangerous accumulation of water the mine foreman shall see that at least two bore holes shall be maintained not less than twelve feet in advance of the face and on each side of such working place bore holes of the same depth shall be drilled diagonally not more than eight feet apart and any place driven to tap water or gas shall not be more than eight feet wide No water or gas from an abandoned mine or portions of an abandoned mine and no bore hole from the surface shall be tapped until the employes except those engaged at such work are out of the mine and such work shall be done under the immediate instruction and direction of the mine foreman with the use of locked safety lamps

Section 18 The mine foreman shall each day enter plainly and sign with ink in a book provided for that purpose a report of the condition of the mine which report shall clearly state any danger that may have come under his observation during the day or any danger reported to him by his assistants or the fire bosses The report shall also state whether or not there is a proper supply of material on hand for the safe working of the mine and whether or not the requirements of the law are complied with He shall also once each week enter plainly with ink in said book a true report of all air measurements required by this act designating the place the area of each cut-through and entry separately the velocity of the air in each cut-through and entry and the number of men employed in each separate split of air with the date when measurements were taken Said book shall at all times be kept in the mine office at the mine for examination by the inspector and by any person working in the mine in the presence of the mine foreman

The mine foreman shall also each day read carefully and countersign with ink all reports entered in the record book of the fire bosses

Section 19 The mine foreman shall once each week on blank forms provided for that purpose report to the inspector all fatal and serious accidents that have occurred in about the mines giving the age nationality and occupat of the injured persons together with facts as to the famil or dependents affected

Section 20 The mine foreman shall employ a suffici number of fire bosses in order that each mine can be amined in accordance with the provisions of sections two or three of article five of this act The mine foren or the assistant mine foreman shall see as often as pr ticable that the fire boss has left his mark in places amined or reported as examined

Section 21 The mine foreman shall direct and see t safety blocks or some other device are constructed for purpose of preventing cars from falling into the shaft slope or running away on slopes and inclines planes safety switches drop logs or other devices shall be used all slopes and incline planes and the mine foreman s see that said safety blocks safety switches or other devi are maintained in good working order

Section 22 It shall be the duty of the mine foreman see that locked safety lamps are used when and wh required by this act

The transportation of tools in and out of the mine s be under the direction of the mine foreman or his assist

Section 23 It shall be the duty of the mine foreman report immediately all violations of this act to the insp tor

Section 24 When assistant mine foremen are emplo their duty shall be to assist the mine foreman in comply with the provisions of this act and in the absence of mine foreman they shall perform the duties of the m foreman and shall be liable to the same penalties as mine foreman for any violation of this act

ARTICLE V

Duties of Fire Boss Safety Lamps

Section 1 In such portions of a mine wherein plosive gas has been generated within one before the passage of this act or shall be generated after passage of this act in sufficient quantities to be detecte an approved safety lamp the mine foreman shall em a fire boss or fire bosses whose competency to act as shall be evidenced by a certificate of qualification from Department of Mines on the recommendation of the amining Board as provided for in section six article twe four of this act It shall be the duty of the fire boss to amine carefully before each shift enters the mine e working place without exception all places adjacent to workings every roadway and every unfenced road to a doned workings and falls in the mines but before proc ing with the examination he shall see that the current is traveling in its proper course In ing the examination he shall use no light than that enclosed in an approved safety lamp The amination shall begin within three hours prior to the pointed time for each shift to enter the The fire boss shall examine for all dangers in all port of the mine under his charge and after each examina he shall leave at the face and side of every place exam the date of the examination as evidence that he has perfo his duty He shall also examine the entrance or entra to all worked-out and abandoned portions adjacent to roadways and working places under his charge where plosive gas is likely to accumulate and he shall pla danger signal across the entrance to every working and every other place where explosive gas is discovere where immediate danger is found to exist from any cause and said signal shall be sufficient warning for pe not to enter The meaning of all danger signals sha explained to the non-English speaking employes of mine in their several languages by the mine foreman sistant mine forman or fire boss through an interpret

Section 2 A suitable record book shall be kept at mine office on the surface of every mine wherein fire b are employed and immediately after the examination of mine or any portion thereof by a fire boss whose duty to make such examination he shall enter in said book ink a record of such examination and sign same record shall show the time taken in making the exa tion and also clearly state the nature and location of danger that may have been discovered in any room or or other place in the mine and if any danger or da have been discovered the fire bosses shall immediatel port the location thereof to the mine foreman No p shall enter the mine until the fire bosses return to the office on the surface or to a station located in the i entry of the mine (where a record book as provided f this section shall be kept and signed by the person ma the examination) and report to the mine foreman o assistant mine foreman by telephone or otherwise tha mine is in safe condition for the men to enter When a tion is located in any mine it shall be the duty of th bosses to sign also the report entered in the record in the mine office on the surface

The record books of the fire bosses shall at all during working hours be accessible to the inspector an employes of the mine

Section 3 A second examination by the same or fire bosses shall be made during working hours of working place where men are employed

Section 4 The mine foreman and the fire boss shall near the main entrance to the mine provide a perm station with a proper danger signal designated by su letters and colors placed thereon In every mine gene explosive gas in quantities sufficient to be detected approved safety lamp when the working portions ar mile or more from the entrance to the mine or fro bottom of the shaft or slope a permanent station of able dimensions may be erected by the mine foreman vided the location is approved by the inspector) for t of the fire bosses and in the said station a fire-proof of ample strength shall be erected of brick stone o

crete in which the temporary record book of the fire bosses as described in section two of this article shall be kept It shall not be lawful for any person except the mine foreman and in case of necessity such other persons as may be designated by him to pass beyond said permanent station and danger signal until the mine has been examined by a fire boss as provided for in section one of this article and the mine or certain portions thereof reported by him to be safe The fire boss shall not allow any other person or persons to enter or remain in any portion of the mine through which a dangerous accumulation of gas is being passed in the ventilating current from any other part of the mine He shall report at once any violation of this article to the mine foreman

Section 5 Any employe or other person except those hereinbefore provided for who passes by any danger signal into the mine or into any portion of the mine or removes such danger signal before the mine has been examined and reported to be safe or any employe or any other person who passes by any danger signal placed at the entrance to a working place or any other place in the mine or removes such danger signal without permission from the mine foreman the assistant mine foreman or the fire boss shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and it shall be the duty of the mine foreman having knowledge of said violation (whether obtained personally or otherwise) to notify the inspector at once in writing and the inspector shall forthwith enter proceedings against such persons as provided for in section two of article twenty-six of this act

Any mine foreman who fails to notify the inspector forthwith of any violation of the provisions of this article that has been reported to him or has come under his personal observation shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor

Section 6 Any fire boss who neglects to comply fully with the provisions of this article relating to his duties or who shall make a false report of the condition of any place in the portion of the mine allotted to him for examination shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be suspended by the mine foreman and his name shall be given to the inspector for prosecution If he is found guilty he shall return his certificate of qualification as fire boss to the Department of Mines Provided however that he may again be an applicant for a certificate as fire boss at any regular examination after the expiration of six months but if he is found guilty of a second offence he shall return his certificate to the Department of Mines and cannot be an applicant for re-examination

Section 7 Nothing in this article shall prevent a first grade mine foreman or a first grade assistant mine foreman from acting as fire boss or a regularly employed fire boss from acting in an emergency as a first grade assistant mine foreman

ARTICLE VI

Shafts Slopes Drifts Openings and Outlets

Section 1 It shall not be lawful for the operator superintendent or mine foreman of any mine to employ any person to work therein unless there are at least two openings or outlets to the surface from every seam of coal actually being worked and available from every entry thereof which openings or outlets shall have distinct means of ingress and egress available at all times for the use of the employes The distance between two shafts shall not be less than two hundred feet and the distance between the openings to the surface of slopes shall not be less than one hundred and fifty feet and the distance between drifts shall not be less than fifty feet Provided that the distances between said openings shall apply only to mines opened after the passage of this act and provided further that the distances specified may be less with the written consent of the inspector The passageways between said two shafts shall at all times be maintained in safe and available condition for the employes to travel therein and the pillars in entries between said shafts shall not be removed without the consent of the inspector in writing to the superintendent

The foregoing requirements shall not apply to the openings of a new mine or to the openings of a new entry of a mine that is being worked for the purpose of making connection between said two outlets as long as not more than twenty persons are employed at any one time in making the connection or driving the second opening nor shall said requirements apply to any mine in which the second opening has been rendered unavailable by reason of the final robbing or removing of pillars as long as not more than twenty persons are employed therein at any one time

Section 2 The cage or cages or other safe means of egress shall be available at all times for the persons employed in any mine that has no second outlet available

Section 3 There shall be around the side at the bottom of every hoisting shaft (and similarly around the side of such shaft at any intermediate point where it intersects any entry) a passageway not less than five feet high and three feet wide in the clear which passageway shall be either cut through the solid strata or constructed of masonry and shall be kept open at all times so as to enable persons to pass around said shaft in going from one side thereof to the other

Section 4 Every mine generating explosive gas in quantities sufficient to be detected by an approved safety lamp opened after the passage of this act shall have at least four main entries two of which shall lead from the main opening and two from the second opening into the body of the mine Provided that every new gaseous mine where locked safety lamps are used exclusively projected to open up a large acreage with main entries five thousand feet or more in length shall have at least five main entries two of which shall lead from the main opening and two from the second opening into the body of the mine and the fifth which may be connected with an opening to the surface or with the intake airway at or near the main intake opening) shall be used exclusively as a traveling way for the employes

Every none-gaseous mine opened after the passage of this act shall have at least two main entries one of which shall lead from the main opening and one from the second opening into the body of the mine Provided that in every new non-gaseous mine projected to open up a large acreage with main entries five thousand feet or more in length the operator shall either haul the employes into and out of the mine at the beginning and end of each shift or provide at least three main entries one of which shall lead from the main opening and one from the second opening into the body of the mine and one (which may be connected with an opening to the surface or which the intake airway at or near the main intake opening) shall be used exclusively as a traveling way for the employes

Should any mine opened as a non-gaseous mine become a gaseous mine and in every gaseous mine opened prior to the passage of this act where locked safety lamps are used having less than five main entries that have reached five thousand feet or more in length and are to be extended two thousand feet or more the superintendent shall have a new opening of ample dimensions made from the surface if the inspector of the district and two additional inspectors appointed by the Chief of the Department of Mines shall deem such additional opening necessary for the proper ventilation of the mines or the safety of the miners The main entries and the traveling way shall be extended from this opening to the face of the workings The operator may continue to work said mine or mines under the provisions and requirements of this act for a non-gaseous mine until by due diligence the operator can change conditions to meet the provisions and requirements of this paragraph

The intake and return entries shall be kept drained and free from refuse and obstructions of all kinds so that persons may safely travel therein throughout their whole length and have a safe means of egress from the workings in case of emergency Said entries shall be separated by pillars of coal of sufficient strength and shall not be driven more than two hundred feet beyond the last cut-through except for exploratory purposes

When the main entry of a non-gaseous mine or both main entries of a gaseous mine used for intake for air are also used for mechanical haulage a separate traveling way leading into the body of the mine shall be provided for the use of the employes in going to and from their work or the employes shall be hauled into and out of the mine at the beginning and end of each shift

In all mines where the coal seam is less than three and one-half feet in height such traveling way shall be at least four and one-half feet in height in all mines where the coal seam is four feet in height such traveling way shall be at least five feet in height and the width shall not be less than six feet All such traveling ways shall be well drained kept free from refuse of all kinds and free from smoke noxious gases and electric wires unless said wires are so placed and protected as not to endanger life and are kept in safe condition

Section 5 In every slope with workings on both sides an overcast or an undercast not less than five feet wide and five feet high shall be provided as a passageway for the use of the employes to cross from one side of the slope to the other Said overcast or undercast shall connect with available passageways leading to the workings on both sides of said slope The intervening strata between the slope and the overcast or undercast shall be of sufficient strength at all points to insure safety to the emloyes Provided however that if it is impracticable to drive an overcast or an undercast in the solid an overcast or an undercast if substantially built with masonry or other incombustible material will be deemed sufficient

Section 6 In mines opened after the passage of this act if the opening or outlet other than the main opening is a shaft not more than one hundred feet in depth and is used by employes for the purpose of ingress to or egress from the mine it shall be kept available and in safe condition free from steam dangerous gases and all obstructions and shall be fitted with safe and convenient stairways with steps of an average tread of ten inches and a rise of nine inches not less than two feet in width and not to exceed an angle of forty-five degrees with landings not less than twenty-four inches in width and four feet in length at easy and convenient distances These stairways shall be made safe by having hand rails of suitable material placed on one side or on both sides when requested by the inspector and shall be inspected every twenty-four hours by a competent person employed for that purpose Water that may come from the surface or from the strata in the shaft shall be conducted away so that it will not fall on the stairways or on persons while descending or ascending them

Section 7 After the passage of this act when a mine is operated by a shaft more than one hundred feet in depth the persons employed therein shall be lowered and hoisted by means of machinery unless the second opening is a drift or a slope When the employes are lowered into or hoisted from the mine at the main shaft opening the second opening if a shaft shall also be supplied with a stairway constructed in the manner hereinbefore designated in section six of this article or with suitable machinery for safely lowering and hoisting persons in case of an emergency

Section 8 At any mine where one of the openings hereinbefore required is a slope and is used as a means of ingress and egress by the employes and where the angle of descent of said slope exceeds fifteen degrees and its length from the mouth of the opening exceeds one thousand feet the employes shall be lowered into and hoisted from the mine at the beginning and end of each shift at a speed not to exceed six miles per hour and at every such mine where the angle of descent of said slope averages from five to fifteen degrees and where its length exceeds three thousand feet the employes shall be lowered into and hoisted from the mine at the beginning and end of each shift at a speed not to exceed six miles per hour Provided however that when a separate traveling way is provided at any such slope the owner or operator may at his their or its option be exempt from the requirements of this section if the angle of said traveling way does not exceed twenty degrees

ARTICLE VII

Sinking of Shafts

Section 1 The operator superintendent or contractor shall erect over every shaft that is being sunk or shall hereafter be sunk a safe and substantial structure to sustain sheaves or pulleys ropes and loads at a height of not less than twenty feet above the tipping place and the top of such shaft and landing platform shall be arranged in such a manner that no material can fall into the shaft while the bucket is being emptied The said structure shall be erected as soon as substantial foundation is obtained and in no case shall a shaft be sunk to a depth of more than fifty feet without such structure

Section 2 If provisions are made to land the bucket on a truck the said truck and platform shall be so constructed that material cannot fall into the shaft

Section 3 Rock and coal from shafts that are being sunk shall not be raised except in a bucket or on a cage and said bucket or cage must be connected with the rope by a safety hook clevis or other safe attachment The rope shall be fastened to the side of the drum and not less than three coils of rope shall always remain on the drum If said shafts are one hundred feet or more in depth they shall be provided with guides and guide attachments applied in such a manner as to prevent the bucket from swinging while being lowered or hoisted and said guides and guide attachments shall be maintained at a distance of not more than seventy-five feet from the bottom of the shaft

Section 4 It shall be the duty of the person in charge of shaft-sinking for the contractor or company to see that the sides of all shafts are properly secured for safety and that no loose rock or material is allowed to remain on any timber on top or on any timber in the shaft after each blast Where explosive gas is encountered the person in charge shall see that the shaft is examined before each shift and before the men descend after each blast and also that the place is safe In sinking shafts all blasts must be exploded by electric battery Provision must also be made for the proper ventilation of shafts while being sunk

Section 5 An efficient brake shall be attached to every drum of an engine used for sinking shafts and all machinery ropes and chains connected therewith shall be examined once every twelve hours

Section 6 Not more than four persons shall be lowered or hoisted in or on a bucket in any shaft at one time and no person shall ride on a loaded bucket

ARTICLE VIII

Signaling Apparatus Safety Catches Hoisting Machinery Ropes Boilers and Connections

Section 1 The operator or the superintendent shall provide and hereafter maintain in good condition from the top to the bottom of every shaft or slope where persons or material are lowered or hoisted a telephone or metal tube of proper diameter suitably adapted to the free passage of sound through which conversation may be held and understood between persons at the top and the bottom of said shaft or slope and he shall also provide means of signaling from the top to the bottom and from the bottom to the top of said shaft or slope The same provisions shall apply to inside planes whereon coal is lowered and persons have to travel when required by the inspector In all gaseous mines telephone connection shall be made from the surface to the main section of the mile All signaling apparatus and telephone connections shall be kept in good condition and shall be always available for service

The operator or the superintendent shall provide every cage used for lowering or hoisting persons with hand rails at sides or overhead and with chain bar or gate at ends and with a sufficient covering overhead to protect persons thereon and shall also provide for each said cage efficient safety catches which shall be tested once every two months and a record of each test shall be sent to the inspector and to the superintendent and also recorded with ink in a book kept at the mine office for that purpose The ropes shall be securely attached to the sides of the drum of every machine that is used for lowering and hoisting persons or material into and out of the mine and the flanges shall have a clearance of not less than four inches when the whole of the rope is wound on the drum and adequate brakes shall be attached to the drum so that the speed thereof can be controlled when men are being lowered or hoisted An efficient indicator that shall show the position of the cages in the shaft shall be attached to the hoisting apparatus and an efficient safety device that will prevent overwinding shall be attached to every engine used for lowering and hoisting persons

All shafts shall be provided with safety gates controlled by the cage at the top and intermediate landings said gates to be approved by the inspector

Section 2 The main coupling chain attached to the socket of the wire rope of every shaft shall be made of the best quality of iron and shall be tested by weights or otherwise to the satisfaction of the inspector the manner of testing and the result obtained to be entered in a book with ink with the day and date of the inspection and bridle chains of the same quality of iron shall be attached to the main hoisting rope three feet above the socket from the top cross-piece of the cage so that no single chain shall be used for lowering or hoisting persons into or out of the mine

Section 3 In shafts where coal is hoisted and employes lowered into or hoisted from the mine the ropes links and chains shall be of ample strength with a factor of saf of not less than five to one of the maximum load In sha used exclusively for lowering or hoisting employes material the factor of safety of ropes links and chains sh not be less than ten to one of the maximum load All s ropes links and chains shall be carefully examined at le once every twenty-four hours by a competent person d gated for that purpose by the superintendent and any de therein found by which life and limb may be endange shall be reported at once in writing to the superintend who shall immediately proceed to remedy the defect until that is accomplished he shall prohibit any per from being lowered into or hoisted from the mine by defective apparatus The person making said examinat shall keep a daily record of each inspection in ink i book kept at the mine office for that purpose and he s send a copy thereof each day to the superintendent

Section 4 All machinery in and about the mines f which any accident would be liable to occur shall be prop fenced off by suitable guard railing

Section 5 No greater number of persons shall be lowe or hoisted at any one time than may be permitted by inspector and notice of the number so allowed to be lowe or hoisted at any one time shall be kept posted by operator or the superintendent in conspicuous places at top and the bottom of the shaft The aforesaid notice s be signed by the inspector The speed of the cage w lowering or hoisting persons shall not exceed nine hun feet a minute

Section 6 All boilers used for generating steam in about the mines shall be kept in good condition and superintendent shall have them examined and inspected duly qualified person once every six months and the re of said inspection shall be posted at the mine office

Section 7 Each boiler shall be provided with a sa valve of sufficient area for the steam to escape and weights or springs properly adjusted

Section 8 No boiler used for generating steam shal placed or allowed to remain inside of any mine wit the consent of the inspector which shall be given in wri to the superintendent and if the inspector allows boiler to be placed inside the mine it shall be encl in a fire-proof building within fifty feet of the bo of an upcast shaft which shaft shall not be less than th five square feet in area

Section 9 Every boiler house shall be provided wi sufficient number of steam gauges which shall be prop connected with the boilers to indicate the pressure of st to the fireman outside foreman or superintendent and other steam gauge shall be attached to the main steam in the engine house so that the hoisting engineer readily examine it

ARTICLE IX

Ventilation

Section 1 The operator or the superintendent of e mine shall provide and maintain ample means of ventila to furnish a constant and adequate supply of pure air fo employes In a non-gaseous mine the minimum quantit air shall not be less than one hundred and fifty cubic fee minute for each person employed In a mine wherein e sive gas is being generated in such quantities that it ca detected by an approved safety lamp the minimum qua of air shall not be less than two hundred cubic feet minute for each person employed therein and as much in either case as one or more of the inspectors may requisite The return air from each split where from sev to ninety persons are employed shall be conducted b overcast or an undercast into the return airway which lead to the main outlet

The ventilation shall be conducted through the entries cross entries and to the working faces of all wor places in the mine in sufficient quantities to dilute off and render harmless the smoke and the noxious dangerous gases generated therein to such an extent all working places and traveling roads shall be in a and healthy condition for the persons working and tr ing therein

No permanent door shall be erected or allowed to re in the main entry in any mine unless its removal sha deemed impracticable by the inspector

Section 2 Where five or more persons are employed a one time in a mine it shall be the duty of the operat the superintendent to provide ample ventilation in ac ance with section one of this article Provided that it not be lawful to use a furnace for ventilating any wherein explosive gas is being generated

Six months after the passage of this act not more seventy persons shall be permitted to work in the continuous air current unless in the judgment of th spector of the district it is impracticable to comply this requirement in which case a larger number no ceeding ninety persons may be permitted to work ther

Section 3 The mine foreman shall see that proper throughs are made in all the room pillars at such dist apart as in the judgment of the inspector may be de requisite not more than thirty-five nor less than si yards each for the purpose of ventilation

Section 4 The quantity of air passing a given point be ascertained by an anemometer the measurements taken by the mine foreman once every week at or nea main inlet and outlet airway in the mine and also at th cut-through in the last room and in the entry beyon last room turned Said measurements shall be taken on when the men are at work

Section 5 In all mines all stoppings in cut-through tween the main intake and return airways shall be stantially built of masonry concrete or other incombu material and shall be of ample strength and in mines erating explosive gas all new stoppings and renewals stoppings in cross entries shall be built of masonry co

r other incombustible material Stoppings in cross entries n non-gaseous mines may be built of timber All stoppings hall be kept in good condition so as to keep the air p to the working faces Temporary stoppings shall be rected in cut-throughs in rooms to conduct the ventilation o the face of each room and such stoppings may be constructed of timber or brattice cloth

Section 6 Every ventilating fan at non-gaseous mines hall be kept in operation continuously day and night unless perations are indefinitely suspended except when written ermission is given by the inspector to stop it The aid permission or a copy thereof shall be posted by the nine foreman in a conspicuous place at the entrance or enrances to the mine and shall state the particular hours the an may be stopped The inspector shall have the power to withdraw or modify such permission at any time and in ny manner he may deem best In all cases however the an shall be started two hours before the time to begin ork Every ventilating fan at gaseous mines shall be kept n operation continuously day and night unless operations re definitely suspended Provided that should it at any time ecome necessary to stop the fan at any mine (gaseous or on-gaseous) on account of accident to part of the mahinery connected therewith or by reason of any other unvoidable cause it shall then be the duty of the mine foreman or the assistant mine foreman in charge after first aving provided for the safety of the persons employed in he mine to order said fan stopped for necessary repairs

Every ventilating fan shall be provided with a recording nstrument by which the number of revolutions or the ffective ventilating pressure of the fan shall be registered nd the registration for each day with the date thereof shall e kept in the office at the mine for future reference for ne year

No main or principal ventilating fan shall be placed inside f any mine No auxiliary fan unless driven by electricity r compressed air shall be placed in any mine If the fan be lectrically driven the motor shall be placed in the intake irway

Every ventilating furnace in a mine shall be properly attended to and operated by a competent person employed by ne mine-foreman for that purpose for two hours before ne appointed time to begin work and constantly thereafter uring working hours

Section 7 In every mine all air bridges overcasts or unercasts shall be substantially built of masonry concrete r other incombustible material of ample strength or shall e driven through the solid strata It shall be the duty of ne mine foreman to see that these bridges are properly uilt and are of ample strength

Section 8 In every mine the doors used for guiding and irecting the ventilation shall be so hung and adjusted that ney will close of them selves or shall be supplied with prings or pulleys so that they cannot remain open All rincipal doors shall be so placed that when one door is open nother which has the same effect upon the same current hall be closed and remain closed to prevent any stoppage f the air current An attendant shall be employed at each rincipal door (that is the door that controls the main air urrent in the entries) through which cars are hauled for ne purpose of opening and closing it for the employes and ars to pass in and out from the workings unless a self-cting door approved by the inspector is used A hole for nelter shall be provided at each door to protect the attendnt from danger from cars while performing his duties ersons employed for this purpose shall remain at the doors t all times during working hours Provided that the same ttendant may attend two doors if his absence from the rst door does not endanger the safety of the mployes At every door on any incline plane or road hereon haulage is done by machinery an attendant shall ways be on duty during working hours and at every door n said plane or road an extra door shall be provided for se in case of necessity Whenever a principal door is placed n extra door shall also be provided to be used in case of ecessity

Section 9 No product of petroleum or alcohol or any mpound that in the opinion of the inspector will contamiate the air to such an extent as to be injurious to the health f the miner shall be used as motive power in any mine

Section 10 If any person shall construct or cause to be nstructed or used or permit to be used from and after the ate of the passage of this act any sewer or other method f drainage from any building or dwelling house for the rrying of sewage offal refuse or other offensive matter into ny operating mine or any entry way passage or room in ny mine (such entry way passage or room being used for ntilating or drainage purposes or for a traveling way) uch person shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon nviction thereof shall be sentenced to a fine not exceeding ne thousand dollars and undergo an imprisonment not exeeding one year either or both at the discretion of the urt

ARTICLE X

ocked Safety Lamps and Open Lights Defining When Either or Both Can Be Used

Section 1 The use of open lights is prohibited in any try airway traveling way room or any other working place here explosive gas is being generated in such quantity as n be detected by an approved safety lamp also in pillar orkings where a sudden inflow of explosive gas is likely be encountered and all such places shall be worked exusively with locked safety lamps The u of open lights also prohibited in all working places roadways or other rtions of the mine through which explosive gas might be rried in the air current in quantities indicating danger ovided however that if the inspector is of the opinion that y mine or any portion of any mine should be operated by the use of locked safety lamps exclusively he shall have the right to petition the Chief of the Department of Mines in writing setting forth such opinion and his reasons therefor Whereupon the said Chief shall forthwith instruct two or more other inspectors to accompany the inspector of the district to make a further thorough examination into the matter in dispute and of all workings of said mine whether in active operation or not The said committee of inspectors shall within seven days of their appointment make a report in writing to the Chief of the Department of Mines and to the superintendent general manager operator or owner of said mine giving the conclusions arrived at with their reasons therefor and the decision of said committee shall be final and conclusive unless the superintendent general manager operator or owner shall within seven days of the receipt thereof appeal from such decision to the Court of Quarter Sessions of the county in which the mine is located Whereupon the court or a judge of said court in chambers shall forthwith appoint four practical reputable and competent persons two of whom shall be recommended by the superintendent general manager operator or owner and the other two by the Chief of the Department of Mines and the four persons thus recommended shall name a fifth person who also must be practical reputable and equally competent and the five persons so named none of whom shall be in the employ of the operator operating company or any of its officers or of the State Department of Mines shall constitute a commission to investigate and report on the matter in dispute Provided however in case any or all of said four persons are not recommended by a writing filed in said court within seven days after the appeal is filed that then the said court shall fill the vacancy or vacancies by the appointment of a practical reputable and competent person or persons and in case the four persons thus chosen shall not agree in writing upon the fifth person of this commission within five days after they have received notice of their appointment then the said court shall appoint the said fifth person on this commission The duty of said commission of five persons shall be under the instruction of the court to forthwith examine said mine or a portion thereof and report under oath within ten days after their appointment the facts as they exist and the conditions pertaining thereto and based upon such conditions and facts the decision of a majority on the matter in dispute and their report and decision shall be final and conclusive unless exceptions thereto shall be filed by the superintendent general manager operator or owner or the Chief of the Department of Mines within seven days of the filing of said commission's report If exceptions are filed the court shall at once hear and upon testimony taken thereon determine them and enter a decree in accordance with such determination Provided that the superintendent general manager operator owner or Chief of the Department of Mines shall thereafter have the right to have the record and proceedings removed to the Supreme Court for review by appeal or writ of error

Section 2 If said court of quarter sessions sustains the decision of the committee of inspectors and said court's decree is not appealed from or if on appeal the supreme court finally sustains the decision of the inspectors then the appellant from said decision of the committee of inspectors shall pay all costs of such proceedings but if the said court of quarter sessions or the supreme court shall not sustain the decision of the committee of inspectors then all costs shall be paid by the Commonwealth Provided however that any and all appeals from any decision made by the committee of inspectors or made by the committee appointed by the court of quarter sessions shall work as a supersedeas to such decision during the pendency of such appeal either to the court of quarter sessions or to the supreme court

Section 3 The use of open lights is strictly prohibited in the return air current of any portion of a mine that is ventilated by the same continuous air current that ventilates any other portion of said mine in which locked safety lamps are used The provisions of this section shall not apply to any mine wherein explosive gas is generated only at the face of active entries

Section 4 If at any time one portion of a mine is worked by the use of locked safety lamps while another portion is worked by the use of open lights the return air from the gaseous portion shall be conducted directly into a return airway leading to the fan or to the outlet Provided that when a portion of a mine is worked by the use of locked safety lamps and other portions are worked by the use of open lights it shall be the duty of the mine foreman to provide a suitable danger station with an attendant on duty at all times during working hours day and night whose duty it shall be to see that the employes from the open light portion are not allowed to enter the locked safety lamp portion unless they are provided with locked safety lamps by said attendant

Section 5 The employes of a gaseous mine or any portion thereof are strictly prohibited from traveling into or out of the mine in the return air current if explosive gas can be detected by an approved safety lamp in said air current

Section 6 When safety lamps are used the position of the lamp station for lighting or relighting shall not be in the return air current

Section 7 Nothing in this article shall interfere with the discretionary powers of inspectors as provided for in article twenty

Section 8 Whenever safety lamps are used in a mine by fire bosses or other persons they shall be so constructed that they may be safely carried against the air current ordinarily prevailing in that portion of the mine in which the lamps are being used

Section 9 All safety lamps used for examining mines or for working therein shall be the property of the operator and shall be in the care of the mine foreman assistant mine foreman fire boss or some other competent person or persons appointed by the mine foreman whose duty it shall be to clean fill trim examine light and deliver them locked and in a safe condition to the men when entering the mine and to receive the lamps from the men when returning from work for which services a charge not exceeding the actual cost of labor and material may be made by the operator At any mine wherein explosive gas was generated within one year before the passage of this act in sufficient quantities to be detected by an approved safety lamp a sufficient number of safety lamps not less than one-fourth of the number of safety lamps in use shall be kept in a convenient place and in good condition for use in case of emergency It shall be the duty of every person who knows that his safety lamp is injured or defective to return it immediately and report such fact to the person authorized to receive and care for said lamp who shall report the matter to the mine foreman assistant mine foreman or fire boss as soon as practicable

ARTICLE XI.

Special Rules for the Installation of Electricity

The following rules shall be observed as far as is reasonably practicable in the mines

Potential
The terms "Potential" and "Voltage" are synonymous and mean electrical pressure Difference of Potential

The expression "Difference of Potential" means the difference of electrical pressure existing between any two points of an electrical system or between any point of such a system and the earth as determined by a volt meter

Potential of a Circuit
The potential or voltage of a circuit machine or any piece of electrical apparatus is the potential normally existing between the conductors of such circuit or the terminals of such machine or apparatus

(a) Where the conditions of the supply of electricity are such that the difference in potential between any two points of the circuit cannot exceed three hundred volts the supply shall be deemed a low voltage supply

(b) Where the conditions of the supply of electricity are such that the difference of potential between any two points in the circuit may at any time exceed three hundred volts but cannot exceed six hundred and fifty volts the supply shall be deemed a medium voltage supply

(c) Where the conditions of the supply of electricity are such that the difference of potential between any two points in the circuit may at any time exceed six hundred and fifty volts the supply shall be deemed a high voltage supply

Grounding
Grounding any part or an electric system shall consist in so connecting such part to the earth that there shall be no difference of potential between them

Explosion or Flame Proof
Explosion or flame proof casings or enclosures are those which when completely filled with a mixture of methane and air and the same exploded are capable of either entirely confining the products of such explosion within the casing or of so discharging them from the casing that they cannot ignite a mixture of methane and air combined in proportions most sensitive to ignition and entirely surrounding the points of discharge and in most intimate proximity therewith

Underground Station
An underground station is herein considered as any place where electrical machinery is permanently installed

General

Capacity Installation Et Cetera
1 All electrical apparatus and conductors shall be sufficient in size and power for the work they may be called upon to do and as hereinafter prescribed efficiently covered or safeguarded and so installed worked and maintained as to reduce danger from accidental shock or fire to the minimum and shall be of such construction and so worked that the rise in temperature caused by ordinary working will not injure the insulating materials

2 For work underground when supplied with current at a voltage higher than medium voltage no transformer shall have a normal capacity of less than five kilowatts nor shall a motor have a normal capacity of less than fifteen brake horse power

Grounding
3 All metallic coverings armoring of cables other than trailing cables and where installed underground the frames and bed plates of generators transformers and motors other than low voltage portable motors shall be efficiently grounded as shall also the neutral wire of three wire continuous current systems

Voltage Restrictions
4 Motors of coal cutting and other portable machines and of electric locomotives shall not be used at a voltage higher than medium voltage

5 No higher voltage than medium voltage shall be used underground except for transmission or for application to transformers or other apparatus in which the whole of the high voltage circuit is stationary

6 In gaseous mines high voltage transmission cables shall be installed in the intake airways only and high voltage motors and transformers shall be installed only in suitable chambers ventilated by the intake air which has not passed through or by a gaseous district

7 All high voltage machines apparatus and lines shall be so marked as to clearly indicate that they are dangerous by the use of the word "Danger" placed at frequent intervals

Ground Detectors
8 All underground systems of distribution that are completely insulated from earth shall be equipped with properly installed ground detectors of suitable design

The condition of such system as indicated by the ground detector shall be noted each day by the person in cha of the underground wiring or by another competent per who shall immediately report to him the occurrence o ground

Switchboards
9 Main and distribution switch and fuse boards shall made of incombustible insulating material such as mar or slate free from metallic veins and be fixed in as dr situation as practicable

Precaution Against Shock
10 Gloves or mats of rubber or other suitable insul ing material shall be provided and used by persons so gaged when repairs are made to the live parts of electrical apparatus or when the live parts of electr apparatus have to be handled for the purpose of adjustm

Electrician
11 At every mine where electricity is used below gro for power there shall be employed a competent mine e trician who shall have full charge of the electrical paratus in the mine but shall be subject to the autho of the mine foreman

12 Any person who shall wilfully damage or with authority alter or make connections to any portion o mine electrical system shall be guilty of a misdemeanc

Restoration from Shock
13 Instructions shall be posted in every generat transforming and motor room and at entrance to the m containing directions as to the restoration of persons fering from electric shock and all employes working connection with electrical apparatus shall be familiar and know how to carry out these instructions

Plan of Electrical System
14 A plan shall be kept at the mine showing the l tion of all stationary electrical apparatus in connec with the mine electrical system including permanent ca conductors lights switches and trolley lines The shall be of sufficient size to show clearly the positio such apparatus and the scale shall not be less than hundred feet per inch There shall be stated on the the capacity in horse-power of each motor and in watts of each generator or transformer and the natur its duty Such plans shall be corrected as often as ma necessary to keep them up to date at intervals not ceeding six months

Report of Defective Equipment
15 In the event of a breakdown or of damage or in to any portion of the electrical equipment in a min of overheating or of the appearance of sparks or arcs side of enclosing casings or in the event of any por of the equipment not a part of the electrical circuit be ing alive every such occurrence shall be promptly repo to the person in charge of electrical equipment

SECTION TWO

Underground Stations and Transformer Rooms

Switchboards
16 All switches circuit breakers rheostats fuses and struments used in connection with underground m generators rotary converters high voltage motors tr formers and low and medium voltage motors of more fifty horse-power capacity shall be installed upon a suit switchboard Similar equipment for low and medium age motors of fifty horse-power and less may be s rately installed if mounted upon insulating bases of or equivalent insulating material

17 In underground stations where switchboards ar stalled there shall be a passageway in front of the sw board not less than three feet in width and if there any high voltage connections at the back of the sw board any passageway behind the switchboard shall n less than three feet clear

18 The space at the back of the switchboards sha properly floored accessible from each end and in the of high voltage switchboards shall be kept locked up the lock shall allow of the door being opened from inside without the use of a key The floor at the bac high voltage boards shall be incombustible

19 Where the supply is at a voltage exceeding the its of medium voltage there shall be no live metal on the front of the main switchboard within seven of the floor or platform and the space provided under seventeen of this section shall not be less than four in the clear Insulating floors or mats shall be pro for medium voltage boards where live metal work is o front

Protection of Circuits Leading Underground
20 In every completely insulated feeder circuit in cess of twenty-five kilowatts capacity leading undergr and operating at a potential not exceeding the limi medium voltage there shall be provided above grou switch on each pole and an automatic overload circuit br on at least one pole in the case of direct current ci and on at least two poles of polyphase alternating cu circuits In case of ground return direct current ci a switch and circuit breaker shall be installed in the dergrounded side of the circuit but may be omitted fro return side Fuses may be substituted for circuit bre In circuits transmitting twenty-five kilowatts or less circuit leading underground shall be provided with a able ammeter

21 Every alternating current feeder circuit leading derground and operating at a potential exceeding the of medium voltage shall be provided above ground an oil break switch on each pole such switch or swi to be equipped with an automatic overload trip Each circuit shall also be provided with a suitable ammet

Transformer Rooms
22 Transformer rooms shall be of fire-proof cons tion

23 Where the potential of circuits entering or le a transformer exceeds the limits of medium voltage shall be protected by an oil break switch on each each such switch or switches to be equipped with an matic overload trip

24 Where the potential of circuits entering or leaving a transformer does not exceed the limits of medium voltage they shall be protected by a switch and an automatic circuit breaker on each pole except that fuses may be substituted for the circuit breakers in the case of lighting circuits and in the case of power circuits transmitting twenty-five kilowatts or less

25 All transformers shall be provided with suitable ammeter in either the primary or secondary circuits

Protection of Machine Terminals

26 All terminals on machines over medium voltage underground shall be protected with insulating covers or with metal covers connected to earth

Unauthorized Persons

27 No person other than one authorized by the mine foreman shall enter a station or transformer room or interfere with the working of any apparatus connected therewith

Fire Buckets

28 Fire buckets filled with clean dry sand shall be kept in electrical stations and transformer rooms ready for immediate use in extinguishing fires

SECTION THREE

Transmission Circuits and Conductors

Power and Light Circuits

29 All high pressure wires used inside of the mines shall be in the form of insulated lead-covered or armored conductors subject to insulation tests and with carrying capacity according to the rules of the National Board of Fire Underwriters

Medium or low pressure conductors may be bare except in gaseous portions of mines no bare conductors shall be used in rooms or beyond the last cut-through in intake entries

30 All underground cables and wires other than trailing cables unless provided with grounded metallic covering shall be supported by means of efficient insulators The conductor connecting lamp to the power supply shall in all cases be insulated

Main Circuits

31 Every main circuit coming from generating or transformer stations shall there be provided with switches fuses and circuit breakers as described in section two rules twenty and twenty-one and rules twenty-three to twenty-five inclusive

32 If the transmission lines of low or medium voltage from the generating station are overhead there shall be lightning arresters installed in connection therewith at the generating station If the distance from the generating station to the point where the lines enter the mine is more than five hundred feet an additional arrester shall be installed at this point and in no case shall the arresters be more than one thousand feet apart

33 In any gaseous mine or gaseous portions of a mine the electrical supply shall be brought underground only through such portions of the mine as are ventilated by intake air

Branch Circuits

34 Every branch circuit shall be provided at the point where it leaves the main circuit with a switch of not less than one hundred ampere capacity on each pole

Size of Conductors

35 The size of all conductors shall be determined with regard to the maximum amount of current which they are to carry by reference to the table provided by the National Board of Fire Underwriters which shows maximum current carrying capacities of copper conductors

Grounded Circuits

36 One side of grounded circuits shall be efficiently insulated from earth

Overhead Circuits above Ground

37 Overhead bare wires above ground shall be supported upon insulators which shall be adequate in quality size and design for voltage transmitted

Underground Trolley

38 In underground roads the trolley wires shall be installed as far to one side of the passageway as is practicable and securely supported upon hangers efficiently insulated and placed at such intervals that the sag between points of support shall not exceed three inches The sag between points of support can exceed three inches if the height of the trolley wire above the rail is five feet or more and does not touch the roof when the trolley passes under

39 All other wires except telephone shot firing and signal wires shall be on the same side of the road as the trolley wire

40 At all landings and partings where men are required to regularly work or pass under trolley or other bare power wires which are placed less than six and one-half feet above top of rail a suitable protection shall be provided This protection may consist of channeling the roof placing boards along the wire which shall extend below it or the use of other approved devices that afford protection

41 All branch trolley lines shall be fitted with an automatic trolley switch or section insulator and line switch or some other device that will allow the current to be shut off from such branch headings

42 It is recommended that where air or water pipes parallel the grounded return of power circuits the return be securely bonded to such pipes at frequent intervals to eliminate the possibility of a difference of potential between rail and pipes and to prevent electrolysis of the pipes The rail return shall be of sufficient capacity for the current used independent of the capacity of the pipes On main haulage roads both rails shall be bonded and cross bonds shall be placed at points not to exceed two hundred feet apart

Lighting Circuits

43 Where wires for electric incandescent lamps are connected to the trolley circuit the lug of the trolley hanger to which connection is made shall be drilled to receive the lighting wire and provided with a set screw for securing same in place Lighting wires shall not be wrapped or tied about the stems or studs of trolley hangers The ground connection for lighting wires taken off the trolley circuit must be made to the track circuit

44 Wires for all lighting circuits shall be covered with an insulation adequate for the voltage of the circuit and strung on porcelain or glass insulators unless they are encased in pipes or other metallic covering If separate uncased wires are used they shall be kept at least three inches apart except where they enter the fittings If metallic casings are used they shall be grounded efficiently

Joints in Conductors

45 All joints in conductors shall be mechanically and electrically efficient and wherever it is possible to do so they shall be soldered Wherever the conductors cannot be soldered together suitable screw clamps or connectors shall be used All joints in insulated wire shall after the joint is complete be reinsulated to at least the same extent as the remainder of the wire

Insulation and Covering

46 All high voltage conductors inside of the mines shall be in the form of insulated lead-covered or armored cables subject to approved insulation tests and having carrying capacities in accordance with rule thirty-five section three

47 Where lead-covered or armored cable is used the lead or armor shall be electrically continuous throughout and shall be efficiently grounded

Cables Entering Fittings

48 The exposed ends of cables where they enter fittings of any description shall be so protected and finished off that moisture cannot enter the cable or the insulating material if of an oily or viscous nature leak

49 Where unarmored cables or wires pass through metal frames or into boxes or motor casings the holes shall be substantially bushed with insulating bushings and where necessary with gastight bushings which cannot readily become displaced

Joints in Cables

50 Where cables other than signal cables are joined suitable junction boxes shall be used or the joints shall be soldered and the insulation armoring or lead covering replaced in at least as good condition as it was originally

Power Wires and Cables in Shafts

51 All power wires and cables in hoisting shafts or manway compartments shall be highly insulated and substantially fixed in position

Shaft cables whose conductors or covering are not capable of sustaining their own weight shall be supported at intervals not to exceed twenty-five feet by suitable grips which cannot cause abrasion of the covering or insulation but shall so support the cable that no grip shall carry more than the weight of the cable between any two successive grips Where the cables are not completely boxed in and protected from falling material space shall be left between them and the side of the shaft that they may yield and so lessen a blow given by falling material

Cables in Haulage Roads

52 Where the cables or feed wires other than trolley wires in main haulage roads cannot be kept at least twelve inches from any part of the mine car or locomotive they shall be specially protected by proper guards

53 Cables and wires unless provided with metallic coverings shall not be fixed to walls or timbers by means of uninsulated fastenings

Protection During Blasting Et Cetera

54 When main or other roads are being repaired or blasting is being carried on suitable temporary protection from damage shall be given the cables

Trailing Cables

55 Trailing cables for portable machines shall be specially flexible heavily insulated and protected with extra stout braiding hose pipes or other equally effective covering

56 Each trailing cable in use shall be daily examined by the machine operator for abrasions and other defects and he shall also be required to carefully observe the trailing cable while in use and shall at once report any defect to the person in charge of electrical equipment

57 In the event of the trailing cable in service breaking down or becoming damaged in any way or of its inflicting a shock upon any person it shall be at once put out of service The faulty cable shall not again be used until it has been repaired and tested by a properly authorized person

58 The trailing cable shall be divided at the motor but only for such length as is necessary for making connection to the motor and the cable with its outer covering complete shall be securely clamped to the motor frame in such a manner as to protect the cable from injury and to prevent any mechanical strain being borne by the single ends that make electrical connection to the motor

59 In gaseous portions of mines a fixed terminal box shall be provided at the points where trailing cables are attached at the power supply This terminal box shall be flame-proof and shall contain a switch and fuse on each pole of the circuit The switch shall be so arranged that it can only be operated from without the box when the latter is completely closed and the switch shall also be so constructed that the trailing cables cannot be attached or removed when the switch is closed

SECTION FOUR

Switches Fuses and Circuit Breakers

Operation and Capacity

60 Fuses and automatic circuit breakers shall be so constructed as effectually to interrupt the current on short circuit or when the current through them exceeds a predetermined value Open type fuses shall be provided with terminals

Circuit breakers shall be adjustable to trip at from fifty per centum to one hundred and fifty per centum of their nominalrated capacity and provided with an indicator which shall show at what current the circuit breaker is set to trip.

61 Fuses shall be stamped or marked or shall have a label attached indicating the maximum current which they are intended to carry Fuses shall only be adjusted or replaced by a competent person authorized by the mine foreman

Feeder Circuit-Breakers

62 Circuit breakers used to protect feeder circuits shall be set to trip when the current exceeds by more than fifty per centum the current carrying capacity of the feeder In case the feeder is subjected to overloads sufficient to trip the circuit breaker but of short duration the circuit breaker may be equipped with a device which will prevent its acting unless the overload persists for a longer period than ten seconds

Feeder Fuses

63 Fuses used to protect feeders shall have a less current rating than the feeder

Bases

64 All switches circuit breakers and fuses shall have incombustible bases

Switches

65 All points at which a circuit other than a signal circuit has to be made or broken shall be provided with proper switches The use of hooks or other makeshifts is prohibited except that connection for gathering locomotives or locomotives and machines used in driving headings or rooms may be made to the trolley by means of suitable hooks switches shall be so installed that they cannot be closed by gravity In any gaseous portion of a mine switches circuit breakers or fuses shall not be of the open type but must be inclosed in explosion-proof casings or break under oil

SECTION FIVE

Motors

Stationary Motors

66 Every stationary motor underground together with its starting resistance shall be protected by a fuse on each pole or circuit-breaking device on at least one pole for direct current and two poles for alternating current motors and by switches arranged to entirely cut off the power from the motor The above devices shall be installed in a convenient position near the motor and every stationary underground motor of one hundred brake horse power or over shall be provided with a suitable meter to indicate the load on the machine

Motors in Gaseous Mines

67 In any gaseous portion of a mine all motors unless placed in such rooms as are separately ventilated with intake air shall have all their current carrying parts also their starters terminals and connections completely enclosed in explposion-proof enclosures made of non-inflammable material These enclosures shall not be opened except by an authorized person and then only when the power is switched off The power shall not be switched on while the enclosures are open

Underground Stationary Motors in Non-Gaseous Mines

68 Motors used for operating fans in non-gaseous mines where they are so situated that they are not under constant supervision of a competent man shall be totally enclosed (not necessarily explosion-proof) unless placed in a chamber or passageway completely lined with incombustible material and the chamber or passageway itself free from combustible material

Detection of Gas

69 In working places where gas is likely to be encountered a safety lamp or other suitable apparatus for the detection of fire damp shall be provided for use with each machine when working and should any indication of fire damp appear on the flame of the safety lamp or other apparatus used for the detection of fire damp the person in charge shall immediately stop the machine cut off the current at the nearest switch and report the matter to the mine foreman

Enclosed Motors

70 All enlosed motors used underground shall be opened and thoroughly inspected by the person in charge of electrical equipment or his assistant at least once a week and where necessary shall then be cleaned and repaired Enclosed switches shall be opened and inspected at least once a month

Electric Coal-Cutting Machines

71 No man shall be placed in charge of a coal-cutting machine in any gaseous portion of a mine who is not a competent person capable of determining the safety of the roof and sides of the working place and detecting the presence of explosive gas

72 In any gaseous portion of a mine a coal-cutting machine shall not be brought within the last break-through next the working face until the machine man shall have made an inspection for gas in the place where the machine is to work unless such examination is then made by some other competent person or appointed for that purpose by the mine forman If any explosive gas is found in the place the machine shall not be taken in

73 No coal-cutting machine shall be continued in operation in a gaseous portion of a mine for a longer period than half an hour without an examination as a made for gas and if gas is found the current shall at once be switched off the machine and the trailing cable shall forthwith be disconnected from the power supply

74 The person finding gas shall at once report the fact to the fire boss or mine foreman and the machine shall not again be started in such place until the fire boss or a person duly be started in such place until the fire boss or a person duly authorized by the mine foreman has examined it and pronounced it safe

75 The person in charge of a coal-cutter or drilling machine shall not leave the machine while it is working and shall before leaving the working place see that the current is cut off from the trailing cables

76 In any gaseous portion of a mine if any electric sparking or arc be produced outside a coal-cutting or other portable motor or by the cables or rails the machine shal be stopped and not be worked again until the defect is repaired and the occurrence shall be reported to an official of the mine

SECTION SIX

Electric Locomotives

Trolley System

77 Electric haulage by locomotives operated from a trolley wire is not permissible in any gaseous portions of mines except upon the intake air fresh from the outside

78 In no case shall the potential used in the trolley system be higher than the medium voltage

Storage Battery System

79 Storage battery locomotives shall be used in gaseous mines only when the boxes containing the cells and all electrical parts are enclosed in flame and explosion-proof casings (For regulations covering the installation of the trolley wire see section theee rules thirty-eight to forty-two inclusive)

SECTION SEVEN

Electric Lighting

Arc Lamps

80 Arc lamps shall not be used in gaseous mines except under condtions where the trolley locomotives are allowable

81 If arc lamps are used underground in coal mines they shall be of the enclosed arc type and shall not be use in situations where there is likely to be danger from the presence of coal dust

Incandescent Lamps

82 In all mines the sockets of fixed incandescent lamps shall be of the so-called "weather-proof" type the exterior of which shall be entirely non-metalilc Flexible lamp cord connections are prohibited except for portable lamps as covered by rule eighty-five

83 In any gaseous portions of a mine except where ventilated by fresh intake air incandescent lamps shall be protected by gastight fittings of strong glass except that lamps of two hundred and tewnty volts or higher and not of more than eight candle power and without tips need not be so protected

84 Incandescent lamps shall be so placed that they cannot come in contact wth combustible material

85 Portable incandescent lamps other than battery lamps shall not be used except in connection with the repair and inspection of machines and equipment and then only in non-gaseous portions of mines When so used they shall be protected by a heavy wire cage completely enclosing both lamp and socket and shall be provided with a handle to which both cage and socket are firmly attached and through which leading-in wires are carried

86 Electric lamps shall be replaced by a competent person only and in gaseous portons of a mine only after an examination for gas has been made with a safety lamp

For other regulations regarding electric lighting circuits see section three rules forty-three to forty-five inclusive

SECTION EIGHT

Shot Firing By Electricity

Shot Firing Circuits

87 Electricity from any grounded circuit shall not be used for firing shots

88 When shot-firing cables or wires are used in the vicinity of power or lighting conductors special precaution shall be taken to prevent the shot-firing cables or wires from coming in contact with the light power or any other circuits

Shot Firers

89 Only competent persons who have the necessary training and skill and who have been properly instructed in the work and duly authorized by the mine foreman shall be allowed to fire shots electrically in any mine

Electric Detonators

90 All electric detonators and leads thereto shall be suitable for the conditions under which the blasting is carried and shall be of a type approved by the Pittsburg Testing Station of the Federal Bureau of Mines Detonators shall be kept in a dry place and never stored with any other explosive

Portable Firing Machines and Batteries

91 Portable shot firing machines sometimes called generators shall be enclosed in a tightly constructed case when employed in any portion of the mine All contacts will be made or broken shall be within the case except that the binding posts for making connections to the firing leads may be outside

92 Primary or secondary batteries used for shot firing shall be provided with a suitable case covered by rule ninety-one The batteries shall be constructed so that the wires of a detonator or leads should accidentally or otherwise come in contact with the binding posts no current will be discharged They shall be provided with a detachable handle plug or key without which the current cannot be closed or provided with one or more safety contact buttons which are well countersunk or protected by a non-conducting housing The plugs handles or keys shall be detached when not actually in use for firing a shot and shall not under any circumstances pass from the person in custody of the person commissioned to fire the shots while on duty

93 All portable devices for generating or supplying electricity for shot firing when in a mine shall be in charge of the person commissioned to fire the shots

94 No firing machine or battery shall be connected to the shot firing leads until all other steps preparatory to the firing of a shot have been completed and all persons have moved to a place of safety and no person other than the shot firer shall make such connection

Disconnecting of Leads

95 Immediately after the firing of a shot the firing leads shall be disconnected from the supply or source of electricity and no person shall approach a shot which has failed to explode until the firing leads have been so disconnected by the shot firer from the device and an interval of five minutes has elapsed since the last attempt to fire the shot

Tests of Generators and Batteries

96 Frequent tests shall be made of all devices cove rule ninety-three to insure that their capacity has not en decreased by use or accident

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendments.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1323 (Senate No. 255), entitled:

An act providing for a commission to examine and report on the propriety of the purchase by the Commonwealth of a certain tract of land in Jefferson Clarion and Forest counties and making an appropriation therefor

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Elk, Mr. Flynn.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, this is an act providing for the appointment of a commission to examine and report upon the proposed purchasing in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania of a certain tract of land in Jefferson County known as the Cook Estate. It is perhaps composed of about eight thousand acres of land. From reliable information which I have received I am told that most of this land has been cut over and now contains a second growth of timber. Part of this land being virgin forest, but it is now proposed that the State purchase this land for the purpose of a public park. It is situated one hundred miles from nowhere, and I doubt the wisdom of the State purchasing it. In fact, I know of no good reason why the State should purchase it. I hope this bill will be voted down.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides that the sum of three hundred dollars be appropriated for the specific purpose of having a commission appointed to examine what is known as the Cook estate, a tract of land, and one of the very few remaining original tracts of timber in this State. The bill was introduced by the Senator from my district, Mr. Kurtz. It provides for the appointment of a commission to serve without pay to examine these lands and to report at the next session of the Legislature whether it would be advisable or not to purchase this land. Three hundred dollars is the sum asked for in this appropriation bill, and it seems to me that we are becoming overly economical when we object to a bill of this kind on the general principle of being opposed to forestry and all of its provisions, no matter if forest fires come into our own country and destroy tracts of timber and incur whatever loss may be incurred. It seems to me that we are getting down to a very fine point when an appropriation of three hundred dollars to pay for the necessary expenses of obtaining a report for the State in order to find out whether it is advisable to purchase a tract of land if it is considered wise to do so. No person is bound by this. It is simply an act asking for the appointment of a commission to examine and report on a certain tract of land, the commission to report at the next session of the Legislature. I hope this Legislature will not be quite so stingy as to say that this commission cannot be permitted to examine the land. I have been informed by my colleague, Mr. North, that three or four hundred acres of this land is virgin land, and the object of this act is to take steps to protect this land. However, Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be postponed from further consideration at the present time.

Mr. NORTH. I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. SHREVE. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Erie, Mr. Shreve.

Mr SHREVE. Mr. Speaker, I move that Senate Bill No. 596 (House No. 1340) from page 27 of to-day's calendar, entitled:

An act providing for the liquidation distribution of assets and dissolution of corporations under the supervision of the Commissioner of Banking and repealing all acts of Assembly supplied hereby or inconsistent herewith be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General for the purpose of a hearing.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer the following concurrent resolution.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read by the Clerk.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION THREE OF ARTICLE EIGHT OF THE CONSTITUTION OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania (if the Senate concurs), That the following is proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article there.

Section 2. Amend section 3 of Article VIII, which reads as follows: "All judges selected by the electors of the State at large may be elected at either a general or municipal election, as circumstances may require. All the elections for judges of the courts for the several judicial districts and for county, city, ward, borough, and township officers for regular terms of service shall be held on the municipal election day, namely: the Tuesday next following the first Monday of November in each odd numbered year, but the General Assembly may by law fix a different day, two-thirds of all the members of each House consenting thereto: Provided, That such election shall always be held in an odd numbered year," so as to read:

Section 3. All judges elected by the electors of the State at large may be elected at either a general or municipal election, as circumstances may require. All elections for judges of the courts for the several judicial districts, and for county, city, ward, borough, and township officers for regular terms of service, shall be held on the municipal election day, namely: the Tuesday next following the first Monday of November in each odd numbered year, but the general Assembly may by law fix a different day, two-thirds of all the members of each House consenting thereto. Provided, That such election shall always be held in an odd numbered year: Provided further, That all judges for the courts of the several judicial districts holding office at the present time whose terms of office may end in an odd numbered year shall continue to hold their offices until the first Monday of January in the next succeeding even numbered year.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

Mr. JOHN R. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, in asking for a roll call I wish to say that this resolution is offered for the purpose of overcoming a recent decision of the Supreme Court. In 1909 the Constitutional amendments were passed which has placed the judiciary in such shape that some thirty-nine judges of the State of Pennsylvania are going to have their terms expire without any provision for their re-election. I have a note here, as this resolution has been prepared by some of the members of the Judiciary Special Committee, this statement has been sent to me which I desire to read.

This amendment is advisable owing to the recent decision of the Supreme Court to the effect that after the year of 1911 the positions of thirty-nine judges at present holding office whose terms expire on the first Monday of January in an odd numbered year will become vacant because of the impossibility of electing their respective successors at the general election which occurs in the November prior to the expiration of such terms. The newspaper clipping at the end hereof shows the judges thus affected.

If one of these amendments is put through at the present session it can go before the people in November, 1914, which will relieve the situation for a number of the present judicial incumbents.

The Philadelphia judges affected by the decision are: 1913, Judge Barratt; 1915, Mayor Sulzberger and Robert N. Willson; 1917, Charles B. McMichael and William H. Staake (Orphans' Court), 1915, Morris Dallett; 1919, Clement B. Penrose.

The judges in other judicial districts of the State who will be affected are: 1913, James R. Macfarlane, Allegheny; James M. Galbraith, Butler; John Ormerod, Potter; Horace Heydt, Carbon.

1915, Aaron B. Hassler, Lancaster; Henry B. Scott, Northampton; Wilbur F. Sadler, Cumberland; Joseph M. Woods, Huntington, Bedford and Mufflin; A. W. Williams, Mercer; S. J. Telford, Indiana; Charles E. Terry, Wyoming; Ellis L. Orvis, Centre; Samuel McSwope, Adams and Fulton; Allen W. Ehrgood, Lebanon; William E. Porter, Lawrence.

1917, Robert Sellers Frazer, Allegheny; Emory A. Walling, Erie; Harry A. Hall, Clinton, Cameron and Elk; Charles C. Evans, Columbia and Montour; John A. McIlvaine, Washington.

1919, John C. Haymaker, Allegheny; John A. Evans, Allegheny; Charles M. Brumm, Schuykill; Ralph B. Little, Susquehanna; William E. Rice, Warren and Forest; Henry K. Wean, Montgomery; James J. O'Neill, Lackawanna (Orphans' Court), MacHenry Wilhelm, Schuykill.

Mr. SCHOFIELD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say that Judge Rice resigned a year ago.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. John R. K. Scott.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Yes, sir.

Mr ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, if this proposed resolution goes through it would have to be approved by the Legislature of 1913.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Yes, sir.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, then, if that session approved it it would have to be voted on at the general elections of 1913

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. In 1914; because of the provision of five years.

Mr. ROCKWELL. If these judges, when their times expire, can be appointed for the short term, up to the time of the next election, and then be nominated for re-election they can then be re-elected for the full term and it would save going to the expense of a Constitutional amendment.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, the judges themselves don't want to be placed in such a position. In reference to saving money for the Constitutional amendment on this particular proposition, there will be advertisement of other amendments, and the money has to be spent anyway.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, will not some of these judges have to be appointed by the Governor anyway—all those up to 1915?

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, a few; Judge Barratt, and Judge Sulzberger, of Philadelphia, would be among those among the Philadelphia judiciary, while Hassler will be elected in accordance with this Constitutional amendment.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, part of this could be worked out without going to any expense, could it not?

Mr. GRAYBILL. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that the point of the expense for the election or the re-election of these judges will not be very great, because we have other proposed amendments and they have to be published, and these amendments would go along at the same time and there would be no extra expense. It will be simply small expense, in addition for the publication thereof.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I don't want to appear as opposing this bill, but I am just inquiring for information.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

An act permitting owners and lessees of coal rights to remove overlying strata and dump or deposit it on land adjacent to the opening of mine and providing for payment and manner of payment and for the securing of payment to the owners of the adjacent lands for said privilege

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. AILMAN. Mr. Speaker, on general principles, I do not like the looks of this very bill. It may posibly be one of those bills like a great many others that have been before us, asking for a general law to apply to some particular case. If that is true and the particular case is of sufficient merit, I would like to have the member who has this bill in charge, get up and tell us. It gives a man the right to dump refuse on somebody else's ground without his permission, of course fixing the rate to be paid therefor. On general principles I am opposed to the right of eminent domain. Under some conditions it is necessary, and where it is, I am in favor of it. If necessary in this case I would be glad to vote for it, but unless an explanation is made showing that it is, I will have to vote against it.

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, this is Senator Endsley's bill. He has explained it to a number of the members. It is a necessity in several cases, because there are a number of mines that cannot be operated for the reason that the parties owning the adjacent land refuse positively to make a sale, and on this ground I hope that the members of this House will vote for this bill.

Mr. AILMAN, Mr. Speaker, I would like to know the nature of this adjacent ground. This bill would give them permission to put this dirt on any kind of ground, or right in front of your door, if necessary.

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker, as I understand it, it does not mean in the front yard, or in front of your doorway. It has relation to some timber land or mountainous land.

Mr. REEL. Mr. Speaker, if the members will read the mining laws of the anthracite region they will understand this bill. This brings the matter under the jurisdiction of the Court, who appoints viewers, who, with a civil engineer, visit the land, and their expenses are paid. The land near where these mines are opened are not very valuable. Then the man objects to having this refuse dumped on his land. We have mines in Somerset county where there is only a three foot vein of coal, but it is necessary to take out four feet of slate and other material in order to comply with the mining laws. This bill is to provide the mine owner with a place to dump refuse. The man who owns the land where it is dumped will receive proper compensation for it.

Mr. HENRY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether or not that in the opening of a mine the refuse from the mine can be dumped on any land adjacent to the territory where the mine has been opened. This bill reads that not only the refuse strata but also the refuse from the mine can be dumped. This bill distinctly states that which shall be dumped on the ground. If a man does not own the ground adjacent to the ground on which the mine is opened, I object to it, because it gives the mine owner an opportunity to open the mine and dump the refuse on a man's ground irrespective of whether he receives any compensation for it or not.

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides for the payment. They are to purchase this ground to be used as a dumping ground.

Mr. HENRY. Mr Speaker, the point I am trying to make is this: that not only the surface strata, but also the refuse of the ground can be dumped on the ground adjacent to the territory where the mine is opened. I have no objection to the bill if it provides for the payment, but I have if this refuse is to be dumped on the ground without the man receiving the proper remuneration.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, this bill provides for the right of eminent domain, and a mine owner can dump the refuse on any part of my land. If it is adjacent property, no matter what I may use it for, it can be used as a dumping ground. They can even take a farm from the farmer, whether he owns the land or not

NAYS—3.

Baldwin, R. J.	Ward, W.	Blair

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 707 (Senate No. 365), entitled:

An act providing for an appeal from the judgment of aldermen and justices of the peace within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania regardless of the amount in controversy or of the amount of the judgment rendered

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would very much dislike to see this bill become a law, because it would crowd our Court of Quarter Sessions, which are full enough now. The present law is that no appeal shall be allowed from the judgment of a justice of the peace when the amount is less than $5.33. This bill removes this limit, and under it an appeal may be taken if the judgment is only two cents. It seems to me if we are going to try to clear our records this bill ought to go down and let the law stand where it is.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was not agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 798 (Senate No. 11), entitled:

An act relating to the sale of goods

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know whether there is anybody in this House who has read this bill and can tell us anything about it. It seems to me something should be said on the subject of contract and sale.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, this is one of the products of the Commission on Uniform Laws, and whether or not this House may have given this bill the careful attention that it deserves, I am perfectly sure that the commission has, and if you have any objection to this it ought to have appeared before now. I think you can safely vote for this bill.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I think what Mr. Scott has said will carry with it a great deal of weight. This is a product or result of the labors of the commission which is trying to establish uniform laws on various subjects, contracts and sale. It appears to me that it is a good bill. It struck me as being such a long bill that probably it would be well to have a little explanation. In view of what has been said, however, I think we could not go wrong in passing it.

Mr. ROBINSON. Mr. Speaker, I thoroughly agree with the gentlemen from Philadelphia, both of whom have spoken. This bill, as I understand it, is a bill for the purpose of establishing uniformity in the law relating to the sale of goods. This bill has been carefully considered, and there is no good reason why it should not be passed. Therefore, it would seem to be a mistake to vote this bill down. From the fact of its having been prepared in this careful way it should receive the support of the House, and if there is anything objectionable in it, I have no doubt it will be discovered by the Attorney General and can be vetoed. It would be a mistake, however, to dispose in a summary way of a piece of legislation of this character.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, on this particular ocasion I quite agree with the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Robinson. This is one of those bills which the National Commission has been working on for years and years in order to get a general system providing for conditions which are covered by this bill. Several of the States have adopted it on the recommendation of the Commission, and the bill just before us is a bill which has been adopted by that association and has been proposed in the various legislative bodies in several of the States and adopted by them up to this time. I see no reason why the bill should not be given a practically unanimous vote, and I think it ought to pass at this time.

Mr. DERSHEM. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that this bill, with its short title and being a long bill, it does seem to me that we ought to give it some consideration—more than we have—before voting on it. Being in business, I have never found the necessity for this kind, and it seems to me that it would be a useless and a cumbersome measure and might lead to a very great amount of trouble in a business way, for the reason that business men have a pretty hard time getting along and making any money as the law now stands, and if you put any laws on them that might hamper them it might make it harder still, and it seems to me that in voting upon this bill, without having given it any more consideration than it appears to have received, we should vote it down.

Mr. ABBOTT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this is a bill which was introduced here at the instance of the Uniform Legislative Committee of the National Bar Association and also of the Pennsylvania State Bar Association. This bill was carefully gone over in the Senate committee, to which meeting the members of this House were invited, particularly the members of the Judiciary General Committee of this House. This bill has been carefully gone over, the title is short, but it simply applies to what it says. This bill has met the approval of both the National and State Bar Associations, and now I think it is the law in eighteen States, with the desire and for the benefit of the mercantile trade to have uniform legislation on this subject, and I think we will make a mistake if we vote this bill down. I, therefore, ask the members to support it.

Mr. DERSHEM. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Abbott.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Abbott, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ABBOTT. Yes, sir. Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DERSHEM. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know from Mr. Abbott how about the business people in this State. He says the Bar Association has indorsed the bill. This is a law that would especially affect the business interests of the State—the retailer and jobber. How do they consider it?

Mr. ABBOTT. Mr. Speaker, I understand an opportunity was given for hearing and all were invited to the hearing. Not a single word of protest has been offered by anybody in regard to this bill. It is simply to make the law uniform throughout the United States—uniform on that particular branch of business.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 727 (Senate No. 397), as follows:

An act regulating the salary and payment thereof of the associate judges of the courts of this Commonwealth

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That from and after the passage of this act the annual salary of the associate judges of the courts of this Commonwealth shall be in counties of under ten thousand population three hundred dollars in counties of ten thousand and under twenty thousand population four hundred dollars and in counties of twenty thousand population and over six hundred dollars payable quarterly by warrants drawn by the Auditor General on the State Treasurer

Section 2 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. H. B. DUNN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I think there should be a word of explanation on this bill. In the smaller counties, which of themselves do not form a judicial district, we have what is known as associate judges. Now, we have been paying them so much a day, and their yearly stipend has been measured by the amount of time they could figure in. Now, we want to obviate this, and we want a bill providing that a small salary shall be paid associate judges ranging from $600 to $300. According to the report of the Auditor General the fees that have been paid to these officials run from $1,115 down. You see, this is not what you would call a salary raiser. On the contrary, it is more of a salary reducer, and I would ask every member of this House to vote for this bill and put the matter in some definite shape.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, this morning House Bill No. 680 (Senate No. 315), page 8 of to-day's calendar, was postponed for the present. I would ask that this bill be taken up at this time.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 680 (Senate No. 315), entitled:

An act fixing the compensation of the deputy factory inspectors

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, this is another one of the salary raisers. Under the law creating the factory inspectors they were paid $1,000 a year. Two years ago they were increased from $1,000 to $1,200, and now they are getting all of their expenses. This bill proposes to make it $1,500. It seems to me that this salary that they are getting now—one hundred dollars a month—is amply sufficient to pay for the work they do, and I am opposed to this bill and hope the House will vote it down.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I believe that this House is not to be scared or turned aside simply when the term "salary raiser" is used, because I think the intelligence of this House is of too high a character for that sort of play against a meritorious bill. I cannot agree with the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Rockwell, that the salaries of these factory inspectors have been raised within two years. If I am rightly informed, at the establishment of this department the salaries were fixed at exactly what they are to-day. Two years ago it was tried to raise them, but that time it failed. The scope of that department has been extended by acts of Assembly time and time again, and the work of that department has been appreciated, and the duties have been increased to such an extent that the men who are capble to fill the positions—I say to you gentlemen of the House there are forty-one affected by this bill—the gentlemen who must fill these positions have to be qualified to the extent of carrying out the law as this body and the preceding bodies have placed on the statute books, and to do it conscientiously and according to the strictest letter of the law. Now it does seem that where a man is here to-day and there to-morrow and somewhere else the next day, called away from home, carried all over this State, looking after this particular interest or that particular interest, and seeing that the law is carried out and that the employes are protected under the laws that such men should be compensated for the duty they are performing. The raise here is $300 a man and there are forty-one of these men, which makes $12,300 a year as a total raise. If you think that the duties which are being imposed upon these men since the establishment of this department are not sufficient to justify the State to pay out the enormous sum of $12,300 distributed among forty-one men, then vote this bill down. If you think that merit should win and that men should be paid for duty performed, then support this bill, and I would ask that the bill pass the House.

Mr. WM. WARD, JR. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I regret that there should be any necessity for raising any question as to the advisability of passing this bill. As the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Allen, has said there are but forty-one of these men employed at the task of seeing that the lives and safety not only of the men employed in the industrial establishments, workshops and establishments, but our citizens in the opera houses, hotels, boarding houses and wherever they may be are protected. There are but forty-one men to look after these thousands f citizens in this State. The factory inspector in the district hich I have the honor to represent has in that district over ,400 places under his direct supervision, and I think this a particularly meritorious salary raiser. I don't think here should be any question raised against it, and I trust hat this House will approve the bill.

Mr. E. R. COX. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Tioga as misinformed the House in relation to the salaries of hese men having been raised. At the last session the bill vas passed by the House and by the Senate. but the Gov- rnor refused his approval. There has not been any in- rease since the time of the inception of that department. n the city of Philadelphia these inspectors have upwards f 2,000 visits to make a year, and necessarily they have o hunt up considerable assistance from other sections of the tate. I believe that these men should be encouraged and he salary raised to $1,500.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, onsidered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Mr. NORTH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up Senate Bill No. 255 (House No. 1323), on page 4 of to-day's calendar.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1323 (Senate No. 255), entitled:

An act providing for a Commission to examine and report on the propriety of the purchase by the Commonwealth of a certain tract of land in Jefferson Clarion and Forest counties and making an appropriation therefor

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. NORTH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say to the gentlemen of this House that this is a bill making an appropriation of three hundred dollars to pay the expenses of a commission to examine these lands, and it is line with a bill that passed the House last week, and I hope the gentlemen will support it.

Mr. HOWARD. Mr. Speaker, this is one of the Forestry Department bills again, and apparently the whole object of all the bills of the Forestry Department were to carry out the object for which this bill was created. This bill provides for the appointment of commissioners to go and examine eight thousand acres of land. The appropriation for their expenses was reduced to three hundred dollars. That does not give it any more merit, and if you introduced a bill only making an appropriation of one hundred dollars, the amount of the appropriation has nothing to do with it. The bill is the first introduced but in line with the others; first the bill with the right of eminent domain and taking off the limit of price which could be paid by the Forestry Department, then there is the bill creating auxiliary reserves which would take the land out of the tax list; then there is another bill to create a Park Commission. This Park Commission bill passed the House last week. It creates a Park Board to be appointed by the Governor to buy land anywhere they please for park purposes. Now, not satisfied that this State Park Commission might pick on this particular land they have introduced their bill with the appointment of another set of Commissioners who shall go and make a report to the Forestry Commission and say this is a good piece of land to buy; and they come before you and they ask for three hundred dollars to examine this same land which the Park Commission could examine and to tell that Commission that it ought to buy. I want to say that the Forestry Commissioner has made a report to this House which is not yet printed in which he has said he has bought any quantity of land upwards of a million acres, at an average of two dollars and twenty-five cents an acre.

I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Jefferson.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. North, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. NORTH. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOWARD. Mr Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Jefferson what value has been placed upon these lands in question?

Mr. NORTH. Mr. Speaker, I do not know, I could not tell.

Mr. WILSON. Mr Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Cameron.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Howard, allow himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HOWARD. No, sir, Mr. Speaker. When I am through with what I have to say I will answer all the questions they put to me.

At the present time I want to repeat what the gentleman from Jefferson has said, that he did not know what the estimated value of these lands was. I want to say to the gentlemen of this house that three or four weeks ago there was a delegation came down to the Governor, to learn whether he would sign this bill, or agree to the purchase of this land. I asked some of that delegation what they thought was the price of this land, and they said they did not know, that the Cooke estate would take whatever the Commission offered them. That is a funny price for land, for anyone who has anything to sell to say I will take whatever is offered. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, these lands have been lumbered for a long, long time.

Mr. NORTH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Cameron.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cameron permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HOWARD. Mr. Speaker, after a while. I have never seen the Cooke lands, but I know that for years they have been lumbered, and selling and floating down the Allegheny some very fine lumber. I asked this delegation how much of the original timber was left, and they said they thought two hundred acres. Now, gentlemen, where there is a large estate like this that has been lumbering over fifty years, and has only two hundred acres left the presumption is that these two hundred acres are so far back that it will not pay to cut the trees and haul them into market. There is no railroad within ten or fifteen miles of them. After they cut out the good timber they went back and cut what is called second grade timber. This timber they hauled six or eight miles on wagons from their mill. A part of this large tract is situated in a plateau six hundred feet above the river, and there is a small strip of land running along the river, but the majority is six hundred feet on the mountain side. Now Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, if this Park Commission wants to buy this land let them buy it, but don't let us tie their hands with a separate commission to tell them they ought to buy it and fix a price satisfactory to other people interested besides the owners.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I would thank you for just a moment of your time. If I was not for the fact that you might be somewhat misled by the statements of the gentleman from Cameron I would not presume to trespass on your time at this moment. I believe I am in a position to state to this House a little more about these different Forestry bills than the gentleman from Cameron. In the first place I had the honor to introduce the Department bill, the only bill that the Department of Forestry advocated and wished presented at this session. That is the bill to which the gentleman from Juniata objected, carrying the right of eminent domain.

Mr. HOWARD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. Wilson.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. Wilson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I will answer the gentleman's questions readily and willingly if he will be brief.

Mr. HOWARD. Does the gentleman wish this House to understand that the Forestry Department does not approve of this bill?

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker and gentleman of the House, I can say almost positively that the Commissioner of Forestry is not really in favor of this bill. I can say that. That has nothing to do with this question.

I wish to analyze the question before us by stating this. That the Department bill which carried the right of eminent domain and took off the price of five dollars an acre the one which this House defeated is the only bill the Department advocated. The bill creating auxiliary reserves and the bill taxing such reserves if they were established was drawn by one of the Forestry Commission as an individual the Hon. S. B. Elliott. That bill was not strongly advocated by the Department of Forestry. The bill introduced by my colleague Mr. North, was drawn up by outside parties, and the Department of Forestry had nothing to do with that, and this present bill was drawn and prepared by people in Clarion, Jefferson and Forest counties, who would like to have the Cooke estate lands examined, with a view of seeing whether they could not be saved to the State as a State Park. Now, that is all there is in it. This particular bill that we are talking about now is not being advocated by the Department of Forestry. This bill carries an appropriation of three hundred dollars to pay the actual necessary expenses of this Commission, which will examine the land and report to the next Legislature. There seems to be a studied plan amongst certain members of this House to charge the Department of Forestry with anything and everything that relates to trees. I am not here defending the Department of Forestry for anything of which it is guilty, but I can say in this particular instance that the Department of Forestry is not behind this bill, and if anybody wants to find out, they can ask the Senator from Jefferson county and learn who is behind it. All that is asked is to permit the Commission to go and examine the lands and report back to the next Legislature.

Mr. NORTH. Mr. Speaker, I wish to finish my answer to the interrogatory of the gentleman from Cameron. When I said I did not know the price of these lands that is true, and the purpose of this Commission provided for this bill is to investigate and find out the cost and report to the next session of the Legislature whether it would be advisable to purchase these lands. I would say further that when Congres gets through investigating the lumber trust there is no doubt that many people in Cameron County will know the value of certain lumber interests which are located in that county and for that reason I hope the members will support the bill and two years hence when the Commissionmakes report, if you do not like the report vote it down.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendments.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 778 (Senate No. 394), entitled:

An act to amend section eleven of an act entitled "An act relating to corporations and to estates held for corporate religious and charitable uses" approved the twenty-sixth day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and fifty-five

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ROBINSON. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, this bill ought to receive very careful consideration. It is intended to change the law relating to charitable bequests by will. Under the law as it is at present a bequest to a charitable institution is not good unless the will is executed at least a month before the death of the testator, and is attested by two creditable, and at the same time disinterested witnesses. Now, the purpose of this act is to say in effect that one who receives a bequest or a devise under a will which contains a charitable bequest, and that that person is interested to sustain the will shall not be regarded as interested witness with respect to the charitable bequest. Is it not safer policy to permit the law to remain as it is; is it not safer to say that a disinterested witness is such a one as can have no interest either directly or indirectly in sustaining the will. You will note that the charitable bequest is not effective unless it is made at least a calendar month before the death of the testator; therefore it certainly ought to be that the will shall be attested by absolutely disinterested witnesses. One can hardly imagine any circumstances where it would not be possible, with very little trouble, to get two creditable and disinterested witnesses. Therefore, I respectfully submit to the consideration of this House, whether it is not better to permit the law to remain as it is, to wit, that where there is a charitable bequest, it shall not take effect unless the bill is made at least a calendar month before the death of the testator and witnessed by two creditable and absolutely disinterested witnesses. It seems to me, therefore, that this bill should be voted down.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this bill which was introduced by Senator Salus in the Senate, is a bill that was drawn by one of the eminent judges of the Philadelphia bench. It is not a bill such as the gentleman from Delaware fully explains it to be. Under the act of 1855, where a charitable bequest is made, the witnesses must be disinterested. This bill merely allows these witnesses to be interested in their portion of the will, that is to say, that if my parents would leave me a portion of money and at the same time leave a charitable institution a portion of money, I could be a competent witness, but I could not be a competent witness if I was a party to that charity. In other words, this act has been drafted by Judge Sultzberger for the purpose of keeping in the law all that was the proper portion of the law, and eliminating that portion which might do harm. Now, there has been a recent decision handed down by the Supreme Court, as you men know, holding that a great charity that was to be established under a will became void merely because of the technicality of the act of 1855. By this act that portion of the law that was to be preserved will be preserved, and the hardships that would come from the present status of the law would be eliminated. I think this is a highly meritorious bill and should be passed.

Mr. ROBINSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. John R. K. Scott.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. John R. K. Scott, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Oh, yes, Mr. Speaker, I will answer as much as I know about the bill.

Mr. ROBINSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether there is likely under any reasonable conditions to be such a set of circumstances that it would not be possible to get two creditable and disinterested witnesses to witness a will.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I could not tell the gentleman; I should judge that such a circumstance might arise that you could not.

Mr. ROBINSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman would it not be possible that a witness who was interested to sustain a will might be made a beneficiary under the will simply by reason of his interest to maintain a charitable bequest.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, well, I should judge if he was he would be an incompetent witness under this act. My thought is that under the present bill as drafted here, that such a circumstance as you relate would bar his being a competent witness where charity was given.

Mr. ROBINSON. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, my idea of this bill and this legislation, with all due deference to the eminent judge who may have drawn this bill, my idea is that where it comes to the charitable bequests, that it is not too much to insist upon it that the witnesses to the will shall be absolutely disinterested; that they shall not be interested to sustain the will because they are a legatee, or devisee under the will. There is no occasion for it, and it is possible that there might be an inducement to one who was interested in the will by reason of the bequest or devise to sustain it. There is but one thought in my mind and that is this: If it be necessary to protect dead men's estates that the bequest shall be void unless the will is executed a month before death, and if ever since 1855, the wisdom of the people has been that such will shall not be in effect, unless it is witnessed by two disinterested and creditable witnesses, why shall it be changed now without any urgent necessity, by making an interested party, to wit, one who is interested, to sustain the will because of his personal interest, interested to sustain the will in order to carry the charitable bequest. I repeat that it does not seem as if this amendment were necessary and that this bill ought to fall.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, the way the law stands now under the act of 1855 if I were called to the bedside of my mother, her deathbed, and she desired in her will to leave a charitable bequest, and I signed as her witness, and my other co-heir, signed as her witness, that charity would not get a dollar. That is the injustice of the present law. This bill as drafted would be that I would have to be a part of the charity getting the benefit of that before I would be incompetent. I believe that the law as it exists now is not complete. It is improper, and this bill that has been drafted after litigation, after the courts for many years have passed upon the act of '55 in the result of the logical conclusions of learned legal minds, and I think this bill ought to be passed.

Mr. ROBINSON. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, in the illustration that has been put by my friend the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. John R. K. Scott, if he were by the bedside of a dying mother, and so on, the charity would not get the bequest because she would be in a dying condition and the bequest would not be good unless she lived a calendar month after, and the very illustration that he gives shows the absolute want of necessity of this law, because a will of this character to be made in favor of a charity is not good unless the testator lives a calendar month after the bequest, and surely if they are well enough to make a will and live a calendar month there could be no such urgent necessity as my friend seems to indicate of having somebody by the dying woman's bedside stand as a witness. It would be very easy to go into the next room or out on the street, or almost anywhere and obtain two creditable and disinterested witnesses. Therefore, I repeat again that nothing has been said in favor of this bill to my mind that is any reason why it should not fall.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question.

Commitee on Rules.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. ROBINSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. ROBINSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire whether a rule of that kind ought not to lie over for one day.

The SPEAKER. This is the report of the Committee on Rules, and has preference at all times.

Mr. ROBINSON. Mr. Speaker, it does seem to me that this rule ought to be changed, or the suggestion ought to be changed in order that these bills may appear upon our calendar, and in order that we may be able to follow them. As it is now these bills are read off by number and it is utterly impossible to follow them and we have nothing to follow, and until they do appear on our calendar, when they are called out the time is necessarily taken in trying to find them, in the mass of stuff we have to go over. Therefore, it seems to me, that we should not be called upon to pass upon these bills until they appear on the calendar in the order in which they are to be called up.

The SPEAKER. For the information of the gentleman the Chair will state that this report of the Committee on Rules has the preference at any particular time. These bills will be called up from Friday's calendar.

Mr. ROBINSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to another point of order. As I undersand, under the rules, the bills are to be called up from the calendar in their regular order. I do not know whether I am right as to that or not, but as I further understand the rules, if this rule is to be changed, must it not be by a two-thirds vote?

The SPEAKER. The report of the Committee on Rules is adopted by a majority vote and the rules so state.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee on Rules?

It was adopted.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 780 (Senate No. 160), entitled:

An act to amend the fifth and twenty-second sections of an act entitled "An Act relating to insolvency embracing among other matters voluntary assignments for the benefit of creditors and adverse proceedings in insolvency by creditors forbidding also certain preferences providing for the distribution of the insolvent's estate and in certain contingencies relieving him and others liable with him from further liability for his or their debts" approved the fourth day of June Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and one by providing for publication and notice in a weekly and in a daily newspaper

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendments.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE ON HOUSE BILL NO. 365.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following motion.

The SPEAKER. The motion will be read by the Clerk.

The motion was read by the Clerk as follows:

Move to reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 365 (House No. 777) file folio 2423, page 10 of to-day's calendar failed on third reading.

On the question of agreeing to the motion a division was called for, 75 members voting in the affirmative and 45 in the negative, and the motion was agreed to.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. PATRICK CONNER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. FREY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE ON SENATE BILL NO. 453.

Mr. ALTER. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of offering an amendment which I think will remove the objection, I move to reconsider the vote by which Senate Bill No. 453, at the bottom of page 8 of to-day's calendar, failed on final passage.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. ALTER. Mr. Speaker, I move to reconsider the vote by which this bill passed third reading.

Mr. GANS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ALTER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend title by striking out all after the word "distribution," at the beginning of the second line and substituting the following, "whenever any appeal from such decree, involving the same question, shall be cognizable by and taken to the said court."

Amend section 1, by striking out all after the enacting clause, and substituting the following: "That whenever any appeal from any final decree of any Court of Common Pleas or Orphans' Court, upon any question of distribution, shall be cognizable by and taken to the Supreme Court, all other appeals from the same decree and involving the same question shall also be taken to the Supreme Court."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendment as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. SHREVE, from the Committee on Judiciary General, re-reported as amended House Bill No. 1340 (Senate No. 596), entitled:

An act providing for the liquidation distribution of assets and dissolution of corporations under the supervision of the Commissioner of Banking and repealing all acts of Assembly supplied hereby or inconsistent herewith

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. KEELY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to and (at 5.40 P. M.) the House adjourned until this evening at 7.00 o'clock.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

MONDAY, May 22, 1911.

EVENING SESSION.

The House met at 7.30 o'clock.

The Speaker (JOHN F. COX) in the chair.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 799 (Senate No. 266), entitled:

An act in relation to the printing of appropriation bills in the pamphlet laws

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. AILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I think before this bill is voted on that it is worthy of a moment's attention. It occupies the unique position of all bills we have acted on thus far or will act upon this session. It actually, if I understand the bill rightly, and perhaps I don't, provides for a reduction of expenses. Think of that! It strikes me as being quite foolish in that it saves a drop at the bucket while it is throwing it out lavishly at the bung-hole. It provides for a mere outline of the appropriation bills in the pamphlet laws, while the other bills are in full. I think the public would like to know the full text of appropriation bills, and therefore, I cannot vote for this retrenchment in expenses.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz.:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 804 (Senate No. 133), as follows:

An Act regulating the issuance of licenses to marry prohibiting the issuance of such licenses to certain persons regulating the time during which licenses shall be valid and the time when returns shall be made of marriages solemnized to the clerk of the Orphans' Court prescribing the duties of the clerk of the Orphans' Court and providing penalties for the violations of the provisions of this act

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That no license to marry shall be issued except upon written and verified application Such application shall contain a statement of the full Christian name and surname color occupation birthplace residence and ages of the parties whether the marriage contemplated is the first second or other marriage and that neither of the contracting parties is afflicted with a transmissible disease together with the full Christian name and surname residence color occupation and birthplace of their parents including the maiden name of the mother together with such other facts as may be necessary to determine whether any legal impediment to the proposed marriage exists Such application shall be recorded by the clerk together with the license and certificate of marriage in a book provided for that purpose which book shall be a public record

Section 2 Applications for license to marry shall be uniform throughout the State and it is hereby made the duty of the State Department of Health to furnish a form therefor to the several clerks at once upon the approval of this act Provided That said State Department of Health may revise said forms so furnished from time to time as may be advisable

Section 3 No license to marry shall be issued where either of the contracting parties is an imbecile epileptic of unsound mind or under guardianship as a person of unsound mind nor to any male person who is or has been within five years an inmate of any county asylum or home for indigent persons unless it satisfactorily appears that the cause of such condition has been removed and that such male applicant is physically able to support a family or if at the time of making application either of the contracting parties is under the influence of an intoxicating liquor or narcotic drug and no license shall be valid for a longer period than sixty days from the date of issue

Section 4 In those cases when the right to a license is not made to appear the clerk shall refuse to issue the same At once upon such refusal he shall certify the proceeding to the proper court without formality or expense to the applicants who shall be notified by him of such action Such application shall thereupon be at the earliest practicable time heard by the judge of said court without a jury in court or in chambers during the term or in vacation as the case may be and his finding that a license ought to issue or ought not to issue shall be final and the clerk shall act in accordance therewith the true intent of this section being to secure for the applicants a hearing by said judge without affirmative action by said applicants and to give notice to them of such hearing its time and place without delay or expense

Section 5 If persons resident of this State with intent to evade the provisions of section one and section three of this act go into another State and there have their marriage solemnized with the intention of afterward returning and residing in this State and do so return and reside in this State such marriage shall be void and illegal under the laws of this State. Provided That section shall not apply to persons who in good faith become or are citizens of any other State

Section 6 Whoever procures the issuance of a license to marry by any false statement representation or pretense shall be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars

Section 7 Whoever being duly authorized to solemnize marriage in this State knowingly joins in marriage persons who have not complied with the statute relative to the procurement of marriage license shall be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars and whoever being duly authorized to solemnize marriages in this State shall fail to make returns to the clerk of the Orphans' Court from which the license was issued of any marriage within three days after the same has been solemnized shall be fined in any sum not less than twenty-five dollars ($25.00) and not more than one hundred dollars ($100.00)

Section 8 Every clerk of the Orphans' Court who shall issue any license contrary to the provisions of this act shall be fined in any sum not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars All fines provided by this act shall be payable to the county in which the marriage license was issued or solemnized without a proper license and shall be recovered by an action of debt in the name of the said county as plaintiff in the same manner as other debts are recoverable by law with the usual costs in any court of record in any county of this Commonwealth in which the defendant or defendants shall be found

Section 9 All acts or parts of acts conflicting with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. DERSHEM. Mr. Speaker, I do not think that this bill should pass the House for the reason that it would change our marriage laws very materially, and I wish that you might refer to the fifth section of this bill, which reads as follows:

"If persons resident of this State with intent to evade the provisions of section one and section three of this act go into another State and there have their marriage solemnized with the intention of afterward returning and residing in this State and do so return and reside in this State such marriage shall be void and illegal under the laws of this State Provided This section shall not apply to persons who in good faith become or are the citizens of any other State."

I think this section alone should be sufficient to condemn this bill, and I hope the House will vote this bill down.

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, the sponsor of this bill, Senator Powell, came to me this afternoon and in a manner explained the provisions of this bill. This measure was given to him after being endorsed by the Allegheny Medical Association and other medical associations. After the bill had been presented to the House it was again referred to Dr. Dickson and after some minor changes it met with his entire approval, and I believe, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, that this is a very worthy bill and should receive the support of every member of this House. There are some provisions in this bill that might not be in some respects entirely in accord with the members of this House, but there are too many good things in this bill to cause us to vote against it. The very first section, in which it says:

"That no license to marry shall be issued except upon written and verified application. Such application shall contain a statement of the full Christian name and surname, color (which is very necessary) occupation birthplace residence and age of the parties whether the marriage contemplated is the first second or other marriage and that neither party is afflicted with a transmissible disease."

That alone, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, should influence the vote of every member of this House for this measure.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz.:

Mr. REYBURN. Mr. Speaker, I desire at this time to call up House Bill No. 1263, appropriation bill on final passage, postponed for the present.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 1263, as follows:

An act making an appropriation to Temple University of Philadelphia Pennsylvania

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the sum of one hundred and ten thousand ($110,000) dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to The Board of Trustees of Temple University of Philadelphia Pennsylvania for the two fiscal years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred and eleven for the following purposes

For the purpose of constructing new buildings the sum of ten thousand ($10,000) dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary

For maintenance the sum of one hundred thousand ($100,000) dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary Provided That twenty-five complete scholarships in a complete course of study of not less than three years duration shall be awarded to the State of Pennsylvania each year during any period for which an appropriation shall be made to the Temple University of Pennsylvania The said scholarships to be distributed by lot among the membership of the House of Representatives at the biennial session for the two years following any such appropriation

Section 2 No moneys for new buildings shall be available under this act until the Auditor General shall be assured that a proper site for said new buildings shall have been provided by gift from the City of Philadelphia or otherwise

The question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. REYBURN. Mr. Speaker, we have before us for consideration now an appropriation bill granting the sum of a hundred and ten thousand dollars to the Temple University of Philadelphia. If the House will bear with me for a few moments, I would like to place before you some facts in relation to this institution. Temple University was founded in the year 1884 by Dr. Russell Conwell, present head of the institution. It made its beginning with Dr Conwell as its sole teacher and seven pupils. From that year until the present the growth has been steady and most satisfactory. This institution was started by Dr. Conwell with the idea of filling a distinct want that had not been filled before in the educational history of the State of Pennsylvania. In 1904 the institution had progressed to such a point that a charter was applied for and granted and one extract from the charter, to show you the idea of the institution, reads something as follows: That the institution is founded with the idea of affording a higher education to workingmen. Now gentlemen, let me enlarge a little on that idea. The idea is that young men and young women, after they have gotten their ordinary course in the high schools of our State and find themselves forced to earn a living, they give up their education, and perhaps after the passage of a year or so they realize the great advantages that may accrue to them from pursuing higher studies in some branches. This institution was formed with just this one idea of enabling young men and young women, without interfering with their other labor, of enabling them to complete their education in any higher branch that they so desired. Gentlemen, that was the fundamental idea of the institution, that has been the idea of the institution from that date to this, and if we look at the records of the institution I think we will all agree that it has been successful. Since 1884 it has educated and helped to secure positions for some seventy-five thousand young men and women, and I can say, gentlemen, without fear of correction that there is no institution in the State that has more creditable graduates than this one. Now, gentlemen, the theory on which they have applied for an appropriation is that this institution renders a signal and great service to a class in the State of Pennsylvania which would otherwise be absolutely unable to obtain this education. Therefore, by all fairness, if we measure our appropriations by the amount of good that the institutions do which receive the State aid, this institution should receive this appropriation. Gentlemen, I wish you could all be as familiar as I am, and as are the members of the Philadelphia delegation and the men who live in Philadelphia, with the great benefit that this institution does. This is an institution that is without endowment. This institution is supported entirely by its friends. Last year the expenditures in conducting this institution were $130,000 in excess of the donations and the money earned by tuition fees.

Gentlemen, the graduates of this institution stand high. I say it with knowledge that never since this institution was founded has there been a graduate of either the law or medical departments who has failed to pass the State Board. Consider this! Weigh this when you are considering the qualifications of this instituton. Not one graduate has ever failed to pass the State Board. Gentlemen, I think, this is a worthy and an appropriate cause, and the money of the State of Pennsylvania will not be idly or wastefully expended if appropriated in behalfo f this institution, and I respectfully ask for your support.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I want to say to the gentlemen of the House that I feel very well acquainted with this educational institution, and I want to say to you all that of all the money I would be willing to vote for any educational institution like the University of Pennsylvania, the State Normal School, or any other University or educational institution, I would prefer to vote for the Temple College appropriation because the Temple University is the institution that gives the poor boy and the poor girl in Philadelphia and Pennsylvania a chance to do something and an opportunity to obtain a higher education.

Mr. AILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am sorry to have to take a position on a measure that would seem to indicate that I am against this institution that these gentlemen are speaking so eloquently for. I would be glad to give this institution all it asks for and more if I could also give to every other institution in the State, perhaps equally deserving, all that they might ask for or feel that they should have in the way of State aid, but I think right now is a good time to call a halt in this matter. You cannot give aid to educate everybody's son or daughter in the way of an education—this is something that comes to them that somebody has not been obliged to work for to produce, and just as much as we require some man to go out and do something and do that for which he has to work so to educate our sons and daughters somebody else should not be expected to work to do that. If it is done you are doing so much to equip him and make it possible for him to get this education for a man with a son or a daughter, the education that they ought to have and would like to give them, and which otherwise they must work for. Someone must pay for it and in this case the taxpayers of the State are asked to assist in the education of men and women, and the question is just how far has the State a right to go in educating anybody. The State has no logical right to go any farther in the education of the children of the public than is necessary to fit them for the duties of citizenship, and when you have gone so far you have no right to go any farther My interest in the education of your boys and girls and my boys and girls is just as great as your interest is in their education, to the extent that it shall fit them to be good citizens, and my interest ceases there. You have no right to tax me to fit them for professions or for clerkships or for trades or for any occupatin by which they shall gain a livelihood or gain wealth. Your interest in the education of my children can go just so far and no farther. I have no right to ask you to pay taxes to educate my children beyond the point of becoming good citizens. If you will apply that all the way through that is my understanding of the matter. This proposition if carried through would compel the man who has never seen Temple University or any other university, whose boys and girls will never get inside of any college anywhere—it will simply enable or compel him to pay taxes to give other children a better education than you will be able to get for your children if you will give money lavishly and State moneys to institutions of this character. If this institution is what the gentlemen who have spoken on the question claim it to be, and I don't doubt their claims, there ought to be public spirit enough, there ought to be philanthrophy enough in the City of Philadelphia to give that institution all the money it needs. There are many richly endowed institutions in this country that don't go to the State Government or the National Government for aid; they get all the money they want from private citizens who are public spirited and that is the place where this institution should look for its money. I believe there are forty institutions in this State to-day that have just as much of a right to come here and ask for aid as this institution, and I would be glad to give it to them if we could just have the magic wand that would turn everything into gold that we touch, but the only magic wand is, as I have said in the beginning, that which produces wealth, labor; something that somebody has to work for, and I don't want to work and prevent my boys and girls to get the education they might like to get or should have by being taxed to pay for the education of boys and girls who might get the benefit of this education. I would like to have all of them secure it and I would like to have every boy and girl in this Commonwealth get that education if I was not taxed so much already to secure enough of an education for them to make good citizens of them. I am told that this is a church institution, founded and supported as a church institution until the present time by some particular denomination—a denominational institution, and if that is so, and I have received this information from a reliable source, and I presume that I am correct, and if I am not some one can correct me if that is not so, and if this is so then I have all the more reason for voting against it much as I would like to vote for the bill.

Mr. REYBURN. Mr. Speaker, just a word in answer to the gentleman from Juniata. I think the gentleman from Juniata takes a somewhat illogical position. He admits that this is a most worthy institution and a good cause and yet he says because there are forty other institutions in the State that do the same kind of work that are working along the same educational lines who cannot receive State aid, he must vote against this bill. I maintain that they are not the same kind of institutions. For the sake of argument I will refer to the point which the gentleman from Juniata makes—why they should not all receive an appropriation from this Commonwealth? Gentlemen, I would say that if they give the same benefits to the young men and the young women in the State of Pennsylvania that this institution gives, that they all should receive a State appropriation because they are offering special advantages and benefits to the young men and young women of our State.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Reyburn, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. REYBURN. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will be good enough to allow me to conclude I will answer any query that I may be able to answer. This institution some years ago gave eight hundred free scholarships to the citizens of Philadelphia and Pennsylvania until their resources were so crippled that they were compelled to cut this number down as they were unable to continue at that rate. They now give from eighty to ninety free scholarships every year. By the amendment offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Abbott, last Friday, and most heartily agreed to by the trustees of this institution they are to give twenty-five free scholarships each year—which makes it fifty free scholarships for each session—to the members of this House.

Now, Mr. Speake. and gentlemen, if the gentleman from Beaver has any questions to put that I can answer I will do so.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the gentleman if under the general theory upon which an appropriation is asked from the State for this institution that the State should not also grant appropriations to other private schools and colleges—for instance the City College, situated in Mercer county, in this State.

Mr. REYBURN. Mr. Speaker, I was not aware that that institution asked for an appropriation, but if the institution was worthy, and I have no reason to doubt the correctness of the gentleman's statement, if that institution does the same kind of work that is done by the Temple University, an appropriation should be granted to it.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia to inform the members of this House how many students outside of the City of Philadelphia atend this institution?

Mr. REYBURN. I cannot quote the exact figures, but I think there are many gentlemen in this House, from different sections of this State, who will testify to the fact that in their immediate neighborhood there are deserving young men and young women who are now being educated or have already been educated in this institution.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, what will the State of Pennsylvania get in return for this appropriation?

Mr. REYBURN. Mr. Speaker, I have already explained that fifty free scholarships will be given to the members of this House at each session, twenty-five every year, if this appropriation is granted to the Temple University. I have endeavored to impress that on the members of this House, and through this means poor boys and poor girls will be given a chance to equip themselves mentally to take their rightful place in the world and make something of their lives.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, this is an absolutely private school. There are many other institutions, academies, business colleges and other kinds of schools engaged in educational work all over the State that are just as worthy as this school is, and if they are and if this appropriation be granted to this institution I should like to have explained why the Temple University should be singled out from all the other good schools and institutions which I have enumerated in this State, for an appropriation. I should like to have the gentleman explain satisfactorily to the House why this one institution of all the schools of the State, including Westminster College, in Mercer county; Grove City College, Allegheny College and Beaver College, in Beaver county, and many other schools that I might mention, why are they refused State money when you propose to take one hunudred and ten thousand dollars out of our State Treasury to give to the Temple University. If that question can be answered to my satisfaction I will be ready to vote for this bill.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, the question has been asked here to-night, what does the State of Pennsylvania get in return for this proposed appropriation to the Temple University? I take it that the citizens of Philadelphia are citizens of the State of Pennsylvania, and even if they don't educate any one else excepting Philadelphia boys and girls, I think every member of this House would take a certain pride in that character of an institution and the kind of work they are doing. The State of Pennsylvania gets fifty scholarships for each session. Why do they come here for money? Because of the worthy character of the work they are doing in the way of education of worthy boys and girls. They have made their tuition charges so small that the institution has not been able to carry on the very liberal educational program which they have mapped out, and to continue in this good work they have to come here for money. Where is there another college in this State that gives the useful and practical education at the very low charges made by the Temple University? They have a medical school, they have a legal department, they have a business department and they teach other branches into which any boy or any girl in Philadelphia can go and receive great benefit. I take it that we should not be narrow about it. I don't think that because it is a Philadelphia institution which does a great deal of good that the members of this House who represent the interests of Pennsylvania should place a bar to the progress of such an institution. I take it to-night that we will be broad enough to assist this institution where a young man who is able to pay a small charge for his son or daughter can feel that he can send him or her, which he can do if he desires to send any of his children, to Temple College.

Mr. HESS. Mr. Speaker, this institution has been referred to, first as a pet institution, and second as a sectarian institution. In answer to the second reference the board of trustees of this institution is made up of Methodists, Catholics, Episcopalians, Baptists, Presbyterians, Lutherans and Friends. In reference to this institution being a pet institution, I want to say that four or five months ago I did not know a thing in the world about the Temple University, but it was my pleasure and privilege within that time to visit this institution, and from the very first day that I had the privilege of looking inside the doors of this college, I want to say to the members of this House that I have been most profoundly interested. This is the one university in which I have found practically the entire student body earning their livelihood and making their way through college by working in some adjacent lawyer's office, or in some adjacent doctor's office, or in some of the shops and great industries of the City of Philadelphia. From 1895 to 1900 this institution gave away almost 600 free scholarships, but that privilege was abused to such an extent that it became essential to discontinue this liberality, and at the present time there are more than 650 students who are paying from $5 to $25 a course. Is there any other university within the confines of this State that is giving a young man or a young woman a university education, anything like as thorough at that which is given by this institution for from $5 to $25 a course? Is there any other university in this State that is enabling practically its entire student body to make a livelihood. The young man going down to Philadelphia from the farm, and wants to study law, the faculty agrees to place him in a lawyer's office while he is studying; if a young man desires to become an engineer the faculty agrees to place him into an engineering establishment so that he can thereby put into practice the theory that he learns while he is attending this institution. Can you deny the fact that the fellow who has the stick-to-itiveness and the application to pursue that sort of a course is going to be the young man that will be heard from at some future time in this great State? I hope that you will not deny this institution the assistance that they ask for. I hope his bill will pass.

On the question.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Section 5 That section seven of said act approved February seventeenth one thousand nine hundred and six as amended by section three of said act approved June third one thousand nine hundred and seven which reads as follows

On the question.

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, having failed to secure the amendments to this bill so as to make it a fair and proper measure there remains nothing to do now except to use our best efforts to have the bill defeated as a whole. Now, Mr. Speaker and Gentleman of the House, there is no actual necessity for this legislation at this time. It is true that the primary election has been transferred to fall, but nevertheless the registration law as it now exists is ample and any change is not actually needed. Therefore, there remains no particular reason why this bill should be enacted. We have here a piece of legislation which is called for by no public reason whatsoever; it is a pure piece of partisanship and it has not been defended in its passage on second reading by any reasons whatsoever asking for its enactment, except the suggestion that it was in the interests of economy, and when the gentlemen of the House reflect from whose mouth it was that the suggestion of economy came I believe they will agree with me that that was not a suggestion which should be taken at its full value. We have a piece of legislation here that is purely partisan and for the benefit, not of the Commonwealth or the citizens of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, but for the benefit of a particular party, and I should amplify that by saying, not for a particular party, but for the particular machine dominating that party.

Let the House entirely dismiss and take away the suggestion that there is any public need for this legislation. I cannot make it too clear that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will be just as well served in its registration law if this bill fails of final passage, and I wish to declare that it is my opinion that the public morality of the State and its reputation for political fair play will be vastly enhanced if this House sizes up to its great opportunity at this moment and defeats the bill finally.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, when this bill was under consideration a few days ago on second reading we were told by a gentleman who favors the passage of this act that a certain party was coming to this Legislature cringing and asking for legislation. Now, as a matter of fact, we are not cringing and asking for any legislation but simply for fair play. You all know that nobody loves a welcher, and when a man has lost something in a fair game, if he is the right kind of a man, and gets a crowd of his friends to go with him and loses out he will stand and take his defeat and not turn around and try to blackjack him because his opponents have gotten away with him. That is what the organization in Philadelphia is asking you to do. They are begging the Legislature of the State and asking you to help them to take away the small advantage that the Keystone party has secured in Philadelphia, and they want you to help them to take away from them that advantage. I don't think for one moment that it is a fair proposition. I also know that many of the men who are talking in favor of this bill are not in favor of it at all. They have said to me, "this is a dirty piece of business, but we have got to do it." They may have to do it, but is it possible that they can make you do it also?

As far as the merit of this act is concerned it has none. That fact has been clearly shown by the action of the authorities in the City of Philadelphia. We have proof that this law need not pass, and we ask for its defeat, and when we are doing that we are not cringing and asking for the passage or the defeat of any legislation, but we are simply asking you to let the law stand as it is. You can get along very well with the law in its present shape. I will ask the gentlemen of this House to vote against this bill and to remain in favor of the bill as it now stands. It is best to go on the principle of letting well enough alone.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I think the fundamental principle involved is one that concerns the integrity of our election law, and not the advantage, or disadvantage that may arise from the passage or the defeat of this bill. In 1906 this registration law passed which provided that four men be appointed on the Board of Registrars of each division, two from the majority and two from the minority parties to be determined by the vote cast at the last preceding election, the theory, of course, being to assure active opposition, that there may be opposition between the two parties, in order to check up the actions of the other party. Now, the purpose of selecting the last preceding election is clear, and the advantage, I think, is manifest to the opposition in Pennsylvania, where the Presidential parties are not or do not represent two actively opposing parties in the various districts of the three cities covered by this act. It appears to me that the only question before us at this time is in reference to whether this registration act is an improvement over the old one and whether we will have better and fairer elections under this act or under the old act. Under the act of 1906 we were assured of the active opposition of two opposing parties. We were sure and are sure of the effect of the registrars and of the opposition on that broad representation and the effect of one party being opposed to the other, each keenly anxious to retain any advantage or benefit, and I think it would be manifest to any one that a man selected or determined upon based upon the vote of the last Presidential election will not be the active opposition, or liable to be in the majority with the coming election. I also think that the gentlemen from the portions of the State not influenced, like the three first class cities, and they can simply vote for or against this bill upon the assumption that it does not affect their community. I think we are keenly interested in maintaining the integrity of our present elections and that we are equally eager to assure ourselves that we are going to have active opposition to check up the acts of the other party represented on the Registration Board.

Mr. SHANNON. Mr. Speaker, for twenty years I have followed the Democratic party, and I want to say that the most that that party is asking in this legislation is to have representation by the majority party. I want to say to you that as far as the registration board is concerned in these three cities I don't see why the Democratic party, the party to which I belong, should be recognized in this board of registration to the detriment of the Keystone party, or rather, if I shall put it that way, to the determiment of the Independent party. I find that in the city of Philadelphia the Republican party polled one hundred and thirty thousand votes in the last election, and the Democrats, if you please, polled sixteen thousand votes, and the Keystone party polled eighty-six thousand votes. In the city of Pittsburg, the Republicans polled twenty-nine thousand votes in round numbers, the Democrats two thousand, while the Keystone party polled nineteen thousand votes. In the city of Scranton we find that the Republican party polled five thousand nine hundred and eighty votes, the Democratic party two thousand two hundred and eighty-four and the Keystone party four thousand five hundred and eighty-four, and the Democratic party from any of these three cities has not sent a Representative to this House—not one, and you gentlemen ask us to vote for a measure that the Democrats don't expect and are not entitled to. They are entitled to and don't expect this representation and I refuse to be a party to any trick legislation to deny to three hundred and eighty-two thousand people representation on the boards of registration. I am going to vote against this proposition.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Luzerne speaks very bravely when he undertakes, in this manner, to speak for the Democratic party in Pennsylvania. I am a Democrat, and claim no such privilege, but as a Democrat I do claim the right to express my opinion on this subject. The gentleman from Luzerne well knows, if he will stop to consider for a moment that the figures which he submitted a little while ago are not fair ones to go on and that next year when the President of these United States is to be elected quite a different state of affairs will prevail in the Democratic party. I speak in behalf of the passage of this bill from a Democratic standpoint because it is only fair.

Mr. AILMAN. Mr. Speaker, to me it is rather amusing to see the activity and the energy put forth by certain gentlemen who are going around the aisles of this hall trying to keep the brothers in line. It reminds me of the fellow who goes out in a shower and holds up his umbrella. He is pretty successful in keeping off the drops of rain right then, but I should like to have him hold up this umbrella underneath a torrent like the condition of the Susquehanna in the spring when the floods are on. When you have done marching up and down these aisles to keep the brothers in line and then go out to head off these four hundred thousand, the conditions will be different. I am not quit sure, but if you will allow me to drop a word of warning it may be worth your while to listen. Of course, you won't listen and you won't heed until all these United States are up in arms, and the gentleman from Delaware will take notice. The people will look over your platforms in 1912. They will scrutinize the character and the attainments and the achievements of all of your nominees and they will do it with a full appreciation of the necessity for scrutinizing whatever candidate may be put up, whoever the candidate may be or whatever the party may be that puts up the candidate, whether it is Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, or another equally conspicuous public character, and if he does not just suit their whim they will vote against any party and there will be another party or they will make a national Keystone party, and they may not call it the Keystone party, but, whatever it may be called, it will be a national protesting party against the dictations of arbitrary principles and leaders, and then he will carry every State in the Union. I don't wish to throw a straw in the path of anybody, but if the Keystone people can demonstrate to this State that they have a right to live then, even at the expense of some other party, I am here to say a thing and I would be here to gladly vote in favor of such a proposition.

Mr. LOWE. Mr. Speaker, when this bill was under consideration for second reading I think I echo the sentiments of a majority of the Democrats on this side of the House when I state that in our section of the country most of the votes cast were Democratic mugwump votes and a great part of the Democratic party was under the influence of the Republican machine in our last election.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Wetsmoreland how much of a majority there was given in Westmoreland county.

Mr. LOWE. Mr. Speaker, there were two thousand votes cast in Westmoreland county, and we had but very few Democratic votes in Westmoreland county, where we really should have had fifteen thousand.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say that that is not the record, if you please, of the county of Elk.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, the issue before you to-night is not a new issue. It is not a bill offered for the purpose of depriving any party of its right of representation on the registration board. This bill that is before you to-night is but the interpretation of the bill when it was before the House in 1906. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, it was never thought by those who advocated this bill in 1906 that this board of registrars of any division in any city of the first class would have representation except of the parties representing national issues. It was only interpreted in one city to have representation in the division boards by a municipal independent party. It has not been so interpreted in the other two cities, or that this act of Assembly shall cover this point. It has been claimed by those who are opposed to this bill that it has been advocated by those who were in favor of this law that it is proposed to enact a bill for the purpose of depriving the independent voters of Philadelphia of their right of representation, while, in the same breath and at the same time, they tell this body that they are neither Republicans nor Democrats. In fact, when the leader of the independent faction of this House, Mr. Dearden, of Philadelphia, was upon his feet a few days ago, he openly said that he was a Republican in national affairs, but that in municipal affairs he was not. He declared that he was a reformer in municipal affairs and that he was an insurgent. Now, what do they ask? They ask that in national affairs they be represented. Do they want to be represented as Democrats or Republicans, and, according to their own statements, they would have to be represented as one or the other, but at the same time in asking this they ask to be considered as independents or insurgents in municipal battles, and that they not only be represented in their Democratic principles or their Republican principles, but they ask to be represented in municipal affairs, and that they be represented as independent representatives. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, it is contrary to every principle and spirit of this law itself. It was never thought by the sponsors of this bill that this was to be a registrar law representing a division or a coterie of men. It was based upon the principles of the two great parties, and so much so, gentlemen of the House, that the representative bodies, the county committees or the ward committees or the city committees of the parties stated their preference for their party registrars. This bill represents the real principles of the personal registration bill as it was presented to this House in the extra session advocated by the then Governor of the Commonwealth, Governor Pennypacker. The opponents of this bill didn't come here as a party. Still they tell us, and they place you and myself, who are strict party men in national and local affairs, upon that party platform, and they are claiming representation there from a party standpoint, but they hold themselves aloof. They think they are of a better composition and pretend that they have a right to come in here as a mere coterie of men, without a party, without a principle, without any platform, without any standing as a national party, and ask that we give them representation in the division board of registrars. Why, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this bill that is here to-night before the House for passage gives to all parties, all coteries, all cliques, all factions, representation on the central board because in this central board, in the city of Philadelphia, there are four men, two are Republicans, and one may be a Democrat, or he may be a representative of the Democratic party, or he may be independent in politics from the two great parties, either of the Democratic or of the Republican party, and whether he be a Socialist or a Prohibitionist or what not, he is there representing that opposition to the opposing party, so you will see, therefore, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, that we have placed in this bill a safety valve to protect against fraud. The opponents of this bill have seen fit to say that this bill was brought out for the purpose of carrying on, in the city of Philadelphia, wholesale fraud in registration. Why, the very principles of the bill, the very foundation of the bill, is the having of the two great parties represented in the division board of registration, and from that board an appeal may be taken to the central board, where they are not only the two parties represented, but where also is a representation by one of the central commissioners who is connected with no party. Where can they see any fraud? Where is there any fraud possible? They speak of fraud; they speak of registration fraud. Not long ago a great case was tried in Philadelphia county pertaining to registration fraud. It was tried in Philadelphia about two weeks ago, when two of the representatives of the reform committee were placed upon trial for registration fraud and those two testified against men who were of their own party. They speak about fraud—they speak about the intent of the Republican party in Philadelphia to enter up fraudulent registration. Why, that has been their food for years. That cry has been their sustenance; that has kept them together as an organization. Those that are opposing this bill to-night make that their cry; take away from them their cry of fraud against the Democratic party and their cry of fraud against the Republican party and their cry of fraud of the platforms of both, and their issue falls. Let the great parties have the registration, and then if there be fraud let them come to us and accuse us of fraud. They are claiming all the virtue, but you remove from them this cry and there is no possibility of their being considered even as a coterie by the sensible people of any community. If they are a reform party, with their changed names of City party ideas and their Union party ideas and their Keystone party ideas, if they really are a party and not a coterie of men, if there are any great frauds in the city of Philadelphia, then let them say to this Legislature and to these legislators that they seek this kind of an act because it removes from their shoulders any responsibiliy of the frauds placed on or charged to the great parties. They don't want it, because they will find when this becomes a law, as it will undoubtedly become a law, that their cry of fraud amounts to naught. Even when the responsibility rests upon the two great national parties, or when it does, their cry of fraud will come to nothing, and the people will then know, and very well understand, that this claim of fraud by these coteries of men, these men of changing parties, these self-advancing, self-seeking political reformers, is without foundation.

Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, it is not the thought of either of the great political parties to have fraud. Fraud is the greatest burden any organization can carry; it is not wanted. We want party representation; we are a party and we have a claim to all the rights of a great party and when those who are opposing this bill arise to the dignified position of becoming a party rather than a handful of disturbers in the ranks of the two parties in municipal affairs—when they arise from that standard they can come here and ask for representation as a party. What claim have these men now? Where are their national characters? Where are their representatives in the great halls of Congress? Where is their Grant? Where is their Garfield? Where is their McKinley? Where is their Roosevelt? Where is their Jackson? Where is their Jefferson? Where is their Cleveland? They have none; they are a mere handful of malcontents. There should be no question about this bill boceming a law.

Mr. DEARDEN. Mr. Speaker, I am sorry that I feel called upon to say a word. I have tried during the whole of this discussion to keep my seat, but I find that I cannot. I want to say to the House with all due respect to my worthy friend the distinguished floor leader of the Republican party in this House, that with all my legislative experience I do not recell a single instance where so many words were employed with such plausibility that meant so little as his words meant on this occasion. I do not believe there is a man in this House to-night, even his warmest friends, who really knows what he was talking about as a matter of a good logical proposition. I desire to say to the members of this House that the people of the extra session of 1906 had in mind, when they enacted that law that there should be an equal representation on this Board, two of the dominant party, and two of the next party in majority. It goes without saying that that was contemplated in their minds, the equal representation on that Board. I do not believe that they meant that it should apply only to the interests of the so called dominant party of this State. Now every man on this floor has had more or less of a practical political experience, and is familiar with the workings and activities of the politicians. Now what was contemplated by this enacting? Now I want to say that the intention was to prevent fraud, to establish equality and to give all recognized parties an equal representation. What is the matter with the law as it now stands? Are these gentlemen of the organization afraid to let the law stand as it now is? I ask the distinguished gentleman right here to give me a frank answer. Why are you afraid of the law, and if so tell this House why? Tell me one thing, are you afraid of the law as it stands to-day, and if so, why? He cannot tell me, Mr. Speaker. He knows very well that the only motive for bringing forward this bill is because he wishes to cripple the other organization. He knows that he wants to take away from us the power of entering a burning protest against the high-handed method of this organization.

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dearden, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DEARDEN. The gentleman refused to answer my interrogation.

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to answer his question and ask him a question. We have no fear of your party. What party did you belong to in 1908 and which party will you belong to in 1912?

Mr. DEARDEN. I do not know that you will be here in 1912.

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. What was your party in 1908, your national ticket?

Mr. DEARDEN. It has been a matter of pride with me, Mr Speaker, for half a century, that I have always been a Republican

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman to what party he expects to belong in 1912?

Mr. DEARDEN. To the Republican Party, unless there shall be good and sufficient reason why I should not, and I do not doubt the possibility of there being those reasons or that at that time it might become my duty to vote for some other way. I do not want to introduce politics on this occasion, but I want to say that if Woodrow Wilson shall be put forward. I do not say that I shall vote for him, but he will set the great patriotic hearts of this country to thinking. It will mean something to the men of this country to vote for a man who stands for the highest principles and a man who will accomplish the best results for the country at large. I am a Republican and I do not want to think that through any misunderstanding on the part of that party I will be compelled to vote any other ticket, and I hope that the Republican party will be able to get away from the mischief that has beeen done in the past and enjoy a new lease of life along higher and better lines and make it possible for the men who want to be Republicans to enthusiastically support the party in all god conscience. That is what I hope to see. Now then, gentlemen, one word more. The gentleman, from Philadelphia, asks where the evidence of fraud was. He is a great lawyer, and coming from the City of Philadelphia, he has possibly had as much to do with cases of that kind as any other man at the bar and I cannot understand why he should come here and ask this intelligent body where the evidence of fraud was, when only four years ago in the City of Philadelphia there were sixty thousand fraudulent voters wiped out by the court, that is, by the commissioners themselves, sanctioned by the court. Sixty thousand fraudulent voters wiped out at one time, and yet he asked me where was the evidence of fraud. Only last November hundreds of cases of fraudulent voters were on the assessor's lists, and they were there simply because of the winking of the other eye, and I am sorry to say sanctioned by the men in control of the Republican organization in Philadelphia. Now, he has an answer to his question, and it is to stop that confounded business that I am here to protest against this measure. Why does he want two members of the dominant party and only one member from the Democratic party? It calls for three and no more and calls that two of the members shall be of the dominant party and one of the Democratic party, and he knows that they can beat the Democratic member every time. When it comes to the question of registration the Democratic member is absolutely helpless to protest. He knows it in his heart of hearts, and there is not a single man on the floor right here who does not know the truth of everything I am saying in regard to the question as to where the fraud comes from.

Mr. FREY. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The motion was seconded by the requisite number and agreed to.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 1288(Senate No. 554), as follows:

An act amending sections one four five and ten of an act entitled "An Act to provide for the personal registration of electors in cities of the third class of this Commonwealth to make such registration a condition of the right to vote in such cities and to provide penalties for violation of its provisions" approved the fifth day of March Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and six and sections three seven and twelve of said act as amended by the act entitled "An Act amending sections three seven twelve and thirteen of an act entitled "An Act to provide for the personal registration of electors in cities of the third class of this Commonwealth to make such registration a condition of the right to vote in such cities and to provide penalties for violation of its provisions" approved the fifth day of March Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and six increasing the compensation of registrars in said cities and providing for an additional registration day" approved the twelty-fifth day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and seven by further defining who may be appointed registrars increasing their terms of office changing the registration days and the form of register providing further regulations for the registration of electors and repealing all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section one of an act entitled "An Act to provide for the personal registration of electors in cities of the third class of this Commonwealth to make such registration a condition of the right to vote in such cities and to provide penalties for violation of its provisions" approved the fifth day of March Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and six which reads as follows:

"Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the County Commissioners of each county in which is located cities or a city of the third class shall not later than June fifteenth in the year one thousand nine hundred and six and every third year thereafter appoint two registrars for each election precinct or ward to serve for a term of three years and until their successors are duly qualified The said registrars must be duly qualified electors of the precinct or ward for which they are appointed and must have been residents of the city in which said precinct or ward is situated for a period of two years before their said appointment and of the precinct or ward for one year immediately preceding the same They must be sober and judicious persons of good moral character able to read intelligently and to write legibly One of the said registrars shall be a member of the party polling the highest vote within the election precinct or ward at the last preceding election and the other shall be a member of the party polling the next highest vote It is the intent of this act that at all times the Board of Registrars shall be as nearly as may be evenly divided in political faith and therefore if it appears that at any time by reason of a change in political affiliations or because of error in the appointment the Board is not so evenly divided any ten electors of the district may file a petition with County Commissioners setting forth the facts and praying that the changed or erroneous appointment may be revoked and another appointment made instead The County Commissioners shall grant a public hearing and if they find the facts to be as represented they shall give the relief asked for but no registrar shall be removed merely because his party at an election following his appointment has polled a less number of votes in the district than some other party No person who holds or is a candidate for a public office shall act as registrar

The County Commissioners shall also be empowered to remove any of the said registrars for misconduct or malfeasance in office" be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the county commissioners of each county in which is located cities or a city of the third class shall not later than June fifteenth in the year one thousand nine hundred and twelve and every fourth year thereafter appoint two registrars for each election precinct or ward to serve for a term of four years and until their successors are duly qualified The said registrars must be duly qualified electors of the precinct or ward for which they are appointed and must have been residents of the city in which said precinct or ward is situated for a period of two years before their said appointment and of the precinct or ward for one year immediately preceding the same They must be sober and judicious persons of good moral character able to read intelligently and to write legibly One of the said registrars shall be a member of the party polling the highest vote in excess of two per centum within the election precinct or ward at the last preceding presidential election for presidential elector and the other shall be a member of the party polling the next highest number of votes in excess of two percentum cast within the election precinct or ward at the last preceding presidential election for presidential elector. It is the intent of this act that at all times the Board of Registrars shall be as nearly as may be evenly divided in political faith and therefore if it appears that at any time by reason of the a change in political affiliations or because of error in the appointment the Board is not so evenly divided any ten electors of the district may file a petition with the County Commissioners setting forth the facts any praying that the changed or erroneous appointments may be revoked and another appointment made instead The County Commissioners shall grant a public hearing and if they find the facts to be as represented they shall give the relief asked for but no registrar shall be removed merely because his party at an election following his appointment has polled a less number of votes in the district than some other party No person who holds or is a candidate for a public office shall act as registrar

The County Commissioners shall also be empowered to remove any of the said registrars for misconduct or malfeasance in office" be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows

Section 2 That section three of said act as amended by section two of the act approved the twenty-fifth day of May Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and seven entitled "An Act amending sections three seven twelve and thirteen of an act entitled "An Act to provide for the personal registration of electors in cities of the third class of this Commonwealth to make such registration a condition of the right to vote in such cities and to provide penalties for violation of its provisions' approved the fifth day of March Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and six increasing the compensation of registrars in said cities and providing for an additional registration day" which reads as follows

"Section 3 The registrars of each precinct or ward shall meet at the polling-places thereof on the ninth Tuesday seventh Tuesday and third Saturday preceding every November election on the fourth Tuesday preceding every municipal or February election and on the third Saturday preceding every Spring primary and shall remain in open session from eight ante meridian to one post meridian two to six post meridian and from seven post meridian to ten post meridian of each registration day They shall on said days receive personal applications from persons who claim that they are entitled to be registered as voters They shall have power to administer oaths shall examine said applicants under oath and shall record on the registers the names of such persons as are qualified to vote as herein provided Two weeks' notice of the registration days shall be given by the registrars posting notices at the polling-places" be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows

Section 3 The registrars of each precinct or ward shall meet at the polling-place thereof in even numbered years on the ninth Thursday seventh Tuesday and fifth Saturday preceding the November election which shall be known as the Fall registration and on the third Wednesday preceding the Spring primary which shall be known as the Spring registration and in odd numbered years on the tenth Thursday ninth Tuesday and eighth Saturday preceding the November election which shall be known as the Fall registration and shall remain in open session from eight ante meridian to one post meridian two to six post meridian and from seven post meridian to ten post meridian of each registration day They shall on said days receive personal applications from persons who claim that they are entitled to be registered as voters They shall have power to administer oaths shall examine said applicants under oath and shall record on the registers the names of such persons as are qualified to vote as herein Provided Two weeks' notice of the registration days shall be given by the registrars posting notices at the polling-places Electors who did not register at Fall registration may register at Spring registration and the list shall become of no validity at the beginning of the period of Fall registration next succeeding that at which the registers were opened The old registers shall be preserved by the commissioners for at least two years after the year in which they shall have been in use

Section 3 That section four of said act approved March fifth one thousand nine hundred and six which reads as follows

"Section 4 Every person claiming the right to vote must appear in person before the registrars in the precinct or ward in which he lives prior to every general November election and if he has subsequently to the said November election moved into another precinct or ward he must appear in person before the registrars in the district to which he has thus removed in order to enable him to vote at the ensuing municipal February election unless in either case he is prevented by sickness or necessary absence from the city from appearing before the said registrars to be registered in person In either of these cases it shall be his right at any time to prevent his petition to the county commissioners and in case they shall refuse to order his name placed on the registration list the said petitioner may appeal to the court of common pleas of the district in which he resides if the said court is in session or if not in session to any judge thereof whereupon the said court shall grant a rule upon the said county commissioners to show cause why the name of the said person should not be placed upon the registers and the said court or judge thereof shall fix a day certain for the return of the said rule at which time the parties can be heard and upon the return of the said rule upon a hearing duly had if the said court or judge shall be satisfied that the facts set forth in the petition are true and that the applicant was prevented by sickness or necessary absence from the city from appearing in person before the registrars and being registered and is qualified to vote the rule may be made absolute and the registrars shall be directed to place the name of such person or persons upon the registers

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 892 (Senate No. 20), as follows:

An act to amend section one of an act entitled "An Act to provide for the removal of judges of the Supreme Superior Common Pleas and Orphans' Courts permanently disqualified by reason of physical or mental disability to perform their judicial functions and duties with half pay for their unexpired terms and the filling of vacancies caused by such removal" approved May eleventh one thousand nine hundred and one so as to allow them full pay during the balance of their terms of office and under certain conditions half pay during the remainder of their lives

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it it hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section one of an act entitled "An Act to provide for the removal of judges of the Supreme Superior Common Pleas and Orphans' Courts permanently disqualified by reason of physical or mental disability to perform their judicial functions and duties with half pay for their unexpired terms and the filling of vacancies caused by such removal" which reads as follows

"Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it it hereby enacted by the authority of the same That from and after the passage of this act whenever a judge of any of the Supreme Superior Common Pleas or Orphans' Courts of this Commonwealth by reason of physical or mental disability appears to be incapacitated for performing his judicial functions and duties and by reason of such disability has not performed such duties for the period of one year the Governor of this Commonwealth shall appoint a commission consisting of three skillful and disinterested physicians from different counties of the State to examine the said judge and if the said commission shall report that the said judge is permanently incapacitated to perform the duties of his office the Governor shall notify the said judge of such finding and if the said judge shall resign within thirty days of such notice he shall receive for the balance of the term for which he was elected during which he shall live one-half of the salary which he would have received if he had not resigned and the vacancy thus created shall be filled in the manner heretofore provided by law in case of vacancies in judicial office" be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it it hereby enacted by the authority of the same That from and after the first day of January Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and twelve whenever the Governor is of opinion based upon satisfactory medical evidence that a judge of the Supreme Superior Common Pleas or Orphans' Court is by reason of physical or mental disability permanently incapacitated for performing his judicial duties he shall notify said judge of his opinion giving the reasons therefor and if the said judge shall resign within thirty days after such notice and shall hold himself in readiness to advise with his successors and colleagues and to perform duties as special master referee auditor or examiner in such ways as he may be reasonably able to do he shall receive for the balance of the term for which he was elected if he shall so long live the salary he would have received had he remained in active service

Any judge of the Common Pleas or of the Orphans' Court so resigning who shall have served continuously prior to the date of his resignation and shall have reached the age of seventy years or any judge of the Supreme or Superior Court so resigning who shall have served continuously in judicial office for twenty years or more immediately prior to the date of his resignation and who shall hold himself in readiness to advise with his successors and colleagues and to perform duties as special master referee auditor or examiner in such ways as he may be reasonably able to do shall receive during the remainder of his life after the expiraiton of his said term one-half of the salary which he would have received had he remained in active service

Any judge of the Supreme or of the Superior Court who shall have served continuously in judicial office for twenty years or more and any judge of tre Common Pleas or Orphans' Court who shall have reached the age of seventy years and who shall have served continuously in judicial office for twenty-five years or more and who shall hold himself in readiness to advise with his successors and colleagues and to perform such duties as special master referee auditor or examiner in such ways as he may be reasonably able to do after his honorable retirement from office by expiration of term resignation or otherwise shall receive during the remainder of his life one-half of the salary which he would have received had he remained in active service

No judge while accepting the benefits of this act shall be entitled to any additional compensation for the performance of any duties assigned to him hereunder and no such judge shall be obliged to accept an assignment of duty from any court other than the court of which he was a member at the time of his retirement

Any judge wishing to take advantage of the provisions of this act may notify the Governor of his desire so to do or the Governor on his own initiative may notify any judge as provided herein

All payments under this act shall be made monthly only upon the certificate of the retired judge that he is not engaged in any remunerative business or employment or if the judge himself is unable to make one upon a certificate to that fact from a competent physician

Any judge or judges who have been retired under the act to which this is an amendment are hereby given all the benefits and advantages and are made subject to the requirement of this act to the same extent and with the same effect as if they had been retired under the provision hereof

Any vacancy created by a retirement under this act prior to the expiration of the current term that the judge is filling at the time of such retirement shall be filled as now provided by law in cases of vacancies in judicial offices

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, this is a bill that is known as the judges' retirement or judges' pension bill. The changes that this bill makes are principally two. In the first place, before a judge can take advantage, or before the State can take advantage, of the present law it is necessary for the judge to have been absent from his labors for a full year. It was inserted in the law for a very good purpose, namely, it was intended that the judge was, as a matter of fact, incapacitated, but the practical working of the law has not been to reap the benefit of it. A number of the judges, for instance, of the Orphans' Court in Philadelphia were absent from the bench, and it has happened that almost continuously there was one judge absent from the bench, so the court is continuously crippled and the county gets no benefit of the increase on the part of the judges which was provided for not many years ago. The second major change which the bill makes is that whereas under the old act a judge could receive his salary for the balance of the term for which he was elected this bill allows him one-half of the salary for the balance of his life. Now, the justification for giving the judges so much of their salary for life is a very practical one. There is possibly no more pathetic sight in our whole governmental practice that that when a man of commanding intellect begins to fail in his work, and yet because he has given the best years of his life and the best labors of his intellect and has no other work to which he may go, he is compelled either to retire from the bench or stick through the remaining years of his term, and stand for re-election at a time when he is physically unable to perform the duties of his office, and as matter of fact this causes the election of judges when they are too old to properly perform their duties. As a matter of common sense it is vastly better that the State pay this amount in salaries than to have justice retarded by reason of incompetent judicial service. It is a matter of economy that when judges reach this age that they should be retired, and for these reasons I advocate the passage of this bill.

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, this is one piece of legislation on which I can agree with my friend from Germantown. The bill that has been introduced here was offered in the Senate by Senator McIlhenny and is a bill which protects in every respect not only the competent judge who has devoted his life to legal work but it also protects the public. You will see from the terms of this bill that no judge of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania can get the benefit of this act unless he becomes so incapacitated that he cannot go on with his duties, or unless he has occupied a position on the bench for twenty-five years, or in the higher courts twenty years, which is the longest term he can ocupy, and has reached the age of seventy years. He cannot receive the benefits under this act unless he takes the place of a special examiner for the court. This is in no sense a pension bill, it is merely a bill compensating a judge for his work and at the same time relieving him of the heavier duties of his work as a jurist. I hope, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, that this bill will receive practically the unanimous support of this whole House. It cannot at any time cover the cases of more than two or three men of the whole judiciary of the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, it strikes me that if there has been a need in the past for a law of the kind suggested by this bill necessity for it was removed when the recent judges' salary law was enacted. Under the present judges retirement law, with the salaries as they are to-day, retired Common Pleas judges will receive from a minimum of $3,000 up to a maximum figure of $5,500 a year, a fair compensation for men, as I look at it, who may become incapacitated from the performance of their judicial duties.

Mr. AILMAN. Mr. Speaker, when we adjourn we will certainly feel satisfied that at least one class of the citizens of this State have been well taken care of, and that is the judges of the courts. Some of us thought we had gone about the limit when the judges' salary bill was passed. There were several gentlemen who had some consideration for another class of men who served this country faithfully and who never thought, or saw, or heard, or dreamed of a compensation such as the judges have been getting, to say nothing of the compensation in the future, and yet their claim upon the tender sympathy of this House was utterly disregarded and the bills were rejected in committee. I refer to the soldiers' pension bill. It is rather too much to come and ask us to vote for furnishing money for the men who are certainly well paid for their services, and the rest of us in every walk of life will have no claim upon the State for support and yet these men who gave the very best part of their lives for the country are turned down.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

ADDRESS BY HON. JOHN P. ELKIN.

The SPEAKER. Before proceeding with the next bill I desire to say to the members of this House that we are honored by the presence of four distinguished members of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. They are all young men, with no intention of retiring, and therefore this bill is no wise has any effect upon them. I had the distinguished honor to serve in this House with the Hon. John P. Elkin, of Indiana, who will say a few words to you.

Mr. John P. Elkin. Members of the Legislature of Pennsylvania, ladies and gentlemen here assembled, this is like returning to old scenes. I remember some twenty-six years ago when as a young member I sat to the left and did myself the honor of following the leadership of Bob Dearden. In these times we hear a great amount of criticism about the public bodies of to-day, but my friends I do not think you are a bit worse than we were in 1885 and 1887. I believe myself that the world is growing better. I believe that men and women are better to-day than they were at any time in the world's history and that the trend of mankind is upward and not downward. I believe in Pennsylvania, in her men and her women. I love her hills and her valleys. I think myself that we have the greatest State in all the sisterhood of States in this country. If I were suddenly thrown upon the citizenship of the United States and had to make my choice in which State I would place that citizenship, unhesitatingly I would choose to be a citizen of the grand Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

We just stopped in after having enjoyed a dinner with the Governor of the Commonwealth to look upon these scenes once more and we happen to be here when you were talking upon the bill which you just voted down. I want to say for my brothers on the bench that we have no intention of retiring and do not care what action you take. This is a question for you to decide and not us. I do want to commend one piece of legislation that this Legislature has considered, and I want to commend it with all the force of which I am capable. That is the legislation you have passed looking to giving good roads to the people of Pennsylvania. Think of it! An imperial Commonwealth with nearly eight millions of people rich beyond compare of the greatest and grandest nation known to civilization, and yet in three-fourths of the countries of the Commonwealth we have the old dirt roads of a century ago. That is not in keeping with the spirit and the purpose of Pennsylvania as I read it now, and I am glad the Legislature has paved the way to give the State of Pennsylvania good roads. The old Romans knew what it was to have good roads and when Napoleon wanted to conquer the world he set his engineers to carve a highway across the Alps and then employed thirty thousand Frenchmen and three years of time to cut this way across the Alps. It stands to-day as a monument to his genius.

I would like to see good roads in every part of Pennsylvania, and when the time comes and the people have a vote on the question of providing for a loan of fifty millions of dollars, I shall give my vote and my voice in favoring that proposition.

I want to commend your Speaker. I sat beside him twenty-five years ago and he was a good fellow then, and he does not seem to have lost any of his good fellowship in the years that have passed.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

The SPEAKER. The next bill under the special order is House Bill No. 748, bills on third reading, on page 16 of Friday's calendar.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 748, entitled:

An act providing that furniture and household goods leased or hired shall not be levied upon or sold on distress or other proceedings for collection of rent

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I object to this bill on the same ground that I did to a bill in the early part of the session which provided for special exemption for pool tables. If this bill would give protection to the poor man's furniture there might be some reason for the passage of the bill, but this bill merely provides protection for furniture belonging to some one else, furniture that is either leased or hired. I do not think that it should become a law or placed on our statutes a provision exempting certain properties. As I said before, if we want a chattel mortgage, then let us have it, but not a law of this kind.

Mr. Wm. WARD, JR. Mr. Speaker, there is no other member in the House who has a more generous spirit than the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Bentley, who introduced this bill, and it is my opinion that some one imposed upon that generous spirit and had him introduce this bill. This bill very carefully takes care of the poor and struggling installment man who sells his goods on credit and at a liberal price, but with a high profit and if the man defaults in the payments his goods are returned to the installment man. I am opposed to this bill and I ask unanimous consent at this time to insert an amendment.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objections.

Mr. Wm. WARD, JR. Mr. Speaker, if there is any objection to the offering of this amendment, I do not want to ask for the committee of the whole for the purpose of considering it, but I am absolutely opposed to this measure. It is, as my colleague from Delaware says, a measure giving preference to one set of men. These men are now amply protected under our laws, more than anybody else. I hope the House will vote this measure down.

Mr. V. G. ROBINSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to enter my protest as well against this bill.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. WM. WARD, JR. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed indefinitely.

Mr. V. G. ROBINSON. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Mr. KLUMPP. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 773, file folio 4431, from page 20, Friday's calendar, bills on third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 773, entitled:

An act to repeal an act approved the seventeenth day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven entitled "An Act to extend the provisions of an act to prohibit the issuing of licenses within certain boroughs in the counties of Armstrong Potter Indiana and Perry or within two miles of the same in the counties in which such boroughs are located approved the twenty-seventh day of March one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six to the boroughs of West Newton and Mount Pleasant in the county of Westmoreland" in so far as the same relates to the borough of West Newton in the county of Westmoreland

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BOYD. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Boyd.

Mr. BOYD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Klumpp permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KLUMPP. Yes, sir.

Mr. BOYD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to know whether or not the notice of the intent to repeal this bill was published according to law.

Mr. KLUMPP. Yes, sir, here is the notice, and here are the affidavits.

Mr. BOYD. When was the notice published?

Mr. KLUMPP. Before the bill was introduced.

Mr. BOYD. How many times and on what dates?

Mr. KLUMPP. Four times and on four successive dates.

Mr. BOYD. Beginning with when?

Mr. KLUMPP. April fourth.

Mr. BOYD. When was the bill introduced?

Mr. KLUMPP. On April twenty-eighth, I think.

Mr. BOYD. That is worse yet. It was introduced on April nineteenth, as you will see if you will turn to the calendar, and that makes it about fourteen days before it was advertised. I would like to inquire further, in what papers was this advertised?

Mr. KLUMPP. In two papers.

Mr. BOYD. Published where?

Mr. KLUMPP. In the county of Westmoreland.

Mr. BOYD. In what particular town?

Mr. KLUMPP. One was published by Mr. Shoop's paper, the other by the Pennsylvania Argots.

Mr. BOYD. In what particular towns?

Mr. KLUMPP. Mr. Speaker, I know what the gentleman is driving at, and I wish to state at this time this notice was not published in the paper of that borough, for the reason that the paper is not responsible. The borough had some improvements to go through and there was a bond issued of fifty thousand dollars for the improvements in that borough and it was left to the party in that borough to do the advertising. They failed to publish it according to law, and the consequence is that the bond issue is invalid. They have to go all over the same election because that paper is not responsible, and that is the reason we did not publish this notice in the paper of that borough.

Mr. BOYD. Mr. Speaker, don't you know that the law requires you to advertise in the borough—don't you know that to be the fact.

Mr. KLUMPP. No.

Mr. BOYD. I will read the law to you.

(A section of the law bearing on the subject was read).

The SPEAKER. The House has nothing to do with the bond issue of that borough.

Mr. KLUMPP. I wish to state further that I have here a petition signed by five hundred registered voters in that borough; it is late and hot and I don't wish to take up the time of the House with all this material.

Mr. BOYD. Don't you know that the law requires that the bill must be published thirty days before it is presented?

Mr. KLUMPP. It was.

Mr. BOYD. It was not; the record shows that it was introduced here on April 19th: it was reported out on the 26th. It was advertised in two papers, neither of which paper was in the same borough. It was only advertised in Mr. Shopp's paper on April 4th, and in the other paper mentioned, and it was not more than fifteen days before it was introduced here. I desire to ask further, and again, was it published at all in that borough?

Mr. KLUMPP. I did answer that, and I said that it was not, and gave a reason why it was not.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. BOYD. I arise to a point of order, and my point is, that this bill is out of order, being a repeal of a local law, and because it was not advertised properly according to law.

The SPEAKER. The Chair submits the question before the House is a Constitutional question and decides that the point of order is well taken.

The bill is out of order.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Mr. BENTLEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up House Bill No. 806 from page 24, Friday's calendar, bills on third reading:

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 806, entitled:

An act to repeal an act entitled "An act to prohibit the sale of intoxicating drinks in the township of Ohio county of Beaver" approved the twenty-seventh day of March Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six in so far as the same may apply to or affect what is now the borough of Midland

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Beaver, Mr. Baldwin.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. I would like to interrogate the gentleman who introduced this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Bentley, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BENTLEY. Yes, sir.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if it is not a fact that the subject matter of this bill is wholly local?

Mr. BENTLEY. Yes, sir, it is.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Is it not a fact that the gentleman introduced this bill by request?

Mr. BENTLEY. No, sir.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Will the gentleman inform the House why he, a member from Washington, introduced this bill?

Mr. BENTLEY. Because I pay taxes and am interested in property in Ohio township, Beaver County. I have an affidavit here, signed by the judge of election in the town of Midland. There was held an election on the 16th day of January and there were 108 votes cast who voted in favor of the repeal of this bill, and seven voted against it and I have here the affidavit of the judge of election. I also have a letter here from the president of the Crucible Steel Company, which I beg leave to read.

The letter was read as follows:

CRUCIBLE STEEL COMPANY OF AMERICA.

Pittsburg, Pa., May 16, 1911.

Hon. C. Bentley,
House of Representatives,,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Sir:—We regret very much to learn, after thorough investigation of the subject, that the Prohibition Law applying to Midland leaves very much to be desired in the way of orderly government for that locality, and we were reluctantly forced to wire you to-day, as per the following copy:

"After very careful and special investigation of conditions we withdraw our letter of February seventh, to Arthur McKean, opposing repeal of Act prohibiting sale of liquor in the Midland district, and urge in the interest of orderly local government that the sale of liquor be permitted under proper regulations."

Trusting you will help to bring about the repeal of this Act, which we believe will enable the local government to, in a measure, control the liquor traffic at Midland, we are,

Yours very truly.

C. C. RAMSEY, President.

Dictated by Ramsey, but signed in his absence.

Mr. BENTLEY. (continuing). Now, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, the people of this borough voted 101 to 7 in favor of this repeal; the Crucible Steel Company, with the great holdings of that corporation amounting about eight million dollars in that locality, is it not reasonable, that they should have this law repealed.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, this borough is located in one corner of Ohio Township. Does it not strike the members of this House strangely that the machinery of this House should be stopped and that the wheels of this Commonwealth should be halted in order that it might be possible that a license be granted to this little town of midland. There are many members of this House who have bills on the calendar in which they are interested. What do you think of this kind of action—that this little bill should be given the right of way when there are many other bills waiting to be acted upon which are permitted to fall by the wayside. Does it not seem strange that the power of the Rules Committee in this House should be invoked in order that this measure should be brought out at this time. It must be very important to somebody that this prohibitory law should be repealed. I want to say that the people who live there are mostly of foreign extraction. The intelligent people in the township were not consulted at all. If the better people would have been consulted the result would have been different and there would be a majority report against this repeal. I submit that it is unfair to repeal a prohibitory law as a majority of the people who live in this community were not at all consulted. This bill will be voted against by most of the members in this House from Beaver County. It seems strange that if the people of Beaver or the members of Beaver County wanted this bill passed that they would not present it to this House or that the people of Beaver County would not ask their members to present it. I have voted on every bill in which the members of Philadelphia County were agreed on, and we ask that you support this objection to this bill under present conditions. We object to this bill and I sincerely trust that the bill will not be agreed to.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I am really surprised that the gentleman from Beaver, Mr. Baldwin, criticises the gentleman from Washington on account of his being interested in this repealing act. If my memory serves me right it has been only a few weeks ago when we were consulting with the members of Allegheny County, and when the gentleman from Beaver County sought to have a Lexow Committee appointed to investigate conditions in Allegheny County, as well as the conditions in this cleanly city of Harrisburg. We have been listening for hours to the voices of certain members here praying that a listening ear be given to the people interested in certain bills. What have we in this case? One of these same voices now is raised against a verdict of the great majority of the people that have already registered their votes in favor of this repealer, 101 to 7, and yet that same voice which plead for the listening voices of the people declares you have not seen me interfere with other communities. There is reason—there is logic in everything, and it seems to me, irrespective of the fact as to whether or not we are interested in the people who are interested in this bill that we have a right to listen to what the majority of the people of the borough of Midland have said under the provisions made by the laws, and we have a right to support their views.

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman to explain to the House why he didn't vote on the local option bill?

Mr. ALLEN. Because I don't believe in that kind of local option.

Mr. WALLACE. Mr. Speaker, it does seem certainly a little bit strange that we have people in this Legislature coming here and putting so very much stress upon the question of local self-government when the end to be obtained is not in favor of the abolishing of the liquor traffic but in favor of bringing it in. I want to submit to you, very briefly one question. I believe that it is a mighty significant thing that the people of Beaver County have been sending members to this Legislature for a great many years who have been opposed to the repeal of this particular act, and when they come here they refuse to introduce such a bill. In all fairness to the people of Pennsylvania when they are crying and demanding the right of self-government in hundreds of little hamlets in this Commonwealth. Why will you take up one or two of these little communities and say, "the will of the people in this particular locality is supreme" and deny to all the other localities of this great Commonwealth that same right. That is a significant fact. The people of Beaver County have some rights in these premises and are you going to deny them any say in the matter? Are you going to disregard what they have been doing for a great many years? This Legislature is virtually pledged against the repeal of this act and I think you should give consideration to those people in that locality.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, in behalf of this bill I simply wish to remind you gentlemen that it is but another enactment of the same statute that was passed here a few weeks ago in favor of the borough of Rankin in the County of Allegheny, wherein the same procedure was gone through with and the same result secured by the election. Why then should not the borough of Midland under similar circumstances have the benefit of the same statute. Of course, the great trouble with my friend from Beaver is, that of late—and I am sorry to say it—he has been neglecting his duties. You gentlemen remember that it was but a few weeks ago smiling and embarrassed and blushing as a happy young father he received from the gentle hand of our Speaker a beautiful baby carriage. The trouble with the gentleman from Beaver is, that since the House presented him with a baby carriage he is so interested in that baby and that carriage and so disinterested in his duties that he does not know what the people really want. And then, again, we all know that the people of Beaver are of a peaceable and law-abiding type and they don't disobey any mandate, and it was only last Friday afternoon that we saw their lawful representatives disobeying the laws of this Commonwealth, and when the gentleman says that the people don't want this bill he evidently misstates the fact and it is not fair for the vast majority in his county. I ask you to vote for this bill as it ought to become a law.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz.:

Will the House agree to the motion?

Whereupon, a division was called for 77 gentlemen voting in the affirmative and 58 in the negative, the motion was agreed to.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 833, as follows:

An act to revive and continue in force the provisions of an act entitled "An Act to extend the time during which corporations may hold and convey the title to real estate heretofore bought under execution or conveyed to them in satisfaction of debts and now remaining in their hands unsold" approved the twenty-second day of May Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight in so far as they relate to banking companies

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the provisions of an act entitled "An Act to extend the time during which corporations may hold and convey the title to real estate heretofore bought under execution or conveyed to them in satisfaction of debts and now remaining in their hands unsold" approved the twenty-second day of May Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight which reads as follows

"Whereas Owing to the depreciation in the value of real estate many corporations have been obliged to purchase real estate under executions or take conveyances thereof in order to save their claims thereon and by their charters are authorized to hold the same only for a limited time and owing to such continued depression in prices have been unable to sell and dispose of the same therefore

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the time during which all corporations are authorized by law and their charters to hold and convey real estate acquired by them under execution or in satisfaction of debts be and the same is hereby extended to all property heretofore bought and now held by such corporations for and during a further period of five years from and after the expiration of the time during which as aforesaid they are now so authorized to hold and convey the same" be and the same are hereby revived continued and extended in so far as they relate to banking companies for a period of five years from and after the passage of this act Provided however that nothing in this act shall aply to railroad right of ways

BILL ON THIRD READING.

The SPEAKER. The next bill under the special order is House Bill No. 861, on page 32 of Friday's calendar.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 861, entitled:

An act providing for and regulating the reporting to the State Department of Health by physicians of occupational disease and fixing penalties for violation thereof

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the author of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Abbott, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ABBOTT. I will.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like the sponsor of this bill to make some explanation of it.

Mr. ABBOTT. Mr. Speaker, the only purpose of this bill is for the department to keep in touch with any diseases which are caused by a man's occupation. That is all there is to this bill. The doctor attending the man has to report to the department. The department asks for it, and the American Federation of Labor has endorsed it. I hope the bill will pass.

NAYS—2.

Martin,	Maurer

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

The SPEAKER. The next bill under the special order is House Bill No. 863, on page 32 of Friday's calendar.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 863, entitled:

An act laying a State tax on estates passing either by will or under the intestate laws of this Commonwealth or by deed grant bargain or sale or intended to take effect after the death of the grantor or bargainer and providing for the collection thereof

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the author of this bill.

Mr. HOWARD. I will.

Mr. MATT. I would like the author of this bill to give us some light.

Mr. HOWARD. Mr. Speaker, this is a commission bill placing a direct inheritance tax on estates passing to direct heirs.

Mr. MATT. Will you please tell the House in what amount?

Mr. HOWARD. One per cent.

Mr. MATT. A dollar on a hundred?

Mr. HOWARD. Yes, sir.

Mr. MATT. Ten dollars on a thousand?

Mr. HOWARD. Yes, sir.

Mr. MATT. In case there is no will made, then what?

Mr. HOWARD. I understand it carries just the same.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. I would like to say to the House why I am in favor of this bill. At the present time we have a personal property tax which is very largely evaded in our State. I have no doubt that there is only from thirty to forty per cent. of this tax paid in Pennsylvania. That is a five-mill tax on land. Persons owning personal property in the nature of securities do not return them. Those willing to tell the truth pay the full tax, and those that are willing to misrepresent the facts do not pay the tax. I believe we should have a direct inheritance tax. If we put a very strong inheritance law on our statute books the next Legislature can deal with the subject intelligently. This only calls for a tax of one per cent., and I believe it would be wise to pass this measure. The next Legislature can either take it off or keep it on as they see fit.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

Shall the bill pass finally?

An act authorizing the ascertainment award levy assessment and collection of the costs damages and expenses of municipal improvements including the opening widening straightening extending grading paving macadamizing curbing or otherwise improving of roads streets lanes alleys or parts thereof completed or in course of completion and also the costs damages and expense of the construction of any sewer or drain completed or now in process of completion providing for the ascertainment levy and collection of damages and benefits therefor from property peculiarly benefited where under existing laws or ordinances private property could not be assessed for such benefits and constituting such benefits a lien upon the property upon which they are assessed and authorizing the completion of such improvements now in progress

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That whenever heretofore since the first day of July Anno Domini nineteen hundred and nine any municipal corporation of the State has by act or acts ordinance or ordinances resolution or resolutions contract or contracts opened widened extended straightened graded paved curbed macadamized or otherwise improved any road street lane or alley or part thereof or constructed any sewer drain or branch or part thereof and in effecting such improvements has taken injured or destroyed private property or furnished materials and labor or incurred expense and properties in the neighborhood have been by such improvement or improvements peculiarly and specially benefited but owing to the act or acts of Assembly under the authority of which any or all of the ordinances resolutions or contracts for said improvements either in its or their entirety or any part or parts thereof were passed or made having subsequently been declared unconstitutional or is or are otherwise invalid or where any ordinance or ordinances authorizing and directing such improvements is or are for any reason defective or invalid or where for any reason private property cannot be assessed for peculiar special benefits resulting from such improvements now by this act such improvements are made valid and binding and such municipality of the State is hereby authorized to ascertain award levy assess and collect the damages cost and expense of such improvement and ascertain and assess the benefits therefor in manner following to wit

First Said municipality of the State or any person or persons interested may at any time after such work or labor has been done or materials furnished property taken or damage done present its her his or their petition in any court of common pleas of the proper county setting forth briefly the character of such improvement and that the costs expenses and damages incurred have not been collected or fully paid to said municipality and praying the court to appoint three disinterested freeholders to ascertain and determine the costs damages and expenses of said improvements and any damages done to private property by reason thereof and to fairly and ratably assess the said damages costs and expenses upon the property benefited and to make report thereof to the court

Second Upon the presentation of such petition the court shall direct notice thereof to be given to all parties interested by an advertisement inserted at least three times in one or more newspapers published in the county in which the municipality is situate one of which newspapers may be printed in the German language and by at least ten hand bills posted ten days before the hearing in conspicuous places along the line of the improvement and the vicinity thereof that on a certain day therein to be named and not less than ten days after the last insertion of the advertisement in the newspapers the court will place upon and decide said application and that any person interested therein may be heard in reference thereto

Third Upon said named day the court shall unless some good objection is made thereto appoint three disinterested freeholders as viewers Any two of said viewers may decide all questions and in all respects have all the powers discretion and jurisdiction of all three viewers but all three viewers shall act unless in case of sickness or other unavoidable cause and in case of a vacancy the court may appoint a substitute at any time before the first meeting of the viewers

Fourth Upon said appointment being made said viewers shall be sworn or affirmed by some person authorized to administer oaths well and truly perform the duties imposed upon them and true report to make to the court

Fifth It shall be the duty of said viewers after being sworn or affirmed to fix a day hour and place when and where they will hear all parties in interest of which meeting notice shall be given by at least three insertions in the newspapers designated in the second clause of section one of this act and by at least ten handbills posted in conspicuous places along the line of improvement and in the vicinity thereof the last of the said insertions and the posting of said handbills shall be at least ten days before the meeting Ten days' notice of the time and place of said meeting shall also be given to persons owning property along the lines of such improvement resident in such municipality by personal service of a copy of said notice or by leaving the same at the residence of such owner with an adult member of his family and making known the contents thereof The viewers shall visit the improvement and personally inspect the same and the properties in the neighborhood supposed to be damaged or benefited thereby

At the time and place fixed they shall hear all parties interested and their witnesses with power to adjourn from time to time and after a full hearing on all questions before them they or any two of them shall ascertain and determine the damages to each property for property taken injured or destroyed by such improvement and award such damages to each particular property They shall also ascertain and determine the total damages costs and expenses of such improvement and these damages costs and expenses they shall equitably and fairly assess upon the properties benefited which assessment shall not exceed the benefit peculiarly resulting to each property from the improvement and the total assessment or benefits shall in no case exceed the total damages costs and expenses of the improvement If property peculiarly benefited to the extent of the total damages costs and expenses cannot be found the viewers shall assess such excess or damages costs and expenses over and above peculiar benefits upon the municipality under whose authority the improvement was effected and the same shall be paid out of its treasury The viewers shall thereupon prepare a report together with a plan of the properties damaged and benefited and in said report shall set forth the character of the improvement the total amount of the damages costs and expenses thereof a schedule of the damages awarded to and the benefits assessed upon each particular property with the name or names of the owner or reputed owner of each parcel and what amount if any of damages costs and expenses not assessed as peculiar benefits to private property is assessed upon the municipality

Sixth Said viewers shall then give notice by three insertions in the same newspapers as already designated that their report is ready and that on a day certain therein to be named and not earlier than ten days after the last insertion they will present the same to court that in the meantime said report will remain at a place to be designated in said notice subject to inspection and exception If any exceptions are filed the viewers shall afford the exceptions a hearing on the same and make such changes and modifications in their report as justice and equity may require

Seventh On the day named if no exceptions are filed or if exceptions be filed upon a subsequent day to be fixed by them the viewers or any two of them shall file their report in the proper court of common pleas and thereupon the said court shall confirm the same nisi and unless exceptions be filed within thirty days the report shall be confirmed absolutely subject to appeals pending When said report is filed notice thereof shall be given by one publication in the newspapers already designated Said notice shall state the date of filing of the report and shall contain a schedule of the damages and benefits as shown therein and shall further state that unless exceptions be filed thereto within thirty days from the date of filing the said report will be confirmed absolutely subject to appeals pending The said court shall have power to confirm and report to modify change or otherwise correct the same or the assessments made therein or refer the report back to the same or new viewers with like power as to any new or further report within thirty days after said report is filed in court any party interested may file exceptions to the same or within said period of thirty days the said municipality or any party whose property is taken injured or destroyed by said improvement may appeal and demand a trial by jury according to the course of the common law

Eighth When the court has made its final decree confirming the said report or fixing the amount of the assessments in each case the sums thus ascertained as benefits shall if properly filed as a municipal lien or sued within six months be a lien upon the property assessed and shall be due and payable to the treasurer of the proper municipality within thirty days from the date of said decree and the clerk of the proper court on the making of such decree shall deliver to said treasurer a certified copy of the decree and report Said assessments shall bear interest beginning at the expiration of thirty days from the date of said decree If not paid within said time the said treasurer shall deliver the same to the city solicitor or the attorney of said municipality who shall proceed to collect the same by an action of assumpsit or by filing lien therefor under the general laws of the Commonwealth in such case made and provided and proceeding thereon to collect the same

Ninth All the costs of the proceedings including advertisements handbills and costs of service shall be paid by the proper municipality and any excess of damages costs and expenses over and above the benefits as determined by the final decree of the court shall also be paid out of the treasury of the proper municipality

Tenth Proceedings under this act shall be confined to the ascertainment award assessment levy and collection of damages benefits expenses and costs of effecting such improvements in the construction of which private property has been entered upon and actually physically appropriated to public use or otherwise injured or destroyed or has been benefited thereby or for the construction of which said improvement contract has been made materials furnished and work and labor done within eighteen months prior to the date of approval of this act Power is hereby given to the said municipalities of the State to complete such improvements now in course of completion and upon such completion as aforesaid to proceed for the ascertainment award assessment levy and collection of damages and benefits caused thereby

Eleventh If upon any appeal or trial in the case of any person or persons whose property has been taken injured or destroyed the result shall be that the appellant or appellants recovers or recover less damages for property taken injured or destroyed than he or she or they was or were awarded by the viewers from which award said appeal or appeals were taken then the court may thereupon order and compel the municipality to repay to the several property owners assessed for benefits their ratable proportion of so much of said assessment as were made by reason of said excess of damages

Twelfth This act shall in no event be construed as depriving any person of a right of trial by jury where such a right has been conferred by the Constitution of this State but such right shall be demanded in the time fixed by the sveenth clause of section one of this act

Thirteenth Any party interested in any assessment of benefits Supreme court as the pending controversy may warrant Provided That such appeal be taken within one year from the date of final judgment but such appeal shall not be a supersedeas unless taken within thirty days after such judgment

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. KLINE. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 800 (House No. 265), on third reading, entitled:

An act relating to roads providing for the election and appointment of township supervisors in second class townships defining their powers duties and limitations relating to road tax and the expenditure thereof abolishing the work tax defining certain duties of the clerk of court fixing the penalties for violation of this act and making an appropriation to carry out its provisions be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. WOLF. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr HERBST. Mr. President, this is the township roads bill. In other words, this carries an appropriation that the State owes the townships by contract and I want to be assured on the floor of the Senate by the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee that this bill is not to be strangled by recommittal.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Kline, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KLINE. Mr. President, with pleasure. I will state for the benefit of the Senator from Berks that it is not the object to strangle this bill, but to offer amendments, in which I think the Senator from Berks will heartily concur.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, I think the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee could just as well offer those amendments on the floor of the Senate and be done with it.

Mr. HERBST. Mr. President, will you allow me to interrogate the Senator from Allegheny? Will we save time by recommitting the bill?

Mr. KLINE. Mr. President, there is plenty of time for enacting this piece of legislation. The bill will be re-reported to the Senate to-day.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 804 (House No. 666), entitled:

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McILHENNY. Mr. President, I understand that if this bill should pass it will only affect the city of Philadelphia, but it is a very fair sample of legislation which is certainly unnecessary and palpably unwise. The Board of Health of Philadelphia has now the power to make regulations as to drainage and plumbing and it seems to me unnecessary that the State should put on the Statute books a long and complicated act specifying exactly what size pipes and size drain should be used in the city of Philadelphia. I think it had much better be left to the public health authorities of that city.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, this plumbers bill was agreed upon by the master plumbers of the city of Philadelphia and the journeymen plumbers and acquiesced in by Dr. Neff, who is at the head of the Bureau of Public Health of Philadelphia. I do not see a single thing in this bill that will not be useful to everybody who is affected by it. I hope the Senate will pass this bill.

Mr. McILHENNY. Mr. President, I have had a great many letters from master plumbers with reference to the bill. While Dr. Neff may have acquiesced in it he told me himself he thought the bill was unwise, as the Board of Health applies the rules that were adopted from time to time. If any change would become necessary we would have to wait two years until we could amend the bill and if we leave it as it is now the Board of Health can make any new regulations and the conditions could be met at once. I think it unwise.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. McIlhenny.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. McIlhenny, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McILHENNY. Mr. President, certainly.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I would like to ask him if he has had any letter or word from Dr. Neff within the past ten days.

Mr. McILHENNY. Mr. President, no; I have talked to Dr. Neff but not about this bill. It is four or five weeks since I have spoken to him about this bill.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I would like to state for the benefit of the Senate that this bill has all been rearranged and acquiesced in by all hands concerned within the last ten days.

Mr. McILHENNY. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Vare.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Vare, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. McILHENNY. Mr. President, I would like to ask him if he does not think the present arrangement that we have in Philadelphia is very satisfactory

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I am not capable of answering a question that applies to plumbing. I am not a master plumber nor a mechanic, neither am I connected with the Board of Health. I base my judgment on the facts that I got from those three sides. This bill was very unsatisfactory to me when it first was introduced. I would not vote for the bill and would not support it, and in fact I was very much interested in seeing the bill defeated when it was first introduced. It was afterwards arranged satisfactorily to the Board of Health, to the master plumbers and to the journeymen plumbers and if they are all satisfied and think it is a good bill I do not know why anybody in the Senate ought to object to it.

Mr. McILHENNY. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator further.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Vare, permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. McILHENNY. Mr. President, the Senator is close to the people of Philadelphia I would like to ask him if he has heard any reasonable complaint against the present arrangement in Philadelphia.

Mr. VARE. Mr. President, I have not heard any complaint of any kind.

Mr. McILHENNY. Mr. President, do not let us change that law simply because some one wants it unless there is some reason for it

Mr. WILBERT. Mr. President, two years ago I introduced a bill similar to this for cities of the second class, by request of the Health Department in the city of Pittsburg, the master plumbers, as well as the others, and it has worked out very satisfactorily, and our people there would not do without it. It is no experiment at all, because we have tried it, and on the strength of it being such a success there the matter was taken up in the city of Philadelphia. I know it to be a fact, and that is why the bill was introduced at this time.
